Lewis Ready To Bargain With South's Producers

Voices Willingness Soon After Court Order; Talks Are Set for Monday

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

John L. Lewis late yesterday said he was ready "forthwith" to comply with a court order requiring him to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association.

And shortly afterward, representatives of mine operators announced negotiations would be resumed Monday at 11 a. m. at the Statler Hotel.

The order, handed down yesterday morning by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, was the second now confronting Lewis and his United Mine Workers. The other, also from Goldsborough, prohibits the UMW from striking over the issue of miners' pensions.

Suggests Three Times

In his acceptance of yesterday's order, made public through UMW Attorney Welly K. Hopkins, Lewis suggested a meeting between miner and owner representatives today at 3 p. m., Sunday at 3 p. m. or Monday at 11 a. m.

"The mine workers and its officers," the statement said, "stand ready to compiy forthwith with the provisions of said order.

"The mine workers, with equal representation, are ready forthwith to meet and bargain collectively in joint conference with the Southern Coal Producers Association and such other coal operators, associations or employers as may be in attendance to negotiate a successor contract to the National Bituminous Coal Wage Agreement of 1947."

In handing down his order, Justice Goldsborough made it clear he did so with some reluctance. Even while he ordered Lewis and the UMW to bargain with the Southern Association, he said the association "may need destroying, so far as I know."

And he made the suggestion that all coal producers in the country jointly hire one salaried man to deal with Lewis year after year.

Action which resulted in the order was brought under the Taft-Hartley Act by Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board. He charged Lewis and the UMW with refusing to bargain with the operators after Lewis walked out of the first bargaining session when he found Joseph E. Moody, head of the Southern Association, there to represent it.

Fined Twice for Contempt

Justice Goldsborough, in 1946 and this year, fined Lewis and his union for contempt of court when they continued to strike after he had issued orders to go back to work while difficulties with the operators were being ironed out.

Yesterday Goldsborough, speaking extemporaneously and calmly for 25 minutes, declared labor had the right to "consolidate its interests" but that "when any move-

Indians Beat Nats in 15th

A five-run barrage in the fifteenth inning broke up a brilliant pitchers' duel and gave the Cleveland Indians a 5-0 triumph over Washington before 29,555 fans last night at Griffith Stadium.

Bob Feller and Micky Haefner pitched scoreless ball until both were lifted for pinch-hitters in the 12th. Cleveland's Bob Muncrief and Washington's Tom Ferrick continued to hurl shutout ball until the fifteenth. Then the Indians cut loose against Ferrick and Dick Welteroth to end the long contest.

Worse Floods Due Tuesday In Northwest

Columbia Nearing 6-Inch Higher Crest; Vanport Bodies Found

Portland, Oreg., June 4 (AP).—The mighty Columbia was rising in new fury today.

A crest above that of last Tuesday's was in the making. The level here will be, by next Tuesday, a half foot above the previous.

Meanwhile the flood-shattered city of Vanport yielded its first bodies today.

The bodies of two boys, one 5, the other 18 months were found in the debris of the wrecked city.

The Red Cross has listed 13 people unaccounted for in Vanport. The death toll was now 26 Earlier, a man drowned as five bridges went out in Idaho near the Montana border.

Elmer Fisher, river forecaster, said the 30.5 feet at Portland and 30.8 at Vancouver, Wash., may not be the crest. He said he lacked information to go beyond Tuesday in his forecast.

The blow to the hopes of thousands of weary dike workers was part of a vast flood picture spread from Montana's western edge to the sea and extending from the Columbia north to Canada's roaring Fraser River.

No one could say what the new high level might mean. Dikes have been "critical" for days. Water was so close to the top at Clatskanie, Oreg., yesterday that a stiff wind put it over in rivulets. Men are tired. Upriver it has been a fight for two weeks and more. Police Chief Testifies on Gambling

Barrett Refuses Comment on 4-Hour Grand Jury Visit

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett yesterday testified for nearly four hours before the special grand jury investigating gambling.

He refused to comment on his testimony, and indicated later that he may be recalled by the grand jury for further questioning.

Major Barrett, who has previously declared that there is less gambling in Washington than there has been in years—in contrast to United States Attorney George Morris Fay's claims of a 100-million-dollar-a-year gambling racket here—carried a large briefcase and a portfolio of documents into the grand jury room.

With him and the grand jury of 23 members were Fay and Fay's two top assistants, John W. Fihelly and Charles B. Murray.

Fay's relations with Major Barrett have appeared to be strained since early May, before the probe began, when Barrett asked to appear before the coming jury with his department's information on gambling, and offered police investigators for the probe. Fay, who requested the special probe, replied he had intended to call Barrett as a witness, and said the jury itself would decide what investigators it wants.

Last Saturday, Major Barrett released without comment "an analysis" of disposition of gambling cases, showing a sharp increase in indictments in April and May, when Fay had gone before the regular grand juries to press for greater consideration of gambling cases.

It appeared likely that this report was discussed in the grand jury room yesterday, for it carried with it an unwritten implication that Fay can get sterner treatment of gamblers when he desires.

Jury Out 40 Minutes

Both Garners Facing Death In Chair for Holdup Murder

A sentence to death by electrocution last night became mandatory for Lawrence J. Garner, 23, and his brother, George A. Garner, 25. A District Court jury took but 40 minutes to convict them of the holdup-murder of Howard Jones, 37, a taxi driver whom the brothers robbed of $4 and a gold wristwatch the night of February 27.

The brothers seemed listless and abstracted as their verdict was reported by Jury Foreman James Pistorio, 50, a Water Department investigator, of 4723 9th st. nw., in a tense courtroom from which all casual spectators had been cleared by order of Chief Deputy United States Marshal Charles Ward.

Ward said the unusual procedure was adopted after Justice Richmond B. Keech directed that steps be taken to avoid a courtroom demonstration or other untoward situation. Among those removed from the courtroom were a number of friends and neighbors of Jones, the holdup victim, and of James Hardy, 38, another taxi-driver whom the Garner brothers are accused of having robbed and murdered the same night.

About a score of deputy United States marshals formed a wall of guards around the Garners while the verdict was being pronounced. About an equal number of lawyers and newspaper reporters also were in the courtroom.

George Garner sat without apparent emotion, as he had throughout the protracted trial, while Assistant District Attorney Arthur J. McLaughlin argued for the "guilty" verdict that would mean a mandatory death sentence. Garner showed no more concern while Justice Keech delivered his instructions, explaining among other matters, the application of the legal principles governing the insanity defense advanced on the Garner brothers' behalf by Defense At-

Jewish Dead In Battle Put at 580

1000 Are Wounded At Jenin, Claim Of Iraqi; Naval Vessels Clash

(From Press Dispatches)

Cairo, Egypt, June 4.—An Iraqi communique asserted tonight that 580 Jews were killed and 1000 wounded today at Jenin on the central front in the biggest battle of the Palestine war.

Five thousand Jews attacked the city, 45 miles north of Jerusalem, and were thrown back by Iraqi forces, the communique issued in Bagdad said.

A large number of Jews were made prisoner, the communique asserted, and huge quantities of arms and munitions were seized.

Israel reported a three-hour naval battle off its capital of Tel Aviv between an Egyptian naval detachment and Israeli planes, naval craft and coast defense guns. A direct aerial bomb hit was claimed on one of the Egyptian ships and loss of a Jewish plane was admitted.

Capture Reported

Unofficial reports in Haifa had said that Jewish troops captured Jenin in one of their biggest victories. Later reports from Tel Aviv told of house-to-house fighting in the outskirts of the town, one of the three anchor points in the Arab Jenin-Nablus-Tulkarm triangular stronghold north of Jerusalem and northeast of Tel Aviv.

Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, continued in Cairo his attempt to fix the time for the start of the proposed four-week truce.

Bernadotte disclosed that Arabs and Jews were insisting on their conflicting reservations to the U. N. truce resolution. The chief sticking points were whether the Jews would be permitted to continue immigration during the truce and to open up road communications to Jerusalem through Arab territory.

Emergency Session Called

Bernadotte appealed to the U. N. Security Council for a clarification of the immigration issue and was told he could decide the issue.

An Israeli communique said four Egyptian naval vessels attempted to approach Tel Aviv and were driven off by the Jewish navy, airplanes and coastal defense guns.

An Egyptian communique issued here said its navy was attacked by three enemy planes. It reported Egyptian fighting planes forced down one Jewish plane.

The Israeli communique described the Egyptian vessels in the Tel Aviv skirmish as one corvette; one armed transport of 2500 tons (the Amira Fawzia), and two British-type landing craft.

James M. Long, Associated Press correspondent in Tel Aviv, said the ships came within 6 or 7 miles of shore. One Jewish corvette resembling an over-sized Gloucester fishing trawler engaged them, he said, and withdrew after shell-splash waterspouts were seen close alongside it.

Two Jewish airplanes went out and dropped a number of bombs, the correspondent reported, adding that one plane was a fighter type, the other a sportsman model. Only one plane was seen to return.

Yesterday the Egyptians said their navy attacked Caesarea, a small port 32 miles north of Tel Aviv. The size of that naval

National Group And D. C. Board Found Innocent Of Criminal Act

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Associate Justice Edward M. Curran of District Court yesterday found the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the Washington Board innocent of criminal violation of antitrust laws.

Within a few hours after Curran had issued a judgment of acquittal, counsel for the Department of Justice filed an affidavit in District Court charging that the jurist's decision "may materially affect the program of the Department of Justice for enforcement of antitrust laws in the housing field."

The affidavit was filed in support of a motion to advance the trial of the NAREB and the local board on civil charges involving antitrust law violation.

The civil charges parallel accusations made by the Government in the criminal case disposed of yesterday.

Asking Injunction

In the civil action the Government is asking an injunction permanently to prevent fee-fixing on the part of real estate brokers in the District. Yesterday's motion was to bring the proceedings before the court at the earliest possible moment.

In the supporting affidavit the Justice Department asserted: "It is apparent by recent passage by Congress of the largest appropriation ever granted for enforcement of antitrust laws . . . that the legislative branch desires intensive and prompt enforcement . . . in food, housing and clothing fields.

"Affiant (John F. Baecher, acting assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division of the Department of Justice) is informed that in the past year there were many thousands of real estate transactions in the District in which some of the defendants participated as brokers and that in most of such transactions the commissions . . . were fixed . . . in violation of . . . the Sherman Act."

Sees No Restraint

In granting defense motions for judgment of acquittal, Curran said he did not believe the real estate brokers had restrained commerce.

"Conspiracy condemned by the Sherman Antitrust Act is one which has a direct or immediate effect as restraint upon commerce . . . As I see it, charges for the facilities of real estate brokers are not a restraint . . ."

However, the jurist said, the total cost of selling real estate may be increased by such charges.

He went on to say that in his opinion contracts and combinations which only indirectly restrain trade are not illegal.

"The right of the owners of real estate in the District to sell their property in any way whatsoever is not affected by the agreement charged in this case to be a combination in restraint of trade or commerce . . ."

The Government had contended that an agreement made by members of the Washington Board to raise the standard rate of brokerage fees to 5 per cent of sale value was a violation of the Sherman Act. The Government charged the National Association had given "a wink" to the local group by issuing a "guide" of standard rates.

Defense counsel had held that the agreement was aimed at bettering brokerage standards and to help the public by ending "confusion."

Senate Chiefs Predict Defeat For Civil Rights Draft Riders

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Senate leaders last night predicted defeat of a plan to tack a civil rights program to the pending 19-through-25 draft bill.

An amendment barring racial segregation or discrimination in the armed forces was before the Senate yesterday and its sponsor, Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.), spoke most of the day. He has six other racial rights amendments pending and says he plans to speak at some length on all of them.

But after the Senate recessed last night—to meet again Monday—Senator Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) told reporters he would move to shelve them. Gurney is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and floor manager for the draft bill.

Senate GOP leaders said today they would back Gurney's move to table the Langer proposals and predicted they would have the votes to put them on the shelf. Even some strong supporters of the civil rights program are opposed to making them a rider to the selective service bill.

Southern senators promise a filibuster which would mean defeat of the draft bill in the rush for adjournment June 19, if the racial rights amendments are passed. Lengthy talk on either side of the motion, however, can be cut off by a leadership action to table, under the strategy adopted.

Langer yielded the floor late yesterday after talking for nearly 3½ hours—both on his first amendment and against the draft bill. Afterward he said he had not finished his speech on the amendment and would try to continue on Monday.

But Gurney said he would seek recognition first thing and move to table the proposal. If shelved, Langer says he will bring up his other amendments one by one and speak on them. Gurney will then repeat his motions to lay them aside.

The pending Langer proposal would prohibit discrimination or segregation because of "race, color, national origin or religion" within the armed forces.

The others would (1) bar segregation of soldiers and sailors while traveling in interstate carriers, in theaters, restaurants, etc.; (2) would write pending antilynching and anti-poll tax legislation into law as far as members of the armed services are concerned; (3) apply the FEPC to firms providing supplies to the armed forces and (4) prohibit any drafted or enlisted men from serving in a State which has Jim Crow laws.

Dirksen and Herter Rebuffed by GOP; Funds Slashed for Greece and Turkey

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The House last night upheld a cut of more than one billion dollars in the European Recovery Program and sped the closely sheared appropriation to the Senate with new restrictions.

The bill, carrying $5,980,710,228 for all foreign-aid programs, including four billion dollars for the Economic Co-operation Administration, passed the House without so much as a record vote.

A determined fight by a little band of Republicans backed up by a near-solid Democratic vote failed to restore even part of the slash.

Dirksen, Herter Rebuffed

A Democratic recommit motion to put back the bulk of the cut by spreading the funds over one year instead of 15 months was defeated by a voice vote.

Earlier, Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R.-Ill.), in a sharp break with the Republican leadership, also tried to ease the blow at ECA by making it a one-year appropriation.

Bipartisan pleas by former Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.), Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.), and others failed to upset the House Appropriations Committee's isolationist leadership.

Dirksen's motion was rejected by a 127-to-101 standing vote and later by a 148-to-113 teller count.

Roll Call Vote Refused

Representative Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.) made the closely contested Dirksen amendment the Democratic recommit motion. Cannon demanded a roll-call vote.

But the House refused to go on record. Or so Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., ruled when he said insufficient members backed Cannon's request.

Martin counted 54 members standing, mostly on the Democratic side, in support of the roll call. A fifth of those present must support a request for a record vote. Martin counted 294 present and said the number standing fell shy of a fifth.

How the full membership of the House, or the members individually, would have voted on any of the world recovery issues thus will never be officially known.

Limit Put on Farm Machinery

Not only was a 26-per-cent cut in all foreign-aid programs sustained but additional special interest limitations were written into the bill.

One, by Representative H. Carl Anderson (R., Minn.) provided that not more than 50 million dollars of recovery funds can be spent for farm machinery, including tractors. ECA had about 81 million dollars earmarked for this purpose.

Another by Representative Reid F. Murray (R., Wis.) specified that "not less" than 65 million dollars could be spent by ECA for dried skimmed milk. This dairy-bloc amendment carried 61 to 58. Anderson won by a voice vote.

Wide-World Cuts Approved

The bill's four billion dollars for ECA thinned over 15 months compared with the $4,245,000,000 the Administration asked and Congress only a few weeks ago authorized to be spent in 12 months. In addition Congress already had made a billion dollars available in the form of notes to be sold to the Treasury.

These other committee cuts were also reaffirmed by the House: Seventy-five million dollars sliced from the request for 275 million dollars for military aid to Greece and Turkey, 63 million dollars pruned from the 463 million dollars sought for economic-military aid to China and the reduced amount stretched over 15 months instead of 12, 20 million dollars for Trieste relief eliminated and 150 million dollars denied for economic recovery and reconstruction in Japan, Korea and the Ryukyu islands.

Vandenberg Anger Reported

Hopes of restoration of all or part of the cut now rests on the Senate. But even if the full amount is voted there, differences would still be subject to adjustment in a House-Senate conference committee. Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg was reported mad enough to do battle but the Senate Appropriations Committee will have the first say.

Mundt Bill Put on Shelf For Present

Senators' Decision To Get Legal Ruling May Kill Chances Now

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The Mundt-Nixon Communist-control bill apparently was killed for this session of Congress yesterday when the Senate Judiciary Committee decided to await further legal advice before acting.

With Congress bending every effort to pass must legislation before a June 19 adjournment date, the far-reaching House bill was given little chance after the committee decided upon delay.

The Senate group has asked for expert opinion on the constitutionality of the measure from Attorney General Tom C. Clark and three prominent constitutional lawyers, Seth Richardson, Charles Evans Hughes, jr., and John W. Davis.

Chairman Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) declined to say whether or not the bill could be considered pigeon-holed for this session.

He said that so far as he knew the requested legal opinions, including one from Morris Ernst, noted New York attorney, had not been received.

The committee, he said, believed it essential to act in a judicial manner and give the measure thorough study. Legal opinions would have to be analyzed, he said, and then the members would have to make their own analysis of the bill.

Wiley said the committee had not even gone over members'

Buckingham Palace Confirms Elizabeth's Date With Stork

London, June 4 (AP).—Buckingham Palace announced tonight that Princess Elizabeth is expecting a baby.

It wasn't stated as simply as that, but in language as close to a birth announcement as the royal household ever gets:

"Her Royal Highness, the Princess Elizabeth, Duchess of Edinburgh, will undertake no public engagements after the end of June."

Court circles said Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who were married November 20, 1947, could expect their child in October or early November.

One reliable source said royal physicians had medical reasons to believe the Princess' child would be a girl.

"Nobody, of course, can be sure about these things," he added.

The birth will be the first in direct succession to the throne since that of Princess Margaret 17 years ago last August. It will be the first grandchild for King George and Queen Elizabeth and Dowager Queen Mary's first great-grandchild.

Tomorrow she and Philip and her parents will attend the Derby at Epsom. At night she will visit the International Festival of Youth and Sport at Wembley Stadium. At least 13 other engagements remain on the books.

Decision on where the baby will be born is usually made after royal family consultations. One court member said a fair guess would be Buckingham Palace.

The Home Secretary must be present at all royal births to make sure there has been no swapping of babies. This dates back to James, the Second, aging and ailing, whose proclaiming of a royal birth in 1688 raised strong doubts. The rumor was that the baby had been sneaked into the Queen's bed in a warming pan. Historians have discredited the tale, but the Home Secretary—at present Chuter Ede—has to stand by just the same.

Powers Open Drive To Charm Germans

Berlin, June 4 (U.P.).—Britain, the United States and Russia launched simultaneous drives today to win friends and influence the battered German people.

Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, military governor of British-occupied Germany, declared that Germans are "Christians and civilized people . . . and we no longer owe them any ill will."

He said an immediate pardon had been ordered for all former non-commissioned officers of the Nazi SS organization in the British zone, except those accused of specific war crimes.

Robertson declared that "German interests converge closely on our own," and instructed all members of his command to seek close social contact with the Germans.

In Frankfurt, capital of the United States zone, Herman Puender, the ranking German administrator of Anglo-American "Bizonia," promised that long-awaited currency reforms would be enacted in western Germany "in the near future." He said a divided Germany was inevitable.

Soviet occupation authorities today ordered a 20 per cent wage increase for workers in the Russian sector of Berlin.

The new order decreed equal wages for men and women workers performing equal work. It also ordered improved housing for workers, and increased by 62,000 the number of Russian-sector employes entitled to hot meals.

N. Y. Lawyer Named Aide To Royall

TRACY S. VOORHEES
Veteran nominated

The White House sent to the Senate yesterday President Truman's nomination of Tracy S. Voorhees, New York lawyer, as Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Voorhees, 57, was a colonel during the war and rounded out his military service as a special assistant to Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

He continued in this role as a civilian after being separated from the Army in February, 1946, serving both under Patterson and under Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall after unification of the armed services. In March, 1947, he was given the additional job of food administrator for occupied areas in which he directed the purchase of vast supplies for relief programs in Germany and Japan.

Voorhees was commissioned as a colonel in the Judge Advocate General's Department in November, 1942. He was detailed to the Surgeon General's Office, where he was assigned as director of the legal and control divisions. Eventually he was made head of a mission to reorganize the Army's medical supply system in the European, China-Burma-India and Pacific theaters, later being awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for this work.

Voorhees received an A.B. degree from Rutgers University in 1911 and a master's degree at the same institution three years later. These were followed by a bachelor of law degree from Columbia University's law school in 1915. He was admitted to the New Jersey bar the same year and to that of New York in 1918.

He served with the law firm of Harlan F. Stone from 1917 to 1919 and thereafter with the firms of Alley & Voorhees, Ewing, Alley & Voorhees; Blake & Voorhees and Blake, Voorhees & Stewart until he entered the Army in 1942. The assistant Army Secretaryship for which he was chosen by the President has never been filled since the national military establishment was created with the Army, Navy and Air Force on a coequal footing.

High Prices, Taxes Bring British Crisis

London, June 4 (U.P.).—High taxes and high prices appeared to be forcing Britain into a freak depression today, despite critical shortages of essential consumer goods.

While the Commons was bemoaning a proposed 25 per cent cut in Britain's slice of Marshall Plan aid and its possible effect on the import program, informed sources in the financial district said a buyer's strike was developing in London.

Even the recent relaxation of rationing failed to improve things. Stocks still are piling up in stores all over the country. Informed quarters in the "City," Britain's Wall Street, said the reluctance to buy included vacuum cleaners, radios, furniture, handbags and luxury items.

People still want things, apparently, but they just haven't got the money to buy them.

Treasury officials said the seasonal expansion of the Bank of England's money circulation was only one third what it was last year.

The Evening Standard said 10 plays had closed within four weeks in London's West End, and that night clubs no longer are crowded.

Soviet Grants 5-Million Loan To Finland as Elections Near Helsinki, Finland, June 4 (U.P.).—The Soviet Union granted Finland a five-million-dollar loan today, just four weeks before Finland's general elections. The move followed by one day a sharp slash in the heavy war reparations to Russia.

A spokesman for the Bank of Finland said Russia offered the loan some time ago. The bank board accepted it yesterday, he said.

Finland was given the right to take the loan either in goods or in money. The date was not revealed.

Interest will be 2 per cent. The loan can be repaid in dollars or other currencies. The deadline for repayment was not made public. The reparations reduction and the loan came midway between a governmental crisis and the elections, scheduled for July 1 and 2.

The crisis developed several weeks ago when Communist Interior Minister Yrjoe Leino was fired and replaced by a leftist. Leino's Communist wife, Hertta Kuusinen Leino, also was named to the cabinet.

Hungary, Romania Ask Reparations Bill Cut

London, June 4 (AP).—Hungary and Romania asked Soviet Russia today to cut their reparations bills, as Russia has done for Finland.

There was every indication the Russians would grant the requests and thus strengthen their hold on the eastern states. The idea for cutting the reparations of the three countries likely originated in Moscow.

Romania owes Russian 300 million dollars.

Hungary owes 300 million dollars in reparations, 200 million dollars to the Soviet Union and the remainder to Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

German Who Asked Clay About War 3 Acquitted

Hamburg, Germany, June 4 (U.P.), Gunter Quentin, 22-year-old German, was acquitted today on charges of interfering with public communications. The court warned him, however, to make better use of his ability to speak English in the future.

Quentin was arrested last week for telephoning Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military commander in Germany, and asking him in perfect English:

Herter quoted the House Appropriation Committee report as saying it is impossible to estimate within a billion recovery costs and enjoined the House to "err on the side of giving too much rather than too little."

But Representative Francis Case (R., S. Dak.) and other committee leaders insisted the amount provided was "ample" and to vote more would "make it a WPA program."

In an earlier all-out attack on the world program Taber said the budget estimates "appeared to be the result of a series of after-dinner conversations in which Administration economists and planners let their imaginations run riot."

Taber Hits "Dream Boys"

"The architects of the foreign aid bill are the same boys who dreamed up a score of disastrous government experiments in the past 15 years. They apparently have a complete disregard for the welfare of the country."

Taber protested when Dirksen tried to attach his amendment to the opening paragraph of the bill saying it would "confuse" other uncontested items. And he blocked a Dirksen request for extra speaking time.

Cannon, ranking Democrat on Taber's committee, led off the attack on the cut and almost immediately tangled with Representative Frank B. Keefe (R., Wis.). Keefe demanded that one Cannon comment be "taken down" by the clerk, a preliminary move to strike it from the record.

Committee Compared to Reds

The Missourian's words were: "When you review the Soviet press you will think that the committee of this House was an agency of the USSR."

Called to the chair, Martin ruled the words "indicate criticism of the House but do not reflect upon the integrity of any member of the House and they are therefore not unparliamentary."

Cannon then resumed his speech. He said that during long hearings not a single witness presented evidence against the amounts asked. He told the House that "to save a few million dollars" it was "disastrously" dashing men's hopes.

Various Amendments Lose

Representative Walter A. Lynch (D., N. Y.) moved to withhold aid funds from England unless the President was convinced no British arms were going to the Arabs. This was ruled out on a point of order.

A series of similar amendments by Representative Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.) were ruled not germane or voted down.

Representative August H. Andresen (R., Minn.) moved to prohibit use of any recovery funds for the purchase of tobacco, charging commodity speculators "are now standing by to reap their rewards." His amendment was rejected, 87 to 66.

Newfoundland Fails to Decide Future in Election

St. John's, Newfoundland, June 4 (U.P.).—Newfoundland failed to decide its political future in its first referendum yesterday, it was officially confirmed today.

A second referendum, the date for which has not been set, will be held to determine whether Newfoundland will choose responsible government for itself and its Laborador territory, or confederate with Canada as a tenth province.

The totals of yesterday's balloting so far give responsible government 65,991 votes, confederation 60,147 and commission rule 20,305.

U. S. Probe Fails To Identify Sniper Who Killed Wasson

The State Department said yesterday an investigation at Jerusalem revealed that Consul General Thomas Wasson had given no indication of the "identity and religious belief" of the sniper who shot him there May 23.

A department spokesman added that it did not know who shot Wasson and had no official theory.

In a statement, the department said officers who spoke with the mortally wounded diplomat received the impression that Wasson had no knowledge of who his assailant might have been.

Free-Trade Clause Taken Into ERP

London, June 4 (NYHT.). — A free-trade clause which Britain and France both consider to be unacceptable as now drafted has been included in the European Recovery Program agreements proposed by the United States, it was learned today.

Britain and France in particular, and the 16 ERP countries in general, are understood to be discussing a common approach to the United States to obtain what they consider more reasonable terms.

The British consider that as now worded the clause would grant the United States virtual veto power over Britain's tariff structure—in particular her imperial preferential tariff system which has been a prime object of State Department attack for the last four years.

The French, on the other hand, are concerned because the clause would in effect pledge the various countries receiving aid from the United States to grant each other "most favored nation" treatment.

410 Middies Are Graduated Amid Traditional Pomp

Annapolis, Md., June 4 (AP).—With traditional pomp, the United States Naval Academy graduated its ninety-eighth class of Midshipmen today.

White Middie caps sailed through Dahlgren Hall, tossed away by 410 graduates cheering farewell to academy life.

Navy Secretary Sullivan, in a commencement address, called on the new officers to "help preserve the peace of the world."

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, gave the oath commissioning 376 Navy ensigns and 28 Marine second lieutenants in a group.

Six others graduated without commissions. Jorge Montalvo will be commissioned in the Ecuadorian navy; two graduates were honorably discharged, and three are awaiting physical checkups.

In 41 minutes of handshaking, Sullivan handed out the 410 bachelor of science degrees.

Grinning William H. Evans of Edgewater, Md., the anchor man at the bottom of the class list, won the loudest plaudits from an estimated crowd of 6000.

Next most vociferous ovation was for Honor Man Francis J. Suttill, jr., of Collingswood, N. J., who had a mark of 1070 out of a possible 1226 for the four years.

After nearly two days of bad weather, which yesterday drove the traditional color girl ceremony indoors for the second time since 1871, the sun came out just in time. It brightened the day for parents and sweetheart to pin ensigns' shoulder boards to the dress whites of the fledgling officers at the Japanese bell brought here by Commodore Perry.

The 2360 undergraduates will leave tomorrow aboard 13 warships headed by the battleship Missouri, bound for Norfolk, Va., to pick up naval reservists for a summer cruise to the Mediterranean.

Academy Aide Denies Middies Writhe Under Censor's Curb

Annapolis, Md., June 4 (AP).—An aide to the superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy said today that he had seen "no evidence of dissatisfaction" among graduating midshipmen over cancellation of their traditional "No More Rivers" ceremony.

"No more rivers" means "no more exams" for the Middies. The event in recent years has been staged as a satire on rigors of academy life. First classmen (seniors) have ribbed many of their officers and instructors.

Capt. William G. Cooper, aide to Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., made a statement after recurring reports of "censorship" of the traditional high jinks.

Cooper said he felt the stories about censorship had their source "in a minority group who have been disgruntled since the cancellation last month of the midshipmen's version of 'Boy Meets Girl.'"

Admiral and Mrs. Holloway strode from the hall a few weeks ago just before the last-act curtain. Cooper said the admiral felt the way it had been presented was in "poor taste" and ordered the show discontinued.

Of reports that "No More Rivers" and other midshipman projects had been killed because of gold-braid censorship, Cooper said "leaders of the brigade" would give a different version.

Comdr. Carlton R. Adams, executive officer of Bancroft Hall, issued a cancellation notice last week, saying the first class had requested the ceremony be abandoned because the date set was almost a week after examinations ended.

Better Democracy Truman Red 'Cure'

Chicago, June 4 (AP).—President Truman proposed tonight that Congress smother the Red menace in America with "more and better democracy" instead of outlawing the Communist Party.

The way to do it, he said, is to pass laws that will provide the American people with homes they need, better medical care and schooling, social security, an equal chance for jobs at fair wages and a brake on inflation.

Mr. Truman also:

Held out a hand to friendship to Sweden, on the fringe of Russia's area of control in Europe.

Asked that America erect a beacon of hope to Europe's displaced refugees—those "heroes of democracy" who cannot go back to their own lands because they, too, are anti-Communist.

Issues Challenge

But here in Chicago the first big speech produced challenges to the Republican-controlled Congress to beat back communism by passing the laws Mr. Truman repeatedly has proposed.

The President challenged Congress to pass without "crippling amendments" another law to let some of Europe's 800,000 displaced persons take refuge in America.

Congress is considering displaced persons legislation, but Mr. Truman complained that some of it "sets limits and quotas on countries and occupations." He said these restrictions are crippling.

The President said the American people are rightly concerned about communism. He said he himself does not underestimate its challenge. He did not mention by name the Nixon-Mundt bill in Congress, which would make it illegal for Communists to conspire to set up a foreign-controlled, totalitarian government in the United States.

But he did say that some people want to get at communism through a law checking "certain kinds of political activity, or by outlawing the Communist Party."

"It seems to me," he said, "that such proposals miss the point. You cannot stop the spread of an idea by passing a law against it. You cannot stamp out communism by driving it under ground, but you can prevent communism by more and better democracy."

The President said communism succeeds only where there is weakness, misery or despair, not in a strong healthy society. He pleaded "let us adopt legislation that will provide our citizens with the homes they need, the opportunity for universal good health and universal free schooling, the extension of social security, the full rights of citizenship, an equal chance for good jobs at fair wages, and a brake on inflation that will hold the purchasing power of these wages at a high level."

"This is the method of democracy. These are the goals of abundance. A nation which reaches reaches these goals will never succumb to the evils of communism."

Able to Protect Selves

Against foreign agents, Mr. Truman said, the record shows "we are thoroughly able to protect ourselves." There are good laws and security forces to deal with spies and saboteurs, he said.

But if nothing is done about it, he said, it is "an invitation to communism" if some of our people live in slums, work at substandard wages, are "arbitrarily denied the right to vote or deprived of other basic rights," need more medical care, education or security or have to do without necessities because of high prices.

The reference to basic rights and the right to vote apparently represented a "no retreat" stand on the civli rights program which has riled Southern Democrats.

forms and "goals of abundance" as the best antidote to communism. He scoffed at talk of outlawing the Communist Party, and the audience applauded vigorously.

Moving across the praries today, Mr. Truman was in fighting form and seemed to gain strength from the crowds as he moved along.

He predicted to a dinner gathering in the Palmer House this evening that he would be elected in November for a full, four-year term.

Harking back to the days before he entered the White House, he recalled how he and Mrs. Truman and Margaret used to spend week-ends in Chicago, shopping and having a "swell time." He said he couldn't very well do that now because he is President. Then, smiling he went on to say:

"There are some who say I'll be able to do the same thing next year. I don't think they are right. I think I'll be in the same sort of trouble then that I am in now."

Hears Wallace Booed

On his way to the Stadium tonight Mr. Truman heard cries of "Hooray for Wallace." Earlier, as his motorcade was traveling from Union Station to the Palmer House, he was confronted by banners carried by the DDT's—Democrats who want to "Dump" Mr. Truman at the Philadelphia convention.

The banners read:

"Democrats Dump Truman.
"America Needs
"William Douglas
"Or
"Eisenhower."

Mr. Truman spied the banners and waved in friendly fashion to the shirt-sleeved men who were carrying them. The men, apparently surprised at such good nature, returned embarrassed grins.

It was the second such incident of the day, an Eisenhower banner having appeared earlier during a stop at Gary, Ind.

For the most part, however, the crowds were amiable.

Children Held Aloft

Bands were out to play "Hail to the Chief," the Red, White and Blue was on display, and there was the familiar spectacle of parents holding children aloft to see the Nation's first citizen.

The President appeared to be having a good time, and acted not at all like a man who is supposed to go down to defeat in November.

He started out early this afternoon to laugh away a previous White House contention that this trip was "official and not political." Talking to a crowd in Crestline, Ohio, he grinned and said:

"On this nonpartisan, bipartisan trip we are taking here, I understand there are a whole lot of Democrats present, too."

He said he was happy to see Frank Lausche, who is running again this year as the Democratic nominee for Governor.

"I know he is going to be the next Governor of Ohio," Mr. Truman said, amidst applause.

Tears Into Congress

Later, at Gary, Ind., he tore into the Republican Congress, and called for a Congress next year that will be concerned about the welfare of the Nation as a whole.

"The economy of this country must be absolutely sound and solid," he said. "I have been preaching that ever since July, 1946, and I am going to keep on harping on it as long as I am President of the United States.

"And if you support me, we will probably get it."

At all the stops, men and women were heard to remark on Mr. Truman's appearance. Apparently the close-up they were getting did not seem to fit their preconceptions.

"He's not a bad-looking guy, is he?" said a man on Jackson boulevard in Chicago.

Mayor John Kennelly met Mr. Truman at the station here, and then, with Senator Scott Lucas, rode through the streets with him in an open car.

Mayor Gives Dinner

The white-thatched mayor later gave a dinner for the President in the Palmer House to which reporters were not invited. It was one affair they would have liked to see, for among those in attendance was Jacob M. Arvey, head of the Cook County Democratic organization.

Arvey some months ago was among those beating the drums for General Eisenhower as a Democratic standard-bearer.

Prince Bertil of Sweden, also a guest at the dinner, presented Mr. Truman with a gold medal of King Gustavus Adolphus, a seventeenth century champion of religious freedom.

Mr. Truman's first day of stumping the country was a beauty. The sun was out and only a few cumulus clouds floated in the sky.

Greeted At Pittsburgh

The first stop came at 7:50 o'clock this morning at Pittsburgh, by which time Mr. Truman had been up two hours. David L. Lawrence, mayor and Democratic National Committeeman for Pennsylvania, was waiting in the yards, along with others of the Democratic organization.

The Chief Executive shook hands with them and kidded nearby reporters for being so sleepy-eyed. The train, after taking on a fresh crew and ice water, rolled on westward.

Virtually the whole populace was waiting along the tracks when the train stopped at Crestline, Ohio. Here the trip began to take on a traditional campaign flavor as men and women swarmed around the train, some of them holding children up for a look at the President.

Mr. Truman, wearing a blue summer suit, came out on the rear platform and greeted former Governor Lausche.

Talking to the Crestline crowd over the loud-speaker system, Mr. Truman said that it was good for a President to get away from the White House and see the people.

After paying the customary tribute to Crestline, Mr. Truman proceeded to explode the fiction about this being a nonpolitical trip. His prediction that Lausche would be the next Governor of Ohio was applauded enthusiastically.

At the next stop, Fort Wayne, the Catholic High School Boy-and-Girl Band, wearing purple uniforms, and a crowd of 5000 awaited the train. The band struck up "Hail to the Chief" and the throng gave out with a cheer as Mr. Truman walked onto a platform swathed in red, white and blue cheesecloth.

Men, women and children were running toward the station and augmenting the crowd as Mr. Truman was talking.

He started off by praising "Mad Anthony" Wayne, for whom the town was named.

"You know," he said, "Mad Anthony had a dictionary without the word 'can't' in it. Whenever he was given a job to do, he did it. These northwest territories are very much beholden to him for being a part of the greatest republic in the world.

"In his day people were thinking just as they are now. They were anxious for peace and security, and they themselves contributed to making that peace and security. They usually had their own squirrel rifle up over the door, the bag full of powder and shot, and a St. James version of the Bible. It took all those things to make this great community what it is now.

"Now people are asking today: Will there be permanent peace?

"I can say to you categorically that there will be permanent peace if the United States assumes the role that God Almighty intended the United States to assume in 1920."

A cheer arose from the crowd standing below in the sunshine. Resuming, Mr. Truman said three things were necessary for peace in the world.

They are, he said, to have the United Nations work as it was intended to work, to carry through on the Marshall Plan recovery program in Europe, and to strengthen America's arms.

Taking a swipe at the House Appropriations Committee, which has cut the foreign aid program, Mr. Truman said he hoped Congress would carry out its agreement with the 16 European nations, and "not quibble on it."

He recalled his own efforts, beginning in November 1945, to get a plan of universal military training, and expressed the hope that Congress would vote for it and a draft, too.

"We must be strong enough to maintain the peace if we expect to have peace in the world," he said, and the crowd indicated its agreement by applause. "If we did not have a police force in Fort Wayne, capable of enforcing the city ordinances, you wouldn't have any peace . . ."

If his three points were met, he said, there would be permanent peace and prosperity in all the world.

Among those who greeted Mr. Truman in Fort Wayne were former United States Senator Sam Jackson, who presided over the 1944 Democratic National Convention, former Gov. Clifford Townsend, and Mayor Henry Branning.

Branning, a Democrat, won a notable victory in the mayoralty race last November, defeating Otto Adams, a Republican who had been in office for a decade or more.

Talking later at Gary, Mr. Truman told those in the crowd that there was no use looking to the Republican Congress for help in hauling down the cost of living. Recalling how Congress had turned down his request for controls in November, he said.

"This Eightieth Congress has not seen fit to take any action. They have decided that the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States know all about prices and controls.

"Your dollar now, in the purchase of food, is only worth about 60 cents of what it was worth in 1946 when the Government was controlling prices in favor of the consumer . . . the cost of living is still going up.

"The Eightieth Congress, I am afraid, will adjourn without doing anything about it, and then we will be faced with a continued rise in the cost of living. It can only go so far under this boom and bust program.

"I am hoping that when we get a new Congress—and we are going to get one this fall—maybe we'll get one that will work in the interests of the common people and not in the interests of the men who have all the money."

Here the President asked the people for their support.

The 16-car special train left Chicago at 10:45 o'clock tonight, Central Time, bound for Omaha, Nebr. There Mr. Truman will join his comrades of World War I at a reunion of the Thirty-fifth Division.

Lovers Meet in Geneva

Princess Anne Joins Michael In Geneva

Geneva, Switzerland, June 4 (U.P.).—Danish Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma flew today into the arms of former King Michael of Romania. The couple were reunited at Geneva Airport and then sped off to plan their oft-delayed wedding.

Asked how long she would be in Switzerland, she said: "For further developments read the newspapers. They obviously know more than I, myself."

She announced at Copenhagen that "I will never change religion." The fact that Michael is an Orthodox Catholic and she is a Roman Catholic has been one of the barriers to their royal romance.

Michael was at the airport 15 minutes before the plane arrived.

Anne looked energetic and happy. She looked more like a Hollywood sweater girl than an altar-bound princess in a light blue woolen cardigan and a dark blue pleated woolen skirt. The skirt was nearly ankle-length, covering the most shapely royal calves in Europe.

The couple did not talk but they looked contented and kept close to each other.

They drove to Lausanne, where they went immediately to the suite of Michael's mother, former Queen Helen, in the Hotel Beau Rivage.

The royal party dined in Helena's parlor and did not go downstairs during the rest of the evening.

The date for their expected departure for the wedding at Athens has not been set.

Envoy to China Hits Student Blasts at U. S.

Nanking, China, June 4 (U.P.).—J. Leighton Stuart, United States Ambassador to China, said today that agitation by Chinese students against American policy in Japan is seriously damaging the traditional cordiality between the United States and China.

If the demonstrations continue, he said, they may have "most unfortunate results."

The students complain the United States is helping to restore Japan as a Far Eastern power and a possible menace to China.

"I defy anyone to produce a single shred of evidence that any part of Japanese military power is being restored or that there is any intention on the part of the United States other than to assure that it will ever rise again," Stuart asserted.

Stuart said the Japanese people must become self-supporting.

He said the United States Government has not asked the Chinese government to suppress the student movement. He also said his statements had been approved by the State Department.

Ousted Paraguay President Placed Under House Arrest

Ascuncion, Paraguay, June 4 (AP).—The provisional regime of Juan Frutos today placed under house arrest deposed President Higinio Morinigo and several of his most loyal friends.

The 47-year-old Morinigo, deposed by an army coup yesterday, was placed under guard at his home.

Friends in custody included Foreign Minister Cesar Vasconcellos and Col. Enrique Gimenez, commander of the Campo Grande Garrison.

(American sources in Buenos Aires said army officers had been arrested, and former Education Minister Mario Ferrario was believed in custody.

The provisional President designated a new Cabinet, divided between followers of Morinigo and President-elect Juan Natalicio Gonzalez.

The country appeared completely peaceful, with conditions everywhere normal.

Japanese Discovers Second Comet in Year

Okayama, Japan, June 4 (U.P.).—The Japanese astronomer who discovered the Honda Comet last year said he had spotted another one.

Minoru Honda said the new comet "is so big as to be visible to the naked eye at dawn on the northeast horizon.

He said the comet was of fourth-degree intensity, and that it will become easier to see as it shifts to the west.

Smith Clears 'Voice' Of Any Evil Intent

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) said yesterday he was completely satisfied there was no evil intent, communism or sabotage in the controversial "Voice of America" broadcasts to Latin America.

Smith, who headed a joint Senate committee comprised of Senate Foreign Relations and Executive Expenditures Subcommittees, recessed hearings yesterday.

The hearing, Smith said, indicated that neither the State Department nor NBC had fully lived up to all responsibilities in connection with the broadcasts.

Prevention Held Aim

The committee's purpose, the New Jersey Senator pointed out, had been to discover how such unfortunate broadcasts had occurred and how they could be prevented from occurring again.

There was a good deal of possibly unwarranted "storm and fury" over the broadcasts, Smith indicated, but he said he thought the hearings had served a good purpose in pointing up the mutual responsibility of the State Department and the private broadcasters.

Meanwhile, the State Department assured congressional critics that future foreign broadcasts would be more carefully safeguarded.

William T. Stone, director of the Department's Office of International Information, said he believed there would be adequate safeguards by the end of the month to make sure the "Voice" does not again slip up with the sort of programs that cause congressional wrath.

To Review Scripts

On future newscasts, Stone said, networks will be limited to material furnished by the department. On feature and entertainment shows, the department will double check the material by reviewing all scripts and listening to advance recordings.

Smith declared that in his judgment "Voice of America" programs must be expanded because of the European Recovery Program.

"We must combat the villainous misrepresentations of this program now being broadcast from Moscow," Smith declared.

There is a possibility, Smith said, that the committee will accede to the request to testify of Alberto Gandero, supervisor of the programs during which it was said that "Texas was born in sin and New England was founded in hypocrisy."

Sympathy for Rene Borgia, author of the controversial scripts, was expressed by Smith. Borgia was fired by NBC after congressional criticism was aroused.

No 'Wallace' On Ohio Ballot

Columbus, Ohio, June 4 (AP).—Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel today denied Henry A. Wallace a place on the presidential ballot in Ohio next November.

Hummel made the ruling in a letter to Nathan R. Zahm of Cleveland, administrative director of the Ohio Wallace-for-President Committee.

The decision was made after an investigation of statements made by the committee in affidavits filed in support of Wallace's candidacy.

The committee filed an affidavit last March signed by 10 Wallace supporters. It failed, however, to state, as required by law, that the committee had no connection with any foreign government.

Another affidavit was filed April 6 declaring that the committee had no connection with any foreign government. Hummel was informed that the new affidavit "corrects an inadvertent error of omission."

Because of the possibility the case would be taken to court, the secretary said he was not disclosing the results of his investigation or the reasons for denying the group a place on the ballot.

Taft Blames Roosevelt for Foreign Policy

Charlotte, N. C., June 4 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft tonight blamed the Roosevelt foreign policy for current world conditions.

The Morgenthau plan, the Republican presidential aspirant said, wrecked the economy of western Europe. It costs the United States 800 million dollars a year to give subsistence to Germans who now should be making their own living, he added at a Republican rally here.

Taft came here from Statesville, N. C., where he reviewed the accomplishments of the Republican Congress. He stopped briefly at Lincolnton as he furthered his quest for North Carolina's 28 convention votes. And tonight he met here with South Carolina Republicans in an effort to get their six votes.

The Ohioan cited what he termed Roosevelt's appeasement of Russia for the Soviet's cockiness. That appeasement, he said, was fostered at Tehran and Yalta.

To offset the Russian drive—and Taft said he believed Russia did not want war—the Marshall Plan became necessary, the Senator said, and that is costing about five billion dollars a year, with additional millions to Greece and China.

As to the United Nations, he said he believed it needed an amendment in its charter, to eliminate the veto if members agreed to abide by decisions of its court.

At a luncheon in Statesville, Taft said that although Republicans have a majority in Congress they are finding it difficult to overcome some of the theories and bureaucracies set up under the New Deal.

The ousted Democratic leadership, he said, tried to continue controlling every effort of the people, even after the war ended, but with no valid excuse. All such controls now have been eliminated, he continued, except rent control.

The Ohio Senator said he favored Federal assistance to education in poorer States, but expressed opposition to Federal control of education.

'Dream' Model . . .

The Washington Post

LOCAL GIRL MAKES GOOD—Shirley Talbott, 19, residing with her grandmother at 115 Rittenhouse st. nw., was crowned "America's Dream Girl of 1948" last week by Harry Conover, head of a New York model agency. Man Charges Arlington GOP 'Deal' on Board

Arlington Republican Francis J. Clair yesterday said his party and county independents are making a "deal" to back an independent County Board candidate this fall.

Clair

And he threatened to take his case to court unless the GOP makes him the party candidate for the one board seat open.

Clair's statement followed his Thursday night chase of GOP Chairman Edgar Pumphrey to file as a candidate in the Republican primary Clair thought had been scheduled August 3.

Denies Primary Scheduled

But Pumphrey, whom he contacted shortly before the Thursday midnight deadline, denied a party primary had ever been scheduled.

He said Republicans still have no candidate, but that Clair's name will be submitted to the Republican committee as a possible candidate when the group meets on June 14.

Clair, a free-lance writer, termed the political mixup "peanut politics," and said Republicans are scorning party candidates to back an unidentified independent this fall.

Republican Clair said he had first tried to file with Chairman Pumphrey in the latter's law office at 4:15 p. m. Thursday and found Pumphrey out.

Phone Calls Unsuccessful

Between that time and 10:20 p. m. Clair said he phoned Pumphrey's office three times and phoned his home eight times with no success.

He finally located the Republican chairman at 10:20 p. m. at the Fairfax, Va., home of Carl Marshall, Eighth District Republican chairman.

Pumphrey, however, said he "wasn't dodging Clair" Thursday night. He said that the Republican Committee is "waiting to see what candidate the Democrats nominate" and who the Arlington independents will pick. Then, he said, the GOP may throw its support behind one of the independent candidates.

Stassen Sees Reno Leaders, Flies on West

Reno, Nev., June 4 (AP).—Harold E. Stassen stopped off here today to breakfast with Nevada's uninstructed delegation to the Republican National Convention.

The Republican presidential aspirant took off by plane shortly before noon for Sacramento to fulfill a promised call on Gov. Earl Warren of California, with whom he said he expected to talk "generalities about the convention."

Stassen follows Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York by about two weeks in his Reno and Sacramento visits.

Nevada's eight-man delegation was reported predominantly pro-Dewey following the New Yorker's call here May 23.

With an obvious eye to California's big 53-vote convention bloc—pledged to Warren as a favorite son—both candidates were quick to accept the California Governor's invitation to pay him a call.

Earlier at Cheyenne, Stassen said President Truman's trip is an admission that he is weak in the West where Republican strength is growing daily.

Stassen also outlined a four-point program for "building America":

1. A long-range farm program.
2. Development of natural resources through methods such as the Pick-Sloan plan for the Missouri Valley.
3. Building fair relations between labor and capital, which he said will develop from the Taft-Hartley law.
4. Breaking through the housing shortage in a "speedy and sound manner."

U. N. Session On Truce Issue Is Canceled

Lake Success, N. Y., June 4 (U.P.).—The United Nations Security Council tonight called and then canceled an emergency meeting for Saturday morning after an appeal from U. N. Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte for clarification of the disputed issue of Jewish immigration into Palestine during the sought-after four-week cease-fire period.

Bernadotte cabled the U. N. that the "question of immigration is the sole barrier to an agreement" between the Israel and the Arab states on the truce.

The Security Council yesterday had ducked the immigration issue and instructed Bernadotte to proceed without any specific interpretation.

tation. After his appeal, it was discovered he had not been informed he could resolve the question on the spot. The meeting was canceled and he was so informed.

Israel has maintained the Security Council specifically refused to ban immigration of men of military age.

Arab spokesmen insist Jews of military age be prevented from entering.

Mysterious circumstances surrounded Bernadotte's appeal. From an Arab source it was learned that late this afternoon the cable from Bernadotte addressed to Faris El-Khouri of Syria, now sitting as Security Council president, was misplaced. After an hour and a half of search, El-Khouri was forced to admit that he could not locate it. U. N. Secretary Trygve Lie then called Bernadotte directly by phone to ascertain the exact content of Bernadotte's message.

An Israeli spokesman saw the chances of halting the fighting increasing in proportion to Israeli military successes.

"If Jenin falls," he said, "the Arabs will be much more ready to talk peace. The capture by Israeli forces of this key Arab town would pose a serious threat to other major Arab cities."

The Israeli spokesman also was heartened by private reports from Tel Aviv that Bernadotte had assured the Israeli government he would confer with the British on their ban on immigration of Jews of military age from Cyprus.

Dewey Makes Mass. Bid

Boston, June 4 (AP). — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said flatly today he was shooting for the Republican presidential nomination or nothing.

The New York Governor told a news conference:

"I have made it entirely clear that I would not accept the nomination for Vice President if it was tendered to me."

Dewey came here on a one-day visit to line up "second choice" support among Massachusetts' 35 delegates, who have already indicated they would vote for a favorite son on the first ballot.

Dewey made clear, too, that he intended to campaign on the Republican Congress' record if he wins the nomination.

He told the newsmen that he did not think the danger of war was as great now as a year ago—and he credited the Republicans with "forcing the Administration to take a firmer position against expansion of Soviet influence."

"The result," he said, "is that the chances of building a lasting peace are better than they were."

Dewey said he was going to Philadelphia a day before the national convention opens—adopting different tactics than he did in his two previous campaigns for the presidential nomination.

Dewey said he didn't expect a deadlock.

And he took issue, too, with an assertion by Harold E. Stassen that the convention would be "wide open."

He answered it with a flat "no."

2d Voting Precinct Sought To Halt Jam in Falls Church

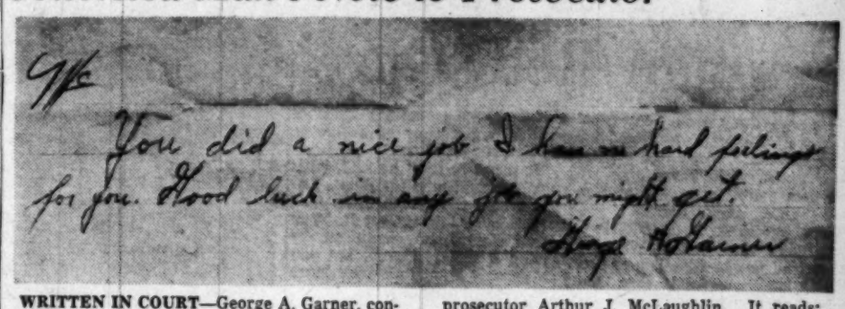
A petition to create a second voting precinct in the Town of Falls Church was being circulated among resident landowners yesterday.

Officials said more than the requisite 20 signatures already had been collected. The petition, when completed, will be sent to Fairfax Circuit Court Judge Paul Brown, who is expected to authorize a public hearing on the matter.

As requested, the new voting district would include part of the old unit, and utilize the Odd Fellows Hall on West Broad st. as a polling place.

Balloting now is conducted in the Town Hall for the present single Falls Church precinct. Town authorities said they feared a jam at the polls in the general elections this fall if a new precinct is not added. The new precinct would generally include the Fairfax County area around the western corner of Arlington County.

Convicted Man's Note to Prosecutor



WRITTEN IN COURT—George A. Garner, convicted along with his brother of the hold-up murder of a Washington taxicab driver, penciled this note yesterday in District Court to prosecutor Arthur J. McLaughlin. It reads: "Mc, You did a nice job. I have no hard feelings for you. Good luck in any job you might get." Death chair is mandatory under the conviction torney Louis A. Jongbloet. Then as the jurors filed out of the courtroom to deliberate upon their verdict, the accused man sat upright and in firm, clear handwriting wrote a note which he passed down the counsel table to the prosecutor. The text of the note:

"Mc:

"You did a nice job. I have no hard feelings for you. Good luck in any job you might get.—George A. Garner."

To Seek New Trial

Defense Attorney Jongbloet indicated that he would prepare an application for a new trial, which would be due to be heard and decided before sentence would be pronounced. Jongbloet said that probably there would be an appeal to the United States Court of Appeals here.

The Garners were indicted on two counts, the first accusing them of first-degree murder, which involved premeditation and deliberation of the crime, and the second charging felony murder, under the provision of the law making any death occurring during the commission of a crime the same as first-degree murder, whether the accused person actually intended to kill the victim or not. McLaughlin withdrew the first count, and the case was submitted to the jury on the felony-murder count alone.

Priests Plan Militia for Palestine Duty

Rome, June 4 (NYHT).—Franciscan priests of the Roman Catholic Church delivered notes to the main foreign embassies in Rome today announcing their intention to raise a militia of Christian volunteers to guard the Holy Places in Palestine.

The bearded, unworldly Franciscans said the 408 priests and brothers of their order in Palestine as protectors of the places associated with the life of Christ are no longer able to guarantee their security. They said that they need between 500 and 1000 armed men of all nationalities to assist them.

The priests indicated that they started their project with very little prior consultation with the Vatican.

The main duty of the militia would be to stand sentry duty and guard against thieves. The militia, may have to take military measures if either of the armies in Palestine attempts to use the Christian holy places as battle sites.

force was not given. The attackers said they sank one ship and raked dockside installations with gunfire.

In the south the Jews said they bombed an Egyptian spearhead which they claim is cut off and encircled near Isdud, 22 miles south of Tel Aviv.

Inside the Old City of Jerusalem, mortar bombs struck Christian churches at the Third and Sixth Stations of the Cross along Via Dolorosa—the path of Christ to Calvary. An Arab Legion commander said the Jews fired in violation of a hold-fire. He ordered his artillery to lay down a retaliatory bombardment 10 times as heavy.

In Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, a reliable diplomatic source said Bernadotte was negotiating for a cease-fire to become effective at 9 a. m. Sunday (2 a. m. EST), with the four-week truce to begin nine hours later at 6 a. m. Monday (11 p. m., EST, Sunday night).

Count Bernadotte made his statements after a plane trip yesterday to Trans-Jordan and Israel and a meeting here with Premier Nokrashy Pasha.

Reciprocal Trade Hearing Brings Clash

By The Associated Press

Senator Connally (D., Tex.) clashed yesterday with a witness who criticized all-out supporters of the reciprocal trade law.

Sen. Connally

The witness was Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton Textile Institute. Appearing before the Senate Finance Committee, he said that "people" who want the law extended three years without change are trying to "break down completely the protection of American industry, agriculture and employment."

Connally Gets Angry

"I don't like witnesses coming in here and saying everybody is crooked but them and impugning motives," he told Murchison.

President Truman, Secretary of State Marshall and many Democratic lawmakers have called for the three-year unamended extension. The House, however, voted only a one-year continuation of the act and reserved a veto power for Congress over certain tariff cuts.

The committee decided to end the hearings this morning after hearing Will Clayton, former Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs. Clayton now is a special adviser to Marshall. The bill probably will be ready for a Senate vote next week.

The present law is due to expire June 12—one week from Saturday.

Under its terms the President can negotiate agreements with the other countries, lowering tariffs on a mutually agreeable basis, without the need for congressional sanction. The House bill would reduce his authority to do so, at the same time increasing the Tariff Commission's role in the proceedings.

Would Bind President

One witness, John Breckenridge, said the Tariff Commission's decisions should be binding on the President. He represented West Coast fruit and nut growers, the Florida Growers Committee and the Mushroom Growers Cooperative Association.

Dr. John Lee Coulter of the National Renderers Association, and F. E. Molin, executive secretary of the American Livestock Association, urged approval of the House bill.

Walter W. Cenerrazzo, president of the American Watch Workers Union, said that unless tariffs are revised to curb the importation of Swiss watches, the jeweled watch industry in this country "is going to die."

Secretary Marshall held a news conference yesterday, but he had no comment, when questioned, about a declaration by Senator Millikin (R., Ohio) Thursday that Marshall has a "habit of delivering ultimatums to Congress." Millikin is chairman of the Finance Committee.

Marshall has declared he would rather have no extension bill at all than the House measure.

F. E. Molin, executive secretary of the American Livestock Association, also favored passage of the House measure.

He told the committee that under the present setup, operations of an interagency Government Committee on Reciprocity Information have been "a complete farce."

Representative Javits (R., N. Y.) urged a three-year extension of the act without change.

He said the present program "is one of the bases of United States foreign policy and not just a measure dealing with revenues and imposts."

Matthew Woll said the American newspaper industry wants the Reciprocal Trade Act extended without change because it is "the pleader of a special interest"—newsprint.

Woll, who is a vice president of the American Federation of Labor, sent a statement to the committee as president of America's Wage Earners' Protective Conference. He backed the House-passed bill.

Gigantic Indian Memorial Gets Underway in S. D.

Custer, S. Dak., June 4 (AP).—What is termed the greatest sculpting project ever attempted started here Thursday as dynamite took the first chips out of the side of Thunderhead Mountain.

Nearly 500 Indians and whites gathered for the ceremony beginning a memorial to the redmen and their Sioux leader, Chief Crazy Horse, by Kerczak Ziolkowski. The sculptor said he has dedicated his next 30 years to the monument. It will be 500 feet high and 400 feet wide.

Ziolkowski said "a lot of people think I'm trying to fly to the moon by even dreaming of the project." He already has expended $81,000 on preliminary plans. Estimates have placed the ultimate cost at five million dollars.

Central motif will be the figure of Crazy Horse, bare to the waist and with arm outstretched, mounted on a charging Indian pony.

Synthetic Milk Seen Replacing Dairies

Columbus, Ohio, June 4 (AP).—Cleveland's chief milk inspector thinks there's a chance the cow isn't here to stay.

You may have to rely on synthetic dairy products in the future, Chief Inspector D. W. Acheson of the Cleveland Health Department told the Ohio Association of Public Health Sanitarians last night.

"Dairy producers must get more consideration if we are going to have milk in the future," Acheson said.

Otherwise, he said, "the only answer is synthetics, which are coming on us perhaps faster than we realize."

Alexandria to Study Health Conditions

A critical report on Alexandria's public health program by the League of Women Voters was described by the city's health officer yesterday as "a matter for the City Council's consideration."

Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, administrative head of the health department, said he had seen a copy of the report, but pointed out that alleged shortcomings in the health program were matters which could be rectified only by the council.

Most of the conditions cited in the report are "essentially true," Dr. Schafer conceded, but added "some of them do create false impressions."

The report, issued by the Voters' League as the result of a fact-finding survey, assailed the city for not conducting certain public clinics; for restricing use of health department X-ray equipment to schoolteachers and indigent tuberculars; for not correcting allegedly "unsanitary" conditions in open streams and outdoor toilets, and for failing to give adequate financial support to Alexandria Hospital.

Referring to the criticisms, Dr. Schafer said program features recommended by the league would require added funds, and added that the council is responsible for appropriating money for health department functions.

"Unless the council gives us the money," he said, "our hands are tied."

Both City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto and Mayor William T. Wilkins said they had "heard" of the report, but declared the city had received no formal notification of the league's criticisms. They would not be considered by the council, they pointed out, until some formal presentation is made.

Classicist Scores

Latest Red Symphony By Oldster

Moscow, June 4 (NYHT)—The latest in Soviet symphonies has been composed by Sergei Vasilenko, 70, whose first works were presented in 1902, 15 years before the Bolshevik revolution.

He is described as a living bond between the pre-revolution classical Russian music and that of modern times.

A recent Communist Party resolution ruled out modernistic, complicated compositions. It proposed instead the use of classical Russian structures and folk melodies. This Vasilenko evidently has achieved in the new symphony, his fifth. The symphony was pronounced a success and it will be performed for the first time by the Soviet State Symphony Orchestra next season.

Vasilenko has been a professor at the Moscow Conservatory for 40 years.

Custom Main Pervert Curb, Kinsey Says

New York, June 4 (AP).—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, who wrote the 800-page best seller on male sex, said today social customs restrain sexual perversions more than do laws. But, he added, social cruelties produce some perversions they were intended to stop.

Dr. Kinsey addressed the annual meeting of the American Psychopathological Association, a gathering of physicians, biologists and psychologists who deal with persons classified as abnormal.

He said he was not talking about what is right or wrong, but only the causes of perversions.

There are, he said, two kinds of sex offenses. One comprises forced sex relations, spread of venereal disease and adult attacks on young minors. These, he said, are classed as assaults on the person and are restrained by law.

The other class, perversions, he said, do not harm the person, but are forbidden by law as an offense against nature. Nowhere else in the law, he added, has he found legislation against offending nature.

Our perversion codes, Dr. Kinsey declared, came from the Talmudic code. The Jews got those codes, he added, from their own practices and those of states bordering ancient Palestine. The early Christian church, he went on, took its sexual philosophy from the Jews, Greeks and Romans. These early codes held that reproduction was the only basis for sex.

"Enforcement during the ages," he said, "has relied more on social than legal restraints. In the social enforcement man has shown more cruelty to man than in any other way.

"Today more damage is done to persons by their fear of social punishment for sexual misbehavior than by their acts. The lives of many are made a perfect hell.

"Physicians find more mentally disturbed persons among homosexuals or other perverts, than in non-perverts. I agree that these people are often dissturbed, but I think the disturbances often are the product of social penalties."

Rights Riders Due to Lose

ber and pounding repeatedly on the nearest desk, Langer attacked Administration foreign policy, "militarization of the Government," the draft bill and racial discrimination.

"Who can expect Negroes, Indians and Mexicans to fight to the death for a system which oppresses them and for an Army which discriminates against them solely on account of the color of their skin," he shouted hoarsely.

At one point the North Dakotan borrowed Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg's desk copy of the United Nations Charter and read the U. N.'s declaration against "discrimination of all kinds."

Langer told the almost empty chamber that he hadn't voted for the U. N., but "I'm for it today."

Once Senator Glen Taylor (D., Idaho), third party vice presidential candidate, interrupted to indorse his stand, but for the most part it was a Langer monologue.

Before the North Dakotan began, the Senate adopted a series of committee amendments. They included one knocking out an earlier plan to draft 18-year-olds for a year's training.

As now written the bill permits the voluntary enlistment of 161,000 18-year-old youths for a year's training in the United States. Thereafter they would enter an organized reserve unit and be exempt from the two-year draft.

Chairman Gurney read into the record a letter from Defense Secretary James Forrestal approving the bill in present form and especially praising the 18-year-old plan. Forrestal stressed the importance of providing trained reserves.

Besides the racial amendments several other controversial changes must be disposed of before the draft bill comes up for final vote. One is a proposal to delay any actual inductions for 90 days and until President Truman declares that the draft must be invoked.

Gurney's committee turned it down earlier, but Senator Kenneth Wherry (R., Nebr.), acting majority leader, said yesterday he favored it and believed it would have strong backing.

views in executive session. It is known, however, that even some of those members who favor some legislation have strong doubts as to the constitutionality of certain provisions in the House-passed bill.

The committee also failed to act yesterday on antilynching or tidelands bills, which have been stalled now for several weeks.

Unlike the Mundt-Nixon bill, the anti-lynching measure has been marked for action by Senate Republican policy makers.

Wiley said his committee would meet again Monday to try to set a definite date for decision on antilynching, which he said, like the Mundt-Nixon bill, involves constitutional questions and also requires the most careful consideration.

Under the Mundt-Nixon bill, as passed by the House, 319 to 58, the Communist Party and all Communist-front organizations would be required to register annually with the Justice Department. Initially, the Attorney General, by administrative hearings with provision for court review, would determine which organizations were Communists fronts.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) yesterday offered an amendment to let the courts, rather than the Attorney General, decide which organization is a Communist front. Ferguson said too much power already had been lodged in the hands of administrative authority rather than in the courts.

Meanwhile, Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) yesterday demanded that Attorney General Tom C. Clark immediately launch sedition proceedings against William Z. Foster, Communist Party leader.

McDowell, a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said he would "swear" Foster committed sedition when he testified before Congress that Communists would not obey the Mundt-Nixon bill even if it became law.

Maryland U. Class Of '08 Has Reunion

The class of '08 at the University of Maryland returned to the scenes of its youth yesterday but instead of a few buildings perched in a sea of mud the members found stately buildings and a spacious campus.

The man who inspired the change was there, too, as a classmate. He was H. C. Byrd, now president of the university.

The old grads met for their fortieth anniversary dinner in the recently completed dining hall of the university.

The original class was 31 with 20 members now alive widely distributed over the United States and one in South America.

Twelve were able to attend and join in the reminiscences. These included G. G. Becker, Hoboken, N. J.; N. E. Brice, Milburn, N. J.; Dr. Byrd; H. B. Hoshall, member of the faculty at College Park; U. W. Long, Selbyville, Del., vice president of the class; S. M. Lowrey of Baltimore, Md.; T. B. Mackall, of Mackall, Md.; R. H. Ruffner, Raleigh, N. C.; Dr. R. L. Silvester and C. A. Warthen of Washington; W. A. S. Somerville of Cumberland, Md., president of the class, and Charles W. Sylvester, superintendent of schools of Baltimore, who was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Part of Loot Found

Thief Robs 18 Students At Academy

A sneak thief yesterday entered the cloakroom of St. Patrick's Academy, 924 G st. nw., and stole coats, pocketbooks and other items belonging to 18 students who were attending class upstairs.

School officials said the thief between 9 and 10:30 a. m. entered by an unlocked door. His loot included about $8.50 in cash and items valued at $72. All of the articles except three coats and the cash were found later in the basement boiler room.

George Poulos, propretor of a restaurant at 406 7th st. sw., reported his restaurant was entered sometime early yesterday and $265 in cash was taken. The thieves also made off with several bottles of whisky, he told police.

Clarence E. Bowen, 46, District passenger agent for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., reported he was beaten and robbed of $30 in cash in the railway's office at 809 15th st. nw. late Thursday.

Bowen, who lives at 1322 Rittenhouse st. nw., said he returned to the office from a nearby restaurant about 10:30 p. m. and left the front door unlocked.

Two men, whom he believes followed him from the restaurant, stepped into the office behind him, beat him severely and knocked him unconscious to the floor, he told police.

When he came to, his trousers and coat had been removed. Missing were his wallet, containing the money, the keys to the office and an unknown number of railroad passes, police said. He was treated by a private doctor.

Man Guilty, Woman Freed In Car Deaths

One Washington resident was convicted on charges of manslaughter but appealed while another was acquitted yesterday in Prince Georges County Police Court at Upper Marlboro, Md.

Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie found Mrs. Justina R. Way, 58, of 1703 New York ave. nw., innocent of manslaughter and of reckless driving in connection with the death May 27 of Clarence D. Penn, 64, of 1753 Q st. nw., a pedestrian. Penn died in Casualty Hospital after having been struck on May 26 by a car operated by Mrs. Way on Central ave. in Seat Pleasant, Md.

Judge Bowie imposed a fine of $500 for manslaughter and suspended sentence after conviction in reckless driving on James Boehman, 2203 Channing st. ne. Boehman appealed both of the convictions to the Circuit Court and was released on bond of $600. He contended that the victim, Joseph Blue, 23, 28 Channing st. ne., was driver of the car in which they crashed into an electric light pole February 29 on Route 5 near Clinton, Md.

Three persons were injured when a second car crashed into the Boehman car as it swerved. They were George Wentz, 47, Mrs. Jane Wentz, 45, and David Wentz, 15, all of Brandywine, Md. Blue died in Casualty Hospital.

Boy Scouts Pitch Tents at Totten For Camporee

About 400 boys from the Northeast section of Washington began pitching tents in Fort Totten Park yesterday afternoon.

They were Boy Scouts, holding their annual Northern District camporee this weekend.

Today's program includes field events and demonstrations of various scouting skills at 2 p. m. A campfire tonight and church services Sunday morning will round out the weekend, which is scheduled to break up at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Boy Scouts from four Maryland counties are also holding a camporee this weekend on the Scout campsite in Greenbelt. Almost 300 boys from Prince Georges, Calvert, St. Marys and Charles Counties will check in today at 9 a. m. Highlights of their program will be an Adventure Trail at 3:30 p. m. today, and a Court of Honor tonight at 8:30.

Griffin to Die June 11 For Card Game Murder

Baxter Griffin, 42, who was convicted by a District Court jury of the murder of Lee Hunter, 23, in a row over a card game in March last year, faces electrocution in the District Jail next Friday.

Justice Alexander Holtzoff yesterday refused to grant a new postponement of the execution date, after overruling a motion for a new trial predicated upon a claim that fresh evidence in the case had been discovered.

the grand jury room yesterday he shrugged off reporters' questions with unusual curtness, declaring, "I have nothing to say."

Later, when questioned further at his office, he stated:

"I'm not answering any questions. I've testified before the grand jury and I may have to return."

Fay yesterday maintained his policy of making no comment on the course of the probe.

The grand jury, which was impaneled May 17, is known to have already heard from 13 other police officers, including 10 precinct captains, 2 inspectors, and Lieut. Roy Blick, vice squad chief.

Man Gets 9 Months As Numbers 'Repeater'

A 43-year-old Alexandria man was sentenced to nine months in the city jail in Alexandria police court yesterday, following his second conviction for operating a numbers game.

Bud Ridding, 910 Princess st., was sentenced to three months and fined $300 on the current charge, and then was ordered by Judge James R. Duncan to serve a six-month term which had been suspended when he was convicted of a similar offense several years ago. Although he had pleaded guilty to the second charge, Ridding appealed the sentence.

Three other persons were fined $300 each and given suspended sentences of 90 days on gambling charges in the Alexandria court yesterday. They were Charles Smith, 58, 213 S. Peyton st.; Mrs. Margaret Hall, 27, 510 N. Royal st., and Chester R. Slade, 49, 417 S. St. Asaph st., all of whom pleaded guilty to charges of operating lotteries.

Northwest Faces Worse Flood As Columbia Nears New Crest hit early and hard, was still pressed by the Kootenai River.

British Columbia's Fraser cracked a dike on Barnston Island and in a night-time evacuation by Army and Navy personnel, 320 residents were moved to safety. Earlier the Hatzic Dike, 45 miles east of Vancouver, B. C., gave way and the river crashed over the Canadian Pacific's main line track. The town of Dewdney was isolated.

A thousand miles to the southeast five bridges went out in Idaho's Lemhi County on the Montana border. One man drowned. It put the Northwest's toll at 24.

All Dikes Called Critical

As the new flood moved down the river the Army Engineers said "we consider all dikes critical, due to softening." Col. O. E. Walsh, district engineer, had no statement on what might happen to the dike that guards the 43-million-dollar Reynolds Aluminum plant east of Portland or to the many others from there down to the sea.

Meanwhile rehabilitation plans were laid. From a 10-million-dollar emergency appropriation asked in Congress today by Senator Magnuson (R., Wash.) down to smaller sums, the money began to shape up.

Golden Gate Fields, horse racing track at Albany, Calif., sent $5000 to aid horsemen stranded when Portland Meadows went under.

Some Vanport survivors moved today to Swan Island barracks and others will go to Portland air base and similar quarters. Trailers were on their way from throughout the West to aid as stop-gap housing.

Meanwhile, hundreds still lived in private homes, churches and schools—fed by the Red Cross, Salvation Army and friends.

Magnuson Asks 10 Million For Quick Flood Relief

By The Associated Press

Senator Magnuson (R., Wash.) yesterday asked Congress to vote $10,000,000 for immediate emergency flood relief in the Pacific Northwest.

He introduced a resolution in the Senate to let the President spend $10,000,000 of Federal funds on relief and also accept and use funds donated from any source.

"This may turn out to be the greatest flood catastrophe in the history of the country," Magnuson told the Senate. He said property damage and losses may be above $500,000,000.

Chairman Dondero (R., Mich.) of the House Public Works Committee said he is against a House bill to authorize a $75,000,000 appropriation to pay for emergency reconstruction in the flooded area.

"I know of no precedent for such legislation," he said.

Government officials proposed the bill be amended to include provisions for temporary housing.

Raymond M. Foley, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, told a House Public Works subcommittee he expects flooded Vanport, Oreg., will need from 2500 to 3800 temporary dwellings within two weeks.

Boost D. C. Group Reaches 90 Pct. of Promotion Budget

The Greater National Capital Committee has reached 90.7 per cent of its quota of $85,000 to promote tourist trade in Washington, Dan Holland, campaign chairman, announced yesterday.

Holland told the GNCC at its fifth campaign luncheon at the Carlton, "We can reach our quota if not exceed it."

Among divisions that recently reached 100 per cent of quota were Radio Stations with 100 per cent, Airlines with 100 per cent, Utilities with 100 per cent and General Insurance with 100 per cent.

Holland said that the tourist trade here brings in 60 million dollars yearly and is second only to Government as a business.

16 High School Air Patrol Cadets Study Airport

Sixteen Civil Air Patrol cadets of Wilson and Western High Schools had the run of the Washington National Airport yesterday afternoon.

They learned the airport business from the sale of passenger tickets to the servicing of aircraft. They rode in jeeps, inspected hangars under construction and saw how airplane traffic is directed into safe landings.

Each cadet was taken to a different section dealing with air traffic control and worked in such airport units as operations, control tower, ground control approach, information desk and ticket counting.

The airport trip was part of the CAP cadet program of free aviation training in ground school subjects.

Salvation Army Fund Drive Is Extended

The Salvation Army's rebuilding fund drive, scheduled to close June 17, has been extended to July 1. The group hopes to collect $350,000 in its first direct-to-the public appeal for funds in 25 years.

Next report luncheon will be held on Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. in the Evangeline Home, 1330 L st. nw.

Race Relations Changes Held Due Soon

HOWARD COMMENCEMENT—Mrs. Mary Church Terrell looks over her degree of doctor of humane letters, conferred yesterday by Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson (right), president of Howard University

An epoch in American history has been reached where there are "strong reasons to expect rapid and fundamental changes in race relations," Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, author of "The American Dilemma," told Howard University graduates last night.

The Swedish economist, now executive secretary of the United Nations' Economic Commission for Europe, spoke at the eightieth annual commencement held on the university campus.

Six hundred and sixty-one degrees including three honorary were conferred by Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of the university.

Honorary degrees of doctor of law went to Edwin Rogers Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, and to Oliver Randolph, deputy attorney general for the State of New Jersey and author of the antisegregation provisions of the State constitution. The degree of doctor of humane letters was granted to Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, author and Washington civic leader.

Dr. Myrdal declared, "The entire Jim Crow system will gradually break down partly because segregation is increasingly going to be felt to be both awkward and silly in a civilized and democratic country, partly because segregation will become impractical and financially very burdensome once the authorities are compelled to make the separate facilities equal," he said.

Speaking, he said, not in his capacity of a United Nations representative, but as a man "once called upon to make an impartial study of race relations in America," Dr. Myrdal declared "nothing short of full equality can be accepted as the solution of the Negro problem."

2 Capital Attorneys Get Honorary Degrees

Democracy cannot permit civil liberty to become "the sanctuary of subversion, the tinderbox of treason," declared Rep. Joseph R. Bryson, (D., S. C.), last night.

He spoke at commencement exercises of the School of Law, National University, here, at which two Washington attorneys were awarded honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws. They are Godfrey L. Munter, past president of the District Bar Association, and Thomas B. Shoemaker, deputy commissioner of the Federal Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"No system of law is just, no concept of liberty is safe, that breeds the instruments of its own violent overthrow," declared Representative Bryson. "We must deal positively with the threat of communism, but more important we must develop a new fervor, a new enthusiasm, a new appreciation for the democratic process."

Last night's exercises, the 79th graduation service of the institution, were held in Central High School auditorium, with Chief Judge George P. Barse, of Municipal Court, the university chancellor, presiding. Awarded were eight Master of Laws degrees, three Master of Patent Laws, 29 Bachelor of Laws and two certificates.

Freedom of Choice Held Important

Richard F. Cleveland, Baltimore attorney and son of the late President Grover Cleveland, told the graduating class of the Landon School for Boys in Bethesda, Md., yesterday that freedom of choice is one of the most important differences between a democracy and a dictatorship.

The Headmaster's Award for students outstanding in all school activities went to Jack Yates, Chevy Chase, Md., of the upper school, John Eaton of 2311 Connecticut ave. nw., middle school, and John Littlehales, Bethesda, Md., in the lower school. Littlehales also won the art prize.

Cum laude Honorary Society certificates were presented to Samuel C. D. Bledsoe, Silver Spring, Md., and James R. Miller of the class of 1949, Chevy Chase, Md.

The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. William F. Creighton, rector of St. John's Church, Bethesda.

Publications Abroad

How groundless is the charge that currency convertibility provisions in the European Recovery Program are a "payoff" for newspaper and magazine support may be seen from the number of disavowals of such assistance that already have been issued. The purpose of the 10-million-dollar sum approved by the House Appropriations Committee is, purely and simply, to facilitate the distribution of American books, magazines, newspapers and motion pictures in European countries where currency restrictions now make such distribution difficult or impossible. The appropriation cannot be considered a subsidy, for the only thing it does is to enable cooperating institutions to convert foreign currencies received for their products into dollars. All the hullabaloo about "subsidy" and "payoff" could very easily serve, however, to discredit the project in the eyes of the Europeans it is intended to benefit.

That there is a great need for fresh American publications in Europe has been recognized by practically every committee that surveyed the ground for ERP. Even Representative John Taber, no friend of the recovery program, asserted that some American newspapers distributed abroad "are accomplishing more in France, Germany and Italy" than the Voice of America. The need is twofold. Some countries have seen virtually no new American books, especially textbooks and technical books, since before the war. Beyond that, the American newspapers sent abroad are often badly outdated in comparison with the up-to-the-minute publications from Moscow available on newsstands.

The ideal solution, as this newspaper has observed before, would be a multiplication of European editions of American publications, printed abroad for rapid distribution. As a matter of fact, the original language in the ERP authorization act was intended to facilitate such enterprise not only with respect to media of information but also in connection with the stimulation of other "productive activity." The fact that such expansion now must be undertaken at a loss serves, of course, to discourage it. In most cases the loss itself is largely artificial. Dollars must be spent for publication costs, but the money received in the sale of such services is in currency blocked in individual countries.

There is always the possibility that any sort of governmental assistance in currency conversion will be stigmatized as governmental control over policy, even though such is decidedly not the intention or the fact. It is this possibility, no doubt, which has led news services and certain publications to reject the suggestion. Perhaps the answer to such objections lies in a broader provision made applicable generally to American businesses in Europe until currencies are restored to interchangeability. In any event the captious critics of the proposal are under an obligation to suggest some workable substitute that will make use of the tremendous potential of publications and motion pictures in telling the American story abroad.

Well Done

Arthur S. Flemming is leaving the Government service a comparatively young man, but he takes with him a wealth of experience and an enviable reputation for intelligent and impartial as well as devoted public service. For nine years he has been a member of the Civil Service Commission, and it is no disparagement of his colleagues to point out that he has been its dominant influence. He came to represent the CSC in the public mind because of his broad grasp of personnel problems and the dynamism which he threw into the task of recruiting able men and women to work for the Government.

Especially in carrying the case of the Government worker before the Appropriation Committees of Congress, Mr. Flemming's success has been outstanding. His candor and fairness disarmed many a critic of the CSC and contributed enormously toward putting the Federal personnel system on the high plane of nonpartisanship that it ought to occupy. His influence also contributed a great deal toward freeing the loyalty investigations from a witch-hunt atmosphere. As Mr. Flemming points out in his letter of resignation, there is much yet to be done by way of improving the Federal personnel system. Better promotion methods, a higher salary scale in the upper brackets and means of recruiting trained supervisors are problems that must be given attention. Those tasks can be more readily approached because of the standards that Mr. Flemming has helped to set.

As president of Ohio Wesleyan University, Mr. Flemming will continue to have a broad opportunity for employment of his talents. He can scarcely expect, however, to withdraw entirely from public life. Indeed, he has already consented to serve as chairman of the Advisory Committee on Personnel Management of the Atomic Energy Commission and will continue working as a member of the committee that is planning the reorganization of the executive branch of the Government. No doubt he will be drafted for other important assignments. The Government can ill afford to lose the services of men of Mr. Flemming's caliber.

Now For The Draft

Out of the maze of confusing figures in the military budget passed by the House several conclusions may be drawn. First, despite some gestures at budgetary face-saving, the $8,855,000,000 cash and contract authorization voted for the Air Force and Army, plus the 3½ billions additional provided for the Navy, are substantially what the armed forces wanted, at least in their minimum estimates. The total 1949 defense appropriation of approximately 13½ billions, plus carryovers, should make a meaningful contribution to the Nation's preparedness. New manpower authorizations and new plane and weapon building programs should serve notice everywhere that America means business — provided, of course, that Congress follows through with enactment of the draft.

The second conclusion is that, aside from broad outlines, it is unlikely that many legislators had more than a foggy notion of precisely what they were voting for. This is the result partly of the sheer complexity of the military budget itself, partly of an apparent desire to make the total appear less than it really is. For example, the House approved a 790,000-man ceiling for the Army, but cut the funds necessary to pay, feed and house a force of that size, presumably on the theory that the Army cannot expand to that limit within a year. If the Army does succeed in expanding, however, it has the implied authorization to incur a deficit. Where is the saving here? In similar fashion the House denied the Army funds it had requested for more civilian employes. If the jobs for which these employes were to be hired are necessary, then it is apparent that they will have to be filled by military personnel. The effect, then, is to deprive the Army of the full utility of its 790,000 strength and to up the cost of manning clerical and administrative jobs.

From a military standpoint, the principal defect in the House bill is that it economizes at the expense of new Army ordnance development. New weapons ought to be one of the fields in which experimentation should be most active; but the House bill places what seems to us a short-sighted reliance on weapons now on hand. With respect to the Air Force, however, the bill shows good sense that was not apparent in the earlier precipitate vote for 70 air groups. The measure provides money for staffing a 66-group force in light of the Army's contention that it will not have the manpower to support a 70-group force during the next year. For the Navy the House wisely approved construction of the controversial 65,000-ton aircraft carrier, though some funds were pared from other shipbuilding.

All in all, the House did a reasonable job of discharging its responsibility for this portion of the national defense, though the relatively small concern which such vast sums received again illustrates the need for some better means of examining military budgets. Providing money, moreover, is only part of the congressional responsibility. If the budget is to be more than a mere agglomeration of statistics, then the armed forces must have the men to implement it. Republican leaders have given assurances that the draft will pass, but the more it is delayed, the greater is the chance that it will be bogged down with stultifying amendments at the last minute. Surely there has been a surfeit of distractions on a measure that is the mainspring of all other defense efforts.

Paraguay Upset

Not many tears will be shed over the deposing of President Higinio Morinigo in Paraguay. Although there were some indications that he had mellowed during the latter part of his eight-year tenure, General Morinigo had a reputation for ruthlessness that was oppressive even to the dictator-ridden Paraguayans. Morinigo came to power on the coattails of the army, and even though he was "elected" for a subsequent five-year term in 1943, his source of support remained the military. Discontent over his heavy-handedness culminated in a lengthy insurrection last year, a revolt which Morinigo finally succeeded in quashing—reportedly, with arms from his brother dictator in Argentina, Juan Peron. Since that time Morinigo has tolerated virtually no political opposition.

The immediate cause of the ouster seems to be a case of the heir-apparent usurping the substantive job. In February of this year, Juan Natalcio Gonzalez was selected to become Morinigo's successor in August. Although Morinigo in effect named Gonzalez as the next President, there was a growing suspicion that he had no intention of turning over his office. Meanwhile Gonzalez and the powerful Colorado Party succeeded in gaining control of most of the cabinet and, seemingly, the army. The test came when Morinigo sought to remove a Gonzalez supporter as chief of police in the capital city of Asuncion. The Gonzalez forces took up the challenge and won, placing the former chief justice of the Supreme Court, Dr. Juan Manuel Frutos, in office until August 15.

Inasmuch as the Gonzalez regime will itself be heavily dependent on the army for support, it is extremely debatable whether the overthrow of Morinigo means any trend toward less autocratic government. More than likely, it is merely another reshuffling of the cards in the Paraguayan tradition of strong-man rule respecting which, as the French say, the more it changes, the more it is the same thing.

Unfinished Business

As Congress sprints down the home stretch, it is carrying a back-breaking burden. Literally dozens of bills, many of them of great importance, ought to be carried through to enactment. Most of the members are willing to agree that their work is a very long way from being done. Yet the leaders are driving frantically toward adjournment two weeks hence. Their plan, if realized, would result in an unconscionable wreckage of useful legislation.

It is futile, of course, to belabor Congress for not having disposed of much of this legislation in the months that have already passed. Everyone acquainted with the routine on Capitol Hill knows that Congress is a hive of industry. And with many committees studying different bills at the same time, log jams as the end of a session approaches seem to be inevitable. When Congress runs into this kind of situation, however, it does have the alternative of staying on the job until its work is done, and that is what we think it should do in the present instance.

A Republican leadership conference in which both the Senate and House were represented has given top priority to the draft bill, the displaced persons bill, and renewal, in emasculated form, of the reciprocal trade powers. Speaker Martin has given assurance also that the House will pass, in some form, the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. But the effect of singling out these measures is to emphasize the probable slaughter of other urgent bills if the June 19 deadline is adhered to. It would be unreasonable to expect any comprehensive social security legislation because of the President's delay in submitting his recommendations. But it is not unreasonable to expect Congress to pass the bills providing aid to education, abolishing the discriminatory oleomargarine taxes, and adjusting the national agricultural policy to postwar conditions. Scarcely less urgent is action on the bills to create a national science foundation, to give equal status to women and permit home rule in the District of Columbia. Certainly the Lodge and Gossett resolutions to improve the system under which the President is elected ought to be passed, and the Vandenberg resolution suggesting changes in the United Nations Charter and strengthening of our defenses through collective agreements under Article 51 of the Charter must be regarded as an integral segment of the Nation's bipartisan foreign policy.

Congress cannot abandon these numerous projects without shirking its responsibility. Many aspects of the national welfare are wrapped up in these measures, and their failure would be immediately interpreted to mean that Congressmen are more interested in politicking than in finishing their job in Washington. That would be neither good policy nor good politics. With President Truman now out beating the bushes, the temptation of Congressmen to rush to the hustings will doubtless be intensified. In the end, however, a record of work well done is likely to be of far greater importance to the average member of Congress than an extra few weeks of campaigning.

Salvation Army

The plethora of financial campaigns with which the public has been besieged tends to overshadow the current appeal of the Salvation Army in Washington. Other than through the familiar street-corner bands and bell-ringers at Christmas time, the public does not hear much about the Salvation Army, for the simple reason that it has not made an organized drive for funds for 25 years. All this time, however, it has gone quietly about the business of helping the destitute and downtrodden. In Washington during 1947, for example, it aided the remarkable total of 75,000 persons with food, shelter and counsel. One of its most important functions is the home it provides for outcast girls and illegitimate children. It also does valuable community service in affording camp and other recreation facilities for underprivileged children, in caring for transients and helping locate missing persons. The Salvation Army now desperately needs $350,000 to rebuild and restore worn and outmoded buildings. Contributions may be sent to the organization's headquarters at 1435 K st. nw. This is a time when the hand to the friendless needs a hand from the public.

One cried, "My fate is hard, my fate is hard,
My loss is boundless." Eyes and voice were wild
"They were the compass of my Earth and Heaven:
I have lost both, my husband and my child."

"Nay," said another, "for I had no child.
An undivided love is far more great.
My mate was everything that life held dear,
And he is gone—Mine is the saddest fate."

But I, who had loved most and been most loved,
I had lost all and yet was suffered not
The right to cry my grief aloud and weep.
I, silent, moaned, "Mine is the hardest lot."

But one who watched us with unpassioned eyes,
Whispered—her tone flat as an ebbing wave—
"I never was beloved. My heart," she said,
"Is cold and empty as an unknown cave."

And as I looked into those clear, still eyes,
Unlighted fires, deep wells untouched by sun,
My heart rejoiced that I had drained Love's cup.
I knew her lot to be the bitterest one.

Chaplains' Heroism

I have the feeling the four heroic chaplains would turn over in their icy North Atlantic graves if they read Marshall Andrews' article of May 30.

Andrews dubs the piece "Four Heroic Chaplains Need Never Have Died" and proceeds to make what seems at first glance a fine tribute to the selfishness of the men. A Catholic, a Jew, and two Protestants went down together having given their lifebelts to four soldiers.

After citing their widely acclaimed heroism, the columnist draws his hypothesis that the four soldiers lacked discipline and training. Otherwise, they would have had their own lifebelts in accordance with regulations. It is a thinly supported assumption, and for all any of us knows those men may have had the benefit of many years of Army discipline.

At any rate, Andrews concludes that the sacrifice of the four chaplains was a symbol of the need for more military training. It means that mothers should be more willing to spare their sons for additional months of military training, preferably in peacetime.

The fact that four men of three different faiths died to save four soldiers whose names and creeds they probably never knew has far greater significance than has been nationally recognized. It is a singular example of the spiritual unity of men, a symbol of universal brotherhood, not of universal peacetime training.

Andrews' use of the incident for his purpose is utterly indefensible and a perversion of a noble act. He should look elsewhere for valid arguments for peacetime military training. IRVING LICHT.

Palestine Federation

Irving Wilner's letter of May 29 presents a solution for Palestine worthy of serious consideration. In his column a month ago, Walter Lippmann outlined the idea which Wilner develops in detail: dominion status for the Jewish part of Palestine under King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan; a title for Abdullah; self-government for the Jews; equal civil rights; economic cooperation.

The aroused prides of both Arabs and Jews would, of course, suffer equally. However, the parties are economically interdependent and must find some form of reconciliation. Certainly combined British and U. N. pressure would enable each to accept the compromise gracefully. The only countries still dissatisfied would then be the other Arab countries, notably Syria and Egypt, for whose benefit some adjustments, perhaps territorial, might be made.

The Russians have thus far voiced commendable insistence on sending troops to enforce peace in Palestine. It will, therefore, be interesting to gauge the alacrity with which they support a plausible solution to the crisis. It is also to be hoped that experts here, in London, and Lake Success will give their attention to the Lippmann-Wilner proposal. And, of course, one thing we have learned: the key to the success of this "dominion" plan, as of any other, is that it be enforced firmly and finally.

Suicide Preventive

The suicides of several veterans in Washington recently, ostensibly because of failure to earn a living or to get ahead, should cause intensified efforts toward preserving mental health.

If there are psychiatric outpatient clinics here, it is plain that they are not being attended by the persons who should visit them. Business and social friends of the mentally disturbed should be more insistent upon the ill going to see psychiatrists at Walter Reed, St. Elizabeths or elsewhere. Diffidence in such cases is virtually criminal.

Being treated by a psychiatrist through an inexpensive clinic should not involve, save in the extreme cases, confinement to any psychopathic ward.

As for any stigma being associated with such treatment, it may actually be the one occasion when many persons learn something about "human nature," even those who already know all about it.

The next time any person feels like jumping from the Sousa Bridge, or hanging himself by the ceiling lamp, or shooting a bullet into a vital area of his body, let him remember just one simple action in the midst of his depression, despondency, "dead-end" feeling, or other: run for a cab or a policeman and say "Gallinger Hospital."

That's all he'll have to do—to save his life, to spare his wife and/or children, and to accomplish something in his life that will make him feel glad he'd lived.

Loyalty Hallucination

Last week I was questioned by a representative of the Federal Government concerning the loyalty of a fellow Government employe.

When I objected that I had no facts on which to base any answer, the examining agent stated, "no proof or evidence is necessary, because even hallucinations of neurotics are evidence enough, for sometimes such hallucinations are based on something tangible."

Presidential Timber

Both parties are scrounging for presidential timber. Is there no American of sound and sturdy timber who has the intestinal fortitude to present as a platform supported by the four freedoms the precepts that will insure American democracy and world freedom, and with steps of service, sincerity, and loyalty, follow through to the end on these basic, urgent principles:

That the people of these United States must be educated to the possibility and probability of the extinction of our democracy unless we wake up; that to survive, we must win this peace, by force if necessary; that we cannot ad infinitum pour our natural resources into war and defense against war; that 85 cents out of every one of our tax dollars is being poured down the maw of Mars.

That only when American principles are practical internationally will we have surcease from fear and from our Gargantuan tax load; that the United Nations must function; that the United Nations must be provided with teeth to enforce its rulings; that our Nation, to remain big in the family of nations, must remain big in principles as well as in wealth and resources; that every nation, in this family of nations, must be as secure from invasion as is every family in our Nation of families; that using our constitutional rights to undermine our Constitution is punishable.

Let's be realistic. Our Nation is on the spot. Our existence is threatened. Educate our people to that fact and let's forget empty platitudes. As T. R. would say, "No fight was ever yet won except by hitting and the unforgivable offense is to hit soft." We do not need a politician or diplomat but a man with plain American guts with the people of America behind him. Let's find him and all help push. LEO W. MILLER.

World Citizenship

An Associated Press story of May 27 reported that my brother, Garry Davis, had renounced his United States citizenship to become a "world citizen." While it is doubtful that his action will increase public demand for a federal world government "with limited powers to prevent war," there is no gainsaying the need. It is imperative that the objectives he hopes for be attained.

The United States should take the initiative in making clear the principle and in helping establish enforced world law. Obviously, the present political condition is raw anarchy. If a government with supreme jurisdiction for maintaining peace is not established, we shall be destroyed by war.

The United Nations is only a league of sovereign states which individually retain the right of veto, the right to manufacture arms and to declare war. Voluntary leagues of this type cannot keep peace. What is needed is extension of the principle of federalism to cover the world, so that a world government, acting under its delegated powers, could proceed against any individual or individuals adjudged guilty of fomenting war. All people would remain citizens of their respective countries, as we are citizens of different States, but would also be world citizens with definite obligations to the world government in the matter of maintaining peace.

The federal world government can be developed within the United Nations as the United States was developed from the loose confederation of colonies existing before the adoption of our constitution. The United Nations should call a conference to review its charter, under Article 109, which could propose amendments to make the United Nations an effective world government.

The amendments and constitution thus adopted would be submitted to the member nations for ratification and would become law upon adoption by two thirds of them whether or not all the permanent members of the Security Council agreed. The new constitution, by providing its own terms of ratification, would in effect overcome the obstacle by which one or two nations can stop all the rest from having constitutional world government.

To those who state, "Russia will not join," let us admit, "Perhaps not, at first, but it is certainly wise to have the issue clear and to inform the peoples of the world what we advocate and will support." It is not generally known that most important nations, with the notable exception of ourselves and Soviet Russia, have declared themselves willing to join such a government. The French and Italian constitutions specifically provide for joining.

It seems unlikely, also, that nations remaining outside the world government would attempt violence against its superior forces representing the overwhelming proportion of mankind.

Let the Republican and Democratic conventions face and declare themselves on this issue. We should waste no time in demanding world law with world police and world courts to enforce it, and in acknowledging our irrevocable responsibility not to withdraw from it, just as none of our States may withdraw from the Federal Government, and as none of us may withdraw from the planet.

Postscript To Glamour

By Malvina Lindsay

Down-To-Earth Living

IT WAS wonderful while it lasted, at least for the glamour starved, the binge of frivolous spending now winding up. With the cost of living the highest in history, crowds are now clambering aboard the bandwagon of practicality. The hard-headed years loom ahead.

However, for many the going back to the ashes is not easy. Hence private debt is 30 per cent higher than a year ago, and at an all-time high. Much of this is for motor cars, furniture, household appliances, though the average household, it is estimated, owes $4.30 for jewelry bought on installment — probably during the butterfly era. Its entire debt, not including what is owed the doctor and grocer, is $323.

Big overspending for this year is predicted by analysts of the Federal Reserve Board, who see one out of every four families paying out more than it takes in. However, much of this buying on credit will be for long-range goods, as new homes, motor cars, household equipment.

Recent tax reduction won't help the glamour depression. It will mean only $1.30 a week for the family head receiving around $50 a week. Most families will see it quickly grabbed by butcher, grocer or landlord. Another round of wage increases will reach a limited number, also probably go chiefly for meat, potatoes and milk. Even with continued high employment, penny pinching is likely to increase—certainly so long as families must pay $2 for the same groceries they bought for $1 just before the war.

Every day brings its dispatch of further retreat on the glamour front, of advance by the forces of frugality. Night clubs and mink coats gave the first ground. Now even lipstick is softening. In the general toiletry lag, masculine glamour, as signified by leather-covered bottles of cologne and fancy shave lotions, has been hardest hit. The women, it seems, can no longer spare their dollars for such gifts.

The recent hectic era of synthetic feminine sorcery, which was abetted by wartime emotions as well as loose money and clever advertising, has waned under the impact of economy and postwar reality. Two of its chief supports, sexy perfume and cobweb hosiery, are reported in a bear market. Remembering the mobs of women who fought at counters for the sheerest of nylons, it seems incredible that the hosiery industry should report a growing demand for more serviceable stockings, out of which women can get their money's worth of wear.

Expensive shoes likewise have come upon leaner days, and the bargain basement is having a gold rush. But one of the most far-reaching changes is the widespread return to home sewing, home canning, home baking, even home permanent waving. The good old days of housewifery have returned with a bang. Sale of fabrics and patterns this spring has reached a record peak. Many stores have had to enlarge these departments. Sewing machines can't be manufactured rapidly enough to meet demand.

Since about one third of the home sewers are young women recently married or about to be married, this make-it-yourself trend promises to be a long-term one. Only a great downturn in clothing prices would reverse it. With manufacturing costs what they are, that isn't on the horizon.

TODAY'S growing mood of down to earth living seems a far cry from the recent spending extravaganza—the mobs at costume jewelry counters, the demand for black chiffon lingerie, the mortgaged fur coats worn over slacks, the mad holiday gift buying of anything at any price.

Typical of this spirit was the remark of an elderly saleswoman when a customer objected to paying $12.95 for a blouse. "I just paid $15 for one," she said. "I'd wanted a nice blouse all my life, and when I earned some money of my own, I decided to get it."

Many persons in the last six or seven years had a similar fling at glamour. Now the pressure of living costs has all ended that, even put a squeeze on the necessities of existence. This squeeze is likely to be increased for the majority of Americans, especially those on fixed incomes. The Department of Agriculture sees food prices staying up at least all year. Forecasts of higher priced clothing and other commodities are made for fall. Though Americans generally are said to be living better because of high employment than ever before, it looks as though the pendulum might swing far from the prodigal spending period now going into history.

"Wynn" Exhausted

The Washington Post sports department has for a number of years labored diligently and commendably to make something of the name of Early Wynn, a pitcher with the local club. I suggest that with the accomplishment of the box score head "A 'Wynn-ing' Night for Nats," in issue of May 29, the possibilities of the device have been virtually exhausted. Another dull joke that the sports department regards as infinitely durable is the one that goes like this: "Nats hold Yanks to 16 hits, some of them singles." Both of these attempts may have had a faint bloom in yesteryear. They now bear the telltale traces of approaching middle age and should be retired to the green pastures.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Campaign Costs

IN A PRESIDENTIAL election year it was certain that the opposition would make capital out of President Truman's "nonpolitical" tour of the country. The taxpayer, so the accusation goes, is paying for what is actually a campaign trip.

Childs

That is essentially true. But when the facts are looked at in relation to the whole picture of political spending, the trip is seen to be a small item of the cost that, in the final analysis, is dumped onto long-suffering John Q. Public.

To begin with, the bill for the President's tour will be comparatively small. The total cost for the President, his aides and the stenographers who do typing and mimeographing of speeches and statements will be under $15,000. The military and naval aides have their own travel allowances, and the cost for the Secret Service is paid out of Treasury appropriations.

What the public seldom realizes, seeing a 15- or 16-car presidential train, is that the newspaper and radio correspondents and the technicians who accompany them always pay their own expenses. Thus, the 40 or more correspondents who make the circuit will pay approximately $500 each in railroad fare alone.

The President will pay for his share out of the allowance of $30,000 a year for travel and entertainment included in the White House budget. Although this allowance has been increased to $40,000 for the coming fiscal year, it is still inadequate, being less than the amount allowed the British Ambassador in Washington for those purposes.

SINCE the cost of the trip to the President is so small, it would have seemed far sounder political judgment to charge it up to the Democratic National Committee. If that had been done, the President might have said that, while this was essentially an inspection tour, he was bending over backward in a political year and was not putting it on the White House budget.

Under those circumstances, Mr. Truman's position would have been much stronger. Now he will be constantly trying to avoid any appearance of politics and thereby he is likely to offend important politicians.

A significant fact, of course, is that the Democratic treasury is nearly empty. Mr. Truman's chances of reelection seem almost nil. Of the 50 Washington correspondents polled by Newsweek, representing a wide range of opinion and conviction, not one believed the Democrats would win in November. Hence, contributions have all but dried up.

By contrast at least, the GOP is bursting at the seams with money. In spite of the Corrupt-Practices Act and other restraints, contributions come from those who want to exert influence with the next President. They want to get favors out of the incoming Administration.

THOSE favors may be relatively small—a showy Ambassadorship, for example. Or they may be so large as to mean a rise in the cost to the consumer of a basic commodity. A new President is sometimes put under grave embarrassment when heavy contributors come around to collect after the election.

That is why the suggestion has been seriously advanced that the cost of presidential campaigns for all parties be paid out of the Federal Treasury. It has been argued with considerable force that the cost to the average citizen would, in the long run, be a lot less if Uncle Sam footed the entire bill.

Republican candidates have spent phenomenal sums in their primary campaigns this year. Harold Stassen charged in the Oregon contest that Thomas E. Dewey was spending $250,000 in that State alone. The Dewey backers poured out money like water for newspaper space, radio time and for general expenses.

It is reported in Ohio that well over $150,000 was spent in behalf of Senator Robert A. Taft in the primary campaign in that State. Senator Taft is said to have paid part of the bill out of his own pocket.

Obviously Stassen's fast and furious campaign around the country, with chartered planes and paid radio time, has cost a pretty penny. According to one report, the Stassen camp has gone into the red upward of $100,000.

When put alongside these amounts, the cost of the President's trip seems chicken feed. Yet the fiction of a nonpolitical tour will constantly rise to plague Mr. Truman.

U. S. Detective Abducted by Reds in Vienna

Vienna, June 4 (NYHT.). — Twenty armed Russian soldiers last night invaded a Vienna police station, forced those in charge to release two Russians who had been arrested and abducted an American citizen, whom they beat as they took him away in an automobile. Late tonight, the American still had not been released.

An Austrian interior ministry announcement said six Russian soldiers entered the station, threatened the British and Austrian police there with leveled guns and took away three men, including the American, a plain-clothes police officer. Other sources said 20 Russian soldiers were involved.

Tried to Abduct Austrian Girl

From these it was learned one of the Russians was a high officer in the MVD (Soviet Interior Ministry) who had been caught by British police, with his assistant, in the act of trying to abduct an Austrian girl employed at the headquarters of the American forces in Austria.

The girl, who lives in the Soviet zone of Vienna, had been threatened with reprisals upon her parents unless she gave to Soviet authorities information they sought. She was told by them to be at a certain rendezvous last night and she notified her superior at headquarters, the American who was abducted. He was nearby when she kept the appointment.

Went To Girl's Rescue

Two Russians emerged from an automobile and immediately began to drag the girl toward it, the sources said. They said the American went to the rescue and grappled with the Russians. The girl's cries attracted British military police, on duty because the incident took place in the International zone, of which the British have charge this month.

The British police took the Russians and the American to the nearest Vienna police station. The three men were searched and on the Russians were found documents showing their connection with the MVD. The American had only his passport and a regular pass entitling him to enter American installations.

Within a few minutes, 20 Russian solders came to the station, armed with pistols and submachineguns. They knocked down the Austrian policeman on duty at the entrance and stormed into the main office, where the three arrested men and British and Austrian police were assembled. Holding guns on the British and Austrians, the Russians took the three men out of the station and sped away with them in automobiles.

Banister Slide at 101 Hits London Times as Slick Idea

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS

STICKS WITH IT—"Tell that editor to come on over," said Miss Florence Dolph of Dunmore, Pa., after reading a dispatch relating the London Times' editorial comment on her 101st birthday banister slide. She wants it known that she doesn't slide side-saddle

London, June 4 (AP).—The stately Times mused for half a column today on the report that Miss Florence E. Dolph of Dunmore, Pa., slid down a banister before breakfast on her recent 101st birthday.

"It is difficult to resist the feeling we have been told either too much or too little" about how she spent her birthday, the editorial said.

"We have no vestige of right to assume she spent the rest of the day in a rocking chair; she is far more likely to have been crouched over the controls of a helicopter, and if she was we ought to have been told about it . . ," the paper went on.

"We do not even know whether she adopted the forward seat or whether she slid astride or side-saddle. These points are of more than academic importance to devotees of this exhilarating sport. . .

Lost Accomplishment

"On the whole, banister-sliding is a lost accomplishment, and it is sad to think of the vast majority of the younger generation of this country growing up with none of that basic early training in the sport which is so essential if you intend to adopt this means of progression on your 101st birthday."

(At Dunmore Miss Dolph said she'll slide down the banisters again on July 4th, American Independence Day. She always makes a slide on holidays.

Helicopter Not Bad Idea

(Commenting on the helicopter hint, Miss Dolph said:

("It's not such a bad idea. Think I'll look into it."

(She wants the London editor to know, too, that her banister sliding is done in the conventional manner—astride, not side-saddle.

"Tell that editor to come on over," said Miss Dolph. "I'll not only show him; I'll teach him.")

(After the banister slide on her birthday, Miss Dolph helped in the preparations for her usual anniversary at home. After luncheon, friends and relatives visited and walked in the garden. There was no opportunity for rocking-cair sitting.)

Long-Distance Phone Union Signs Contract

New York, June 4 (AP). — The threat of a Nation-wide strike of long-distance telephone workers was eliminated today.

Negotiators for the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the CIO American Union of Telephone Workers removed the threat by signing a 21-month contract. The agreement, reached with the help of Federal mediators, broke a protracted deadlock.

The union, which originally sought a 30-cent hourly wage boost, did not win any general increase.

However, a company spokesman said concessions were granted on a number of fringe issues. These included increases in maximum wage rates affecting certain employes at some places, improved night differential rates for some workers and increased overtime pay for holiday work.

The firm also accepted the union demand for a maintenance-of-dues clause if the employes vote for it under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The new contract provides for one wage reopening during its life. If no agreement on pay scales is reached after such a reopening, either party may cancel the contract after June 2 next year upon 60 days' notice.

The agreement must be ratified by the 25,000 union members in 42 States. Rejection is considered unlikely but a union official said the ratification process would take about 60 days. If approved, the contract will expire March 2, 1950.

The old contract expired May 8. Both sides agreed to continue talks to June 7, then turn the dispute over to a presidential fact-finding board if no settlement were reached by then.

The board, named by President Truman and headed by Prof. Sumner H. Slitcher of Harvard University, was scheduled to start hearing the matter May 25. It agreed to stand by, however, while the negotiations proceeded.

14 Wounded As Strikes in Italy Spread

Rome, June 4 (AP).—Communist-led strikes spread today and have bred disorders in which 14 persons were wounded.

A 24-hour general strike paralyzed Bologna throughout the day, but heavy patrols of armored cars, tanks and mobile police prevented demonstrations and disorders.

A flash general strike "failed completely" at Cremona, Po River city, a police official said, but 14 persons were wounded in the area when police twice opened fire last night.

Dock workers at Palermo, Sicily, and miners in Sardinia were threatening to walk out.

The strikes were generally believed to be part of a Communist campaign to make the rule of Premier Alcide de Gasperi difficult.

Misuse of Relief Funds Charged to N. Y. Department

New York, June 4 (AP).—Widespread "misuse of relief funds" by the New York City Welfare Department was charged today in a city investigator's report.

After a probe of nearly seven months, Commissioner of Investigation John M. Murtagh said "many persons not in need" were on the city's relief roles.

Money often is handed out to "clients who are not thoroughly investigated," he said.

He blamed "lack of proper and efficient supervision" for the "maldistribution of public funds."

The investigator also criticized Local 1 of the CIO United Public Workers of America, saying it was engaged in political maneuvers within the welfare department.

Raymond Hilliard, a Chicago man recently appointed welfare commissioner, had no immediate comment.

Air Pockets to Cool Air Force Trousers

New York, June 4 (U.P.).—Members of the United States Air Force at Elgin Field, Fla., soon will be introduced to a new type of summer trousers provided with mesh pockets for air-conditioning.

Joseph W. Lewis, jr., inventor of the "airflow pocket" announced today that 400 pairs of the new trousers will be tested by selected personnel at Elgin Field.

Lewis explained the pockets of the trousers will be made of nylon marquisette and will act as a ventilator through which air may flow to provide a mild circulation through the trousers in hot weather.

Czechs Name Defendants In Plot Trial

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 4 (U.P.).—Two former leaders of the National Socialist Party will be the chief defendants in forthcoming trials of 107 non-Communist "conspirators," the Czechoslovak government announced today.

Communist Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek said former Justice Minister Prokop Drtina and 13 others would be tried soon for their efforts to blame Communists for the "perfume-bottle bomb" attempts on three non-Communist ministers.

Vladimir Krajina, former National Socialist Secretary General, will be tried in absentia for alleged collaboration with the Gestapo during the war.

Interior Ministry officials announced today that 37 former members of Parliament and 1000 other Czechoslovaks have fled the country since the Communists' February coup.

Pavel Blaho, a government-indorsed candidate for Parliament in last Sunday's elections, "fled across the frontier, thus betraying his oath and the republic," it was revealed.

The supreme military court decreed death for an air force major, Josef Hnatek, who allegedly conspired to betray military secrets to "the United States Intelligence Service." Hnatek's penalty was commuted to 16 years' imprisonment at hard labor.

Plaza Favorite To Win Ecuador Presidency Race

Quito, Ecuador, June 4 (U.P.)—Galo Plaza, former Ambassador to the United States, was a slight favorite today to win next Sunday's three-cornered presidential election. Nominated by the National Democratic Movement, Plaza has the support of many independents and of liberal and conservative dissidents.

Dr. Abel A. Gilbert, noted surgeon from Guayaquil, is running for vice president on Plaza's ticket.

Manuel Elicio Flor, Conservative Party, has the active support of the Catholic clergy.

The third candidate is General Alberto Enriquez, who ruled as "supreme head of the state" between October, 1937, and August, 1938.

Big Dope Cache Seized

Istanbul, June 4 (AP).—Turkish police cooperating with a United States narcotic agent said today they had seized a million dollars worth of heroin. The seizure closed what officials said was an important source of narcotics being smuggled into America.

U. of Va. Boosts Business School Goal by Million

Charlottesville, Va., June 4 (AP). The addition of another million dollars to the initial endowment funds sought for a graduate school of commerce and business administration at the University of Virginia was announced here tonight by Colgate W. Darden, jr., university president.

This means, he said, that the University Development Fund is now seeking voluntary gifts totaling $2,000,000 to start classes in a new graduate business school. The present goal of $1,000,000 is insufficient, he added, for "we do not intend to have a second-rate graduate school."

Sixty Virginia business and industrial executives and spokesmen for national corporations heard Darden and other development fund leaders describe the new plans and how they will benefit commerce and industry in the South. The four-hour program was held at Farmington Country Club.

Schuman Wins Close Confidence Vote

Paris, June 4 (UP).—The French National Assembly tonight adopted, by a narrow margin, an order of the day expressing confidence in the government of Premier Robert Schuman.

Lewis Ready To Bargain

ment, whether labor or not, undertakes to carry out its wishes by methods which would ultimately disintegrate society, at that point it must stop."

Lewis was not in court to hear Goldsborough's remarks or three historic quotations with which he bolstered them. They applied to power movements in general, Goldsborough said, and might help the public evaluate leaders of such movements. They were:

From Lord Acton: "Power always corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

From an unnamed source: "There is no such thing as a benevolent despot."

From Cicero: "It is your boundless audacity, O Cataline!"

The Federal judge said he would have refused the injunction had Lewis offered evidence to prove his claim that the Southern Association didn't want an agreement and that an injunction would do more harm than good.

In the absence of any testimony from the miners, Goldsborough said he was forced to conclude that their refusal to deal with Moody's association was "tactical" and that Lewis sought to "destroy the association" because it was difficult to deal with. That, he added, "is no reason at all" even though the association "may need destroying, for all I know."

Goldsborough reiterated his previously expressed friendship for labor unions, and declared it would be a "national calamity" if they were destroyed or their effectiveness impaired.

He pointed out that Lewis was sole spokesman for 99 units of the UMW and said it was neither logical, consistent nor reasonable for it to insist that th eSouthern Association was not entitled to represent 14 units of operators.

'Moon Madman' Believed Killer of British Boy, Girl

London, June 4 (U.P.).—Alarmed parents on the Lancashire countryside asked authorities today for protection from a "moon madman," believed the slayer of two youngsters brutally beaten to death under the light of a new moon.

Scotland Yard issued an official statement today—just three days before a new moon is to appear. It sought to allay fears that another child is due to be killed.

"The fact that the children, a boy and a girl, were murdered during new moon periods has led to a great deal of prominence to the fact that the crimes were the work of a 'moon moniac'," the statement said.

"Police neither accept nor refute the possibility of the crimes having been committed by someone who might be mentally affected at such times, but they emphasize that unnecessary public alarm can be caused by too much stress being laid on such a possibility."

Krug Claims U. S. Tottering On Brink of Power Breakdown

Milwaukee, June 4. (U.P.).—Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug said tonight the nation will spend next winter "tottering on the brink of a serious power breakdown" and may not be able to build planes for the 70-group Air Force.

In a bitter attack on congressional "opposition" to public power projects, he said one of the most pressing problems before the country is formulation of a "national energy program and policy" to meet shortages of oil, natural gas and electric power.

He told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers that the critical shortage of energy supply compared to demand is "one of the unpleasant facts of our national economy."

"Those of you in the power field know that we will spend the winter of 1948-49 tottering on the brink of a serious power breakdown because of overworked generators," he said.

"And this is without allowance for such influences as increased industrial demand resulting from orders for the 70-group Air Force" recently authorized by Congress.

"Despite the obvious urgency of new construction of water power projects, the Federal Government's expansion program is under constant attack in Congress."

As a "typical example," Krug said the House recently turned down the four-million-dollar request of the Tennessee Valley Authority to start building a new 52-million-dollar steam generating plant.

Reclamation Bureau Setup Held Damaged

By The Associated Press

A Reclamation Bureau engineer said yesterday that "maladministration" on the part of bureau officials in Washington has "darn near wrecked the engineering organization."

The engineer, Robert Blanks, chief of the bureau's research laboratory in Denver, testifying before the House Expenditures Committee, added:

"Nothing can be done about it until incompetent top management is changed."

Chairman Harness (R., Ind.) interrupted to assert, "your frankness and courage in testifying here is a revelation."

The committee is conducting a lengthy hearing into what it claims is improper propaganda activities on the part of Reclamation Bureau officials.

"The Washington people (in the bureau) are clever and smart but they do not know reclamation," Blanks said. "It would appear their main interest is in putting on a big show."

He said the bureau's engineering organization has been built up over the years into "the greatest engineering organization the world has ever known."

Disabled Veterans To See Thrill Show

More than 500 disabled war veterans will be guests of Masons and members of the Eastern Star when the curtain goes up on the Masonic Night of Thrills June 18 in Griffith Stadium.

Roger Q. Mills, general chairman of the Thrills program urged citizens to buy an extra ticket for a disabled veteran.

Veterans at the Army and Navy medical centers, Mount Alto and the Navy Hospital at Quantico share equally in the distribution of tickets, he said. Proceeds from this annual benefit program go to the maintenance fund of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home for the District.

Wartime Draft Head Urges Men Be Equipped for Peace

A one-time teacher who screened 20 million men for Armed Forces induction during World War II last night told members of the National Education Association that it is more important for men to be equipped to participate in peace than in war.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, now head of the Office of Selective Service Records, told the educators that only through full participation in peace by all men can peace be maintained. He spoke before a general meeting of the NEA conference at the NEA building, 1201 16th st. nw.

The wartime Selective Service head said that 600,000 to 700,000 of the five million men rejected for military service were turned down because they could not measure up to the educational requirements. These men lacked not in capacity, he stated, but in the development of that capacity.

This failure in development, he laid directly at the feet of educational systems, adding that it is quite possible that a portion of those rejected for minor physical impairments might also be the fault of educators.

Pointing up the importance of the inability to use the 600,000 to 700,000 men, General Hershey said the draft of fathers and farmers, both severely criticized by many sources, could have been prevented if those rejected had been available for induction.

Representative Edward C. McCowen (R., Ohio) also spoke, telling about the status of the Federal aid for education bill which he introduced in the House.

A former district supervisor himself, Representative McCowen declared the greatest and most powerful argument for Federal aid for education is national defense as national defense is primarily the function of the Federal Government.

$300,000 Sought For Church Work

A campaign for $300,000 for enlargement of All Saints Episcopal Church, 3 Chevy Chase Circle, has been launched, Charles W. Lowrey, rector, announced this week.

The funds will be used for three projects, he explained.

These are:

Construction of a parish hall containing classrooms, offices, library and kitchen facilities and a central heating system. The proposed plan calls for relocation of the present rectory and reconstruction of the church entrance.

Erection of a tower and two transepts on each side of the present nave. The transepts will provide additional seating for about 128 people.

Erection of an auditorium seating approximately 400 people. If additional classrooms are needed when the auditorium is begun, they will be built above the auditorium.

In outlining the plan for the additions, Mr. Lowrey emphasized that "There is no other course possible if we are to meet the great opportunity and challenge of future days in this thriving and populous community." H. Addison Bowie has been named head of the finance committee for the drive.

Sermon for Children

In a special Children's Day sermon Dr. J. Warren Hastings will speak on "Are the Children Safe?" at 10:50 a. m. at the National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle. At the Young Adult Fellowship at 7 p. m. the Rev. Myron W. Chrisman will tell of a recent visit to United Nations headquarters.

Washington Highlands Center Ground to Be Broken Sunday

Ground for the new $75,000 Washington Highlands Jewish Center will be broken at ceremonies at 1 p. m. Sunday at 2d and Xenia sts. sw.

Pickholz

The new building will be the first post-war Jewish center in the District and will serve as both a center and synagogue for Anacostia, Congress Heights, Bellevue and Washington Highlands. An estimated 700 Jewish families live in the area, according to Rabbi Morris Pickholz, spiritual leader of the center.

The one-story brick and cinder block building will contain an auditorium seating about 450 persons which will be used as both a place of worship and social hall. In addition, there will be class rooms, a fully equipped kitchen, and a rabbi's study.

Organized in 1945, the Washington Highlands Jewish Center first met for the High Holy Days in a neighborhood store. Since September, 1947, membership of the center has grown from 95 to nearly 200 families.

Rabbi Joshua Klavan, dean of Washington rabbis, will deliver the invocation at the ground breaking and short talks will be made by Senator Irving M. Ives and Representative Jay LeFevre, both of New York.

Rabbi Morris Sandhaus, special asistant to the director of the Veterans Administration chaplain's service, will be the main speaker. Cantor Paul Gewirtz of Ohev Sholom Congregation and the Navy Band will be featured during the musical program. Rabbi Harry J. Kaufman of Beth Sholom Congregation will give the benediction.

Gown Modeling Pageant Feature

Gowns worn by brides of another era will be modeled at a pageant at Potomac (Md.) Methodist Church Friday at 8 p. m.

The pageant is sponsored by the Ladies' Bible Class of the church and will be followed by a strawberry festival and concert of the Potomac Band on the church grounds. Among the gowns to be shown will be one worn by the late Mrs. Ethelyn Pratt Thompson of Potomac when she was married in Potomac Chapel, later Potomac Methodist Church, in 1893.

Cornerstone Of New Church To Be Laid

The cornerstone of Westmoreland Congregational Church, Massachusetts and Western aves. nw., will be laid at ceremonies Sunday at 4:30 p. m.

The new church, which is sponsored by the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, 1406 Columbia rd. nw., will become the religious and social center for the area around Westmoreland Circle. There is only one small church within a radius of three-quarters of a mile of the new church site.

After a study by the Comity Commission of the Washington Federation of Churches disclosed that the Westmoreland area was badly under-churched, the 60-year-old Mount Pleasant Church congregation agreed to move to the new location. Dr. Fred Sherman Buschmeyer, pastor of the church, said the congregation hopes to begin holding services at Westmoreland about the first of the year.

Of Georgian design, the church will seat over 600 people at worship services. A large recreation hall, with a stage and dining facilities, will seat 400, and will be a center for community youth and adult activities.

In addition to Dr. Buschmeyer and the Rev. Edmund R. Strait, ministers of the church, representatives of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches, the Washington Federation of Churches, and the Westmoreland Citizens Association will participate in the service.

Dr. William F. Frazier of the Board of Home Missions of the Congregational Christian Churches will deliver the cornerstone laying address.

Dr. Rustin to Speak At Alabama Parley

Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw., will speak on "Let's Grow Up," at 9 and 11 a. m., Sunday. He will leave Sunday evening for Montgomery, Ala., where he will be the speaker at the annual leadership school and pastors' conference of the Alabama Methodist Conference.

13 Preachers Are Appointed By Methodists

Thirteen ministers and lay preachers newly assigned to Washington District churches were among the appointments announced yesterday by Bishop Charles Wesley Flint at the closing session of the 164th annual Baltimore conference of the Methodist Church.

Seven elders and seven deacons were ordained at a final service of the four-day conference held in the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, on the edge of the American University campus.

In the morning session, held at the Leonard Gymnasium of the university, the 700 clergymen and lay delegates heard Bishop Flint stress the importance of accurate facts and fairness in the writing of sermons.

Urges Sincerity

Bishop Flint, who heads the Baltimore Conference, comprising Methodist churches in the District, Maryland and parts of West Virginia, compared sermons to general literature. He said the first requisite for "best sellers" in the pulpit is sincerity.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, who retired in 1940 as Methodist leader of the Washington area, cited a dozen traffic deaths of Methodist ministers in various parts of the country during the past two years in warning the clergymen of such dangers.

The dean of Methodist bishops at 81, Bishop Hughes now lives in Chevy Chase, Md.

Among the seven retiring members recognized in a ceremony yesterday was Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, former superintendent of the Washington District.

The appointments announced included two supply preachers assigned to District churches. They are George Coppage, Gorsuch 4th and L sts. sw., and Melvin Lederer, Ryland Church, Branch ave. and S st. se. Supply preachers may be either retired ministers or laymen licensed to preach.

Maryland Appointments

New Maryland appointments in the Methodist Washington East District were:

Cecil McMillion, supply, Emmanuel Church, Huntington; Warren Firth, supply, Joy Chapel, Leonardtown; Fred Conley, supply, Mount Oak; J. P. Dawson, jr., Prince Frederick, and R. D. Harper, supply, South River.

New Maryland appointments in the Washington West District were:

Jack Ammon, supply, Clarksburg; A. O. Osteen, Damascus; Harry Haines, supply, Doubs; Ralph Barrett, supply, Marvin Church, Prospect; Edward Lewis, East-West Highway Church, and Harold Lanman, Wheaton.

Msgr. Smyth

Msgr. Thomas G. Smyth, who has been parish priest at the Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament, 6001 Western ave. nw., for the past 28 years, this month will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination.

Sunday at 7:45 p. m. children of the Blessed Sacrament School will symbolize events in the life of Father Smyth in a pageant. He will be celebrant of an 8:30 a. m. mass sung by children of the school on Friday.

The Monsignor will be celebrant at a Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving on June 13 at 10 a. m. at which the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington will preside. Two of Msgr. Smyth's brothers, the Rev. Carter Smyth and the Right Rev. James A. Smyth, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, will participate in the service.

Following the mass, dinner will be served at the rectory for visiting clergymen. On Tuesday, June 15, Father Smyth will receive a gift from his parishioners at a reception at the Shoreham.

Born in St. Brigid's Parish, Baltimore, Msgr. Smyth was ordained by the late James Cardinal Gibbons, who had given him his first Holy Communion and confirmed him. Three of his four brothers entered the priesthood, and one of his two sisters became a nun.

After a brief period at St. Thomas' in Woodbury, Md., he was transferred to St. Stephen's in Washington, where he remained until 1910, when he was made pastor of St. Anne's, Wisconsin ave. and Yuma st.

While still at St. Ann's, he began his service to Catholics in Chevy Chase, where he established a mission and said the first mass in the Chevy Chase Library in 1910. The congregation on that occasion numbered about 50 — today it has grown to over 5000.

For 10 years Father Smyth went back and forth each Sunday to the small chapel which was built in Chevy Chase, traveling first in an open buckboard drawn by a farm horse, and later in a two-cylinder Maxwell.

In 1920 he asked to be transferred from St. Ann's to the chapel in Chevy Chase, and that same year it was changed to the Blessed Sacrament parish.

Since then the parish has added a modern school building with an enrollment of 750, a convent for the 17 Sisters of the Holy Cross who conduct classes in the school, and a rectory. There is no church debt at Blessed Sacrament. Plans for a new auditorium and gym have recently been completed and construction will begin soon.

Baptist Church to Lay Cornerstone Sunday

Cornerstone of a new building for the Fair-Park Baptist Church, Alexandria, will be laid at services Sunday at 4 p. m., at Seminary rd. and Crestwood dr. James R. The church formerly met in the Fairlington School.

Truman Gets Bill Boosting Social Security Payments

Congress approved and sent to President Truman last night legislation increasing by 184 million dollars annually the social security payments to 3,500,000 needy aged persons, blind persons and dependent children.

House approval was by voice vote, after the senate earlier passed the measure 74 to 6.

The bill boosts by $5 a month Federal contributions for needy aged and blind persons and $3 a month for dependent children. This makes possible, under Federal-State matching, a maximum of $50 a month for each needy aged persons and the blind, and $27 for a dependent child.

Under the present program the maximum for the aged and the blind, under Federal-State matching, is $45 a month; for the dependent children, $24.

How Boost Will Work

Here is how the boosted benefits would work:

The needy aged and the blind—The Federal Government would contribute three-fourths of the first $20 paid to a recipient. The State would pay one fourth. Then the Federal Government and the State would match 50-50 up to a maximum of $50 for each recipient. Thus, where a recipient received $50, the Federal Government would contribute $30 and the State $20.

(The size of payments to the needy persons is determined by the various States. They now run from a low of about $15 a month in some States to a high of $65 in Colorado, which contributes beyond the State-Federal matching arrangement.)

Dependent children—The Federal Government will provide three-fourths of the first $12 for the first needy child in a family, and go 50-50 with the State up to a maximum of $27 for the first child. Each additional child in the needy family would get a maximum of $18 under the matching system.

The increased benefits were tacked on to a bill dealing with an entirely different social security matter. The bill was designed to block a move by the Administration to extend coverage under the old-age and survivors insurance section of the social security law to an estimated 500,000 to 750,000 persons.

(The "old-age and survivors insurance" program is distinct from the aid-to-the-needy program. The former is based on taxes on pay envelopes and payrolls, while the latter takes the form of outright grants.)

Planned Redefinition

The Treasury had served notice of its intention to redefine employer-employe relationships for the purpose of collecting social security taxes from such persons as door-to-door salesmen, insurance agents and taxi drivers.

There was another important Social Security development today. The House Rules Committee cleared the way for House action next week on a bill that would permit an additional 3,500,000 persons to come under the Federal old-age insurance program.

These 3,500,000 are, for the most part, employes of States and local subdivisions. They would be allowed to participate if the local governing bodies approved. Employes of certain nonprofit organizations also would be allowed to join in the insurance plan.

President Truman asked Congress in a special message recently to extend the insurance to an additional 20 million persons, bringing the total covered to 50 million. He also recommended an increase of at least 50 per cent in benefits, calling the present program "seriously inadequate."

Self-employed persons, farm workers and domestics still are not covered by the insurance plan.

Non-Contract Hospitals Shift Indigent Care

Care of indigents in private hospitals not repaid by the District for service for the first four months this year showed a 39 per cent decrease as compared with last year's, Willard C. Smith, Health Security administrator, reported yesterday.

In April alone, said Smith, there was a decrease of 49 per cent from the previous month, with such hospitals providing 607 patient-days' care to indigents as compared to 1200 in March.

Smith attributed the decline to diligence of HSA in referring such patients to public and contract institutions, and the hospitals' rejection and transfer of penniless patients to public institutions.

Despite these policies, said Smith, Washington's noncontract hospitals provided 4278 days of medical care and 9066 outpatient treatments for which they received no payment in the first four months of this year. The patients were those admitted on an emergency basis who ordinarily would have been treated as charges of the District at Gallinger or Freedmen's Hospital.

Under provision of the pending District appropriation bill, the District Health Department would be authorized to sign contracts with seven more District hospitals to pay them $9 for each in-patient day's service and $2 for each out-patient treatment of the city's indigent.

Such contracts are now in force only at Emergency, Casualty and Children's hospitals. The new institutions would include Columbia, Episcopal, Garfield, George Washington, Georgetown and Providence hospitals and the Washington Home for the Incurables.

Smith said that HSA, financed by the Community Chest Federation, paid partial costs to noncontract hospitals for such service last year but that policy ended January 1.

Lack of Rain Hits Midwest Corn Harvest

Chicago, June 4 (AP). — "You can't burn up a corn crop during the first week of June."

That's what grain traders were telling one another here today as the Midwest corn belt rolled into its nineteenth straight day without important rain.

Despite these assurances, memory of last year's partial crop failure plus knowledge that the amount of corn left from that crop is unusually small, was sending prices higher on the Board of Trade. July corn closed at $2.17 a bushel today against $2.05 on May 8.

All grain men admitted it was important for the country to get a good crop this year. A repetition of last summer's experience would be serious, because the old crop grain to be carried over into the new season is much smaller than last year.

That short crop last year was one factor in causing reduced production this year of many foods—from hogs to chickens—and a consequent maintenance of high prices at retail shopping centers.

House Agrees to Consult With Senate on Farm Bill

By The Associated Press

Over bitter Democratic protests, the House yesterday agreed to try to iron out differences with the Senate over appropriations for the Agriculture Department.

The vote for a joint conference was 204 to 140.

Democrats led by Representatives Sabath (D., Ill.), Cannon (D., Mo.), Chapman (D., Ky.) and Rankin (D., Miss.), cried out that the Republican majority was seeking to kill off substantial increases approved by the Senate.

For more than an hour, Democrats and Republicans shouted charges and countercharges, holding back debate on appropriations for the European recovery program.

Assails EROP Program

Rankin assailed the EROP program, declaring it would cost $1,250,000 for "Every County in America," and he said:

"You're not selling America down the river, you are giving America away down the river."

The major protest was that while billions are going overseas under the Marshall Plan, the Republicans were attempting to deprive American farmers and school children of benefits at home.

The House version of the Agriculture Department Appropriations Bill provides 225 million dollars for soil conservation, 400 million dollars for the rural electrification program and 65 million dollars for school lunches.

The Senate raised the soil conservation outlay to 300 million dollars, rural electrification to 400 million dollars and school lunches to 75 million dollars.

Farm price support legislation was cleared to the House floor yesterday by the House Rules Committee. The measure continues supports through June 30, 1950.

Just when the House will take the bill up was not settled but Speaker Martin (R., Mass.) has put the legislation on the "must" list for action before Congress adjourns June 19.

Loan Bill Approved

The Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday approved a bill which its backers say will help farmers obtain loans.

It approved the bill even though the American Bankers Association claimed it sets a "dangerous precedent."

The bankers' views were presented to the committee by Robert N. Downie of Garden City, Kans. Downie is chairman of a bankers' subcommittee on Federal legislation.

The bill—which already has passed the House—would increase interest rates from 2½ to 3 per cent. But the Government would guarantee the loans, and would allow lenders to sell the loans to the Government after five years.

Those who support the legislation say it will help induce people to return to the farm.

Banker Assails Government's Business Role

By S. Oliver Goodman

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 4.—A free economy no longer exists in this country, Washington bankers were told here today at their annual conference in the Greenbrier Hotel.

The Government now holds "life or death control" over virtually every industry and business, declared Kenton R. Cravens, St. Louis banker and former consultant to the Federal Reserve Board.

Asserting that banks especially are hamstrung, he said there is no free market as such these days and bankers cannot rely on normal credit factors. "Congress makes our loans good or bad," he pointed out. "Unsound labor legislation can ruin even the largest company."

Cravens emphasized further that the Government directly or indirectly fixes the labor cost and other expenses of production; it can create market shortages by huge purchases and it can disrupt prices.

A 'Strange Phenomenon'

In the credit field the Government has created a "strange phenomenon," he stated. In the face of almost unparalleled demand for loans, the Treasury's policy has forced interest rates to remain at an artificially low level.

Warning that a shortage of lendable funds is becoming more pronounced, he predicted that this will have a tendency to reduce sales. He cautioned bankers to reexamine and do a careful weeding job on their loan portfolios. He saw no danger of new effective credit regulations before the next Congress, declaring that politically dangerous legislation is being dodged at this session.

The Washington delegation also heard J. Burke Knapp, State Department official, outline monetary reconstruction plans in connection with the European recovery program. "An excessive supply of money in many countries," he said, has generated acute inflationary pressures.

Conditions of Foreign Aid

Therefore, Knapp pointed out, this country under the Economic Cooperation Act will aid a foreign nation only if that country enters into an agreement with the United States undertaking to carry out financial and monetary measures necessary to stabilize its currency, to establish or maintain a valid rate of exchange, to balance its governmental budget as soon as practicable, and generally to restore or maintain confidence in its monetary system.

More golfing, horseshoe pitching, bridge, a reception by Vice Presidents Robert H. Lacey and George M. Fisher, and a dinner-dance completed today's program.

The bankers face a crowded calendar for tomorrow. Election of new officers, a talk by Ray Henle of National Broadcasting Co. and selection of American Bankers Association officers are listed. Social events include a reception to retiring President Richard A. Norris and the "Family Dinner" at which athletic trophies will be awarded.

One on the Aisle—

You'll Not See Red at the Met

By Richard L. Coe

APART FROM a splendid performance by John Mills and a generally absorbing adult treatment, the Metropolitan's "So Well Remembered" is interesting for a very special reason.

When the film opened last October in Hollywood, a certain female scribe (whose initials are H. H.) tore into it as "Exhibit A of Leftism." "If there was one instance," she wrote, "in which the film violated the so-called party line, I failed to catch it."

The multihatted lady picked her time well, for this international film effort was produced by Adrian Scott, directed by Edward Dmytryk and the music was composed by Hanns Eisler. This trio has been accused of being members of the Communist Party, and you know what's happened to them. Nor was Louella Parsons' friendly rival the only one to see all manner of subversive poison in this picture.

Now, over seven months later, "So Well Remembered" has arrived in this Capital. It proves to be the story of an idealist who would improve the working conditions of a Lancashire mill town and of his wife, a selfish woman who had allowed her father to be killed, who cares nothing for the workers of her town and who does everything in her power to ruin her son's life.

The story was written by James Hilton, the same James Hilton who gave us "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," "Random Harvest" and "Lost Horizon." His plot, perhaps, is contrived, but thanks to some excellent performances by Mills, Martha Scott and Trevor Howard, one need not be too conscious of that.

"SO WELL REMEMBERED." RKO-Radio-J. Arthur Rank release produced by Adrian Scott. Screen play by John Paxton from the novel by James Hilton. Narrated by Hilton. Filmed at Denham, England. Directed by Edward Dmytryk. Photography by Frederick A. Young. At The Metropolitan.

Just Like Lincoln

But to say that because the poor people of an English mill town are shown to be suffering from neglect by those who should be responsible for their welfare is Communist propaganda is the wildest nonsense. It is no different from the doctor's plight Clark Gable is depicting at the Palace in "Homecoming." It is the same picture you got of the downtrodden in "How Green Was My Valley," in "The Stars Look Down," in "Magic Town," in "Meet John Doe," in "Cass Timberlaine," in "Arrowsmith," in scores of other films. It is the same picture you get when you look into the alleys of Washington, the slums of Chicago, the regime of Mayor Hague and the real estate lobby on Capitol Hill.

If, of course, as the late De Wolfe Hopper's fifth wife seems to assume, you consider the age-old struggle of property rights versus human rights as just subversive propaganda dreamed up by a bunch of malcontents, then "So Well Remembered" is subversive. But then that also makes "The Old Homestead," "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the "Life of Abraham Lincoln" subversive, so where does that get you?

Actually, "So Well Remembered" has been screened with many touches of movie brilliance. The coming of VE-Day to the mill town, the scene of hordes of children waiting to be inoculated against diphtheria, a meeting of the town council and a young flier's scarred face are visual compositions of perception.

Fine Short Subject

The Mills performance of the councilman-editor is downright splendid and Miss Scott's assignment, a tough one, is handled with restraint. Trevor Howards' despairing doctor (how often have you seen this character without being told that it is subversive?) is the work of an able character delineator. Richard Carlson is another American player in this joint effort of two countries' picture-makers, and he is creditable as the son. If you can perceive any subversive notes in Hanns Eisler's background music, you must be a mighty perceptive type indeed.

All told, "So Well Remembered" is an absorbing, adult film, integrated by that outstanding performance of John Mills.

The Metropolitan also is offering an exceptional short subject, which I heartily recommend, an expedition up Alaska's Mount McKinley, presented by "This Is America." Not only is this a fascinating record of a 75-day trek led by Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Washburn; it is stunningly photographed. It was produced by Jay Bonafield with the cooperation of the Boston Museum of Science. Not often does one recommend a short subject, but "Operation White Tower" is worth going out of your way to see.

THE CAPITOL STAGE this week week headlines Jerry Cooper, a pleasant chap with a nice round voice. He includes "Temptation," an Irish medley and some song which winds up "The greatest thing is just to love and be loved in return," the title of which we leave to you. It's a better song than fads generally inspire, don't you think? Dr. "Think-a-Drink" Hoffman, whose act varies not nor needs to, is on hand with his free drinks for the lucky, the bland comedy of Ross and Stone and the musical doings of the Workmans complete the stage bill, with pert K. De Witt easing happily into a trio of songs with Sam Jack Kaufman's orchestra.

MENASHA SKULNIK, a Yiddish comedian who has scored in both the night clubs and on the stage, will bring his latest musical comedy, "The Baby Sitter," to the Uline Arena for one night only—next Wednesday . . . Seats at Ballard's, 1300 G st., or the Jewish Book Store, 832 Shepherd st. nw.

DANCE THEATER Studios, 2012 P st., will give an afternoon concert for children Sunday at 3:30 . . . On the program of Erika Thimey and Batya Heller are "Wee Lee Train" and a first performance. "Adjust or Bust," a trio suggested by William Steig's "The Lonely ones."

IN INTERNATIONAL FILM: Martha Scott, leading lady of "So Well Remembered," the Metropolitan's picture which was made in England by an American company and a dominantly British cast. The story is based on James Hilton's novel

Sauter Charges School 'Frill' Spending Plan in Montgomery

Montgomery County school officials are attempting a "socialistic" school system with such "wasteful frills" as driver training and bowling instructions, County Commissioner Wesley I. Sauter charged yesterday.

In a vigorous attack on school spending plans, Sauter said school leaders are using "rabble-rousing and scare propaganda in order to pressure the county government out of more funds." The charge was promptly denied by school leaders.

Sauter termed the county's five-million-dollar school construction program "wasteful," stating educators are "ignoring basic educational needs and assuming family responsibilities," with schools becoming "socialistic."

Two million dollars for a school construction bond issue was approved last year—and appropriated—and three million dollars more for construction was approved this year, although those bonds have not yet been sold.

The requested 1948-49 school budget of $3,429,000 has been pared to a recommended $2,885,000 by County Supervisor I. G. McNayr, with a final figure to be approved by the county commissioners before July 1.

Sauter, a Bethesda builder who unsuccessfully advocated temporary school buildings to relieve overcrowding, says he has three children in county schools who "can't even read or write properly."

He said he was "griped" at the idea of one son receiving bowling instruction during school hours. Hitting at the school cafeteria system, declared, "I resent my children being classified as needy so the school can become eligible for Federal school cafeteria funds."

Driver training he termed, "not properly a school function."

Replying to the "rabble-rousing" charge, School Board President H. Stanley Stine declared, "I know of no one using such tactics." Stine and Assistant School Superintendent E. M. Douglass both said they asked public support of the school budget, and firmly denied any misrepresentation.

"I intend to fight tooth and nail for restoration of budget funds which will place all teachers on the full salary schedule," said Stine. Major portion of the one-half-million-dollar slash proposed by McNayr would come from annual teacher salaries, he said.

Stine defended driver training as "one of the finest things we do," and declared, "the percentage of county revenue granted schools in the past 10 years has not varied 1 per cent.

Playground Plan for S St. Draws Fire

A recreation board proposal to set up a playground for approximately 500 Negro children at the rear of old Dennison School, 1327 S st. nw., drew fire yesterday from businessmen and residents.

Businessmen now rent the District-owned area within the block bounded by 13th, 14th, S and T sts. as a parking lot. The proposal was aired at a three-hour Commissioner's public hearing.

Harry S. Wender, recreation board chairman, said although sole access is through an alley, it is the only midcity space available for a "desperately needed" playground.

More Important Than Cars

"It's far more important that the children in the neighborhood be protected than it is for businessmen to have a place to park their cars," he declared.

He challenged opponents to name a more suitable playground place.

Attorney Renah F. Camalier, speaking for the businessmen, said the "alley playground" would add delinquency and children would face a "tremendous" safety hazard from "5- and 6-ton trucks" which use the alley.

Removal of the parking area would cause i"incalculable damage" to 14th st. automotive repair businesses and might force them to move to Virginia or Maryland, depriving the District of huge tax income, he argued.

Includes Eight Houses

The property, including eight houses on S st, is being held by the District as a possible site for the proposed Cardozo High School.

Woolsey W. Hall, representing the Federation of Civic Associations and the Central Northwest Citizens Association, said the organizations were "unalterably opposed" to the "alley playground" plan. He said he would have no objection, however, if the eight houses were razed and the playground could extend to S st.

Wender, in his closing statement, asked the Commissioners not to approve the playground unless the houses were removed and children could enter the area directly from S st. instead of through the alley.

7-Man Jury Hears Opening In $50,000 Suit

A seven-man jury began hearing yesterday a $50,000 suit brought by a 22-year-old Arlington man for damages he suffered when a train struck his coupe and carried it 102 feet.

Joseph S. Gass, of 4264 S. 16th st., said in Arlington Circuit Court he received serious injuries November 17 when a Washington & Old Dominion Railroad engine struck his auto at the West Broad st. grade crossing in Falls Church.

Several doctors and a dentist testified he suffered severe face cuts, compound nose fracture, teeth injuries, and a fractured leg bone. Gass said the injuries had kept him from his job as a bulldozer operator since the wreck.

He told the jury that his car was a total wreck. His attorneys charged that the railroad was negligent in failing to maintain adequate crossing warning signals.

Engineer of the Diesel locomotive, D. N. Cunningham, 45, of Ashburn, Va., will testify at 10 a. m. Monday when the case is continued in Circuit Court.

Ship Walkout Settled

Baltimore, June 4 (AP).—The crew of the tanker Tamaha was lured back to work today by an assurance of no more Greek cooking and the British oil tanker prepared to set sail. About 22 hands walked off the ship yesterday.

District Woman Found Dead in Car

Mrs. Bertha Freund Fayssoux, 38, of 4958 12th st. ne., was found dead from carbon monoxide poisoning in her car yesterday in Springfield, Mo., the Associated Press reported.

Relatives with whom she was visiting there said she was despondent over the death of her husband, Oliver Neil, in Washington a few weeks ago.

A neighbor and friend, Mrs. Louise Olivet, 4956 12th st. ne., said that Mrs. Fayssoux talked with her about the death but appeared to have become less sad shortly before leaving for Missouri with her mother. Mrs. Olivet said Mr. Fayssoux had a doughnut concession here. She knew of no relatives of the couple in Washington, Mrs. Olivet said.

Capital Transit Appeals Ruling

The Capital Transit Co. yesterday filed an appeal to a Baltimore court decision that the company could not raise fares in nearby Maryland without offering reduced rates to school children.

The case will be heard in the Maryland Court of Appeals at Annapolis.

In the meantime, said CTC officials, fare changes in accordance with a ruling by the Maryland Public Service Commission will go into effect on the company's Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties lines Sunday.

The commission-approved schedule set up shortened, 5-cent fare zones contingent on 3-cent-a-zone rates to school children.

1000 Librarians Here for Annual Group Conference

Some 1000 librarians are expected to register today for the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Special Libraries Association, the first here since 1928. The conferences will continue through Friday.

Convention headquarters will be at Hotel Statler, where sessions will open at 12:30 p. m. with a luncheon and radio broadcast quiz program sponsored by the Washington chapter. Tours of historic shrines will be made Sunday.

Group meetings featuring discussions led by librarians outstanding in their specialized fields, and visits to many special libraries in business and Federal agencies here are scheduled for the week.

Indians Outlast Nats in 15-Inning Struggle, 5-0

Bosox Beat Browns Twice, 10-4 and 7-2

Boston, June 4 (AP).—Boston's Red Sox today won their first doubleheader since last Labor Day as they whipped the ever-trying St. Louis Browns twice, 10-4, and 7-2, before an appreciative ladies' day crowd of 17,362, of whom 14,801 paid their way into Fenway Park.

Joe Dobson, the most dependable of Sox hurlers this season pitched his seventh complete game in the opener when he won his sixth against four losses.

He gave up nine hits, one of them Whitey Platt's fourth homer and another Les Moss' fifth.

Denny Galehouse limited the Browns to seven hits in the nightcap and shut them out except in the second inning when they bunched three hits for both their runs.

The Sox had their biggest inning of the season when they scored six times in the eighth frame of the opener. Ten men batted.

They had four-run innings in both games, the third of the lidlifter, when nine men went to the plate, and the initial session of the closer when they also batted around.

Shortstop Vern Stephens treated his former St. Louis teammates roughly as he clubbed out four hits in seven times at bat in both games and drove in four Boston runs.

At one stage of the nightcap, in which Galehouse won his first game in two seasons from his former fellow Browns, the Boston right hander retired 15 men in succession before Platt singled in the ninth after one batter had been erased.

However, Third Sacker Billy Hitchcock started a neat double play to wind up the game so that over the last five and two thirds innings Galehouse faced only 17 batters.

Sauer Homers Twice

Kerr Singles With Bases Full And Giants Beat Reds, 5 to 4

Cincinnati, June 4 (AP).—Buddy Kerr's two-run, pinch-hit single in the eighth inning enabled the league-leading New York Giants to edge the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4, today.

Kerr, who suffered a bruise on his right forefinger on a pick-off play in last night's game, came up with the score tied at 3-3, the bases loaded and two out. He banged the ball to left to break up the game and send Starting Pitcher Kent Peterson to the showers.

Hank Sauer was the big gun for the Reds. Sauer clouted two homers, one in the first inning and the second in the eighth. The homers were his fifteenth and sixteenth of the season, top production in either league.

Andy Hansen started for the Giants and gave up three runs before bowing out in favor of Dave Koslo in the third inning.

Koslo held the Reds hitless for five innings. He was lifted in the eighth for Pinch-Hitter Kerr and gained credit for the victory when Kerr came through with his payoff sock to left.

Peterson held the Giants scoreless until the fifth inning, when Sid Gordon and Mickey Livingston doubled to produce the first Giant run.

The Giants tied the count in the sixth on Whitey Lockman's single, Gordon's second double and a pinch-hit triple by Rookie Les Layton.

Jim Faulkner is the Anacostia catcher who made the putout on a throw from Pitcher Leo Kershbaum on a slow roller to the mound. The game ended in a 2-2 tie

FOR A RIDE—Gus Niarhos, New York Yankee catcher, waits for the ball (left) as Detroit Tiger Rightfielder Pat Mullin slides home under him in a game at Yankee Stadium. Umpire Charles Berry motions Mullin safe (center) as he turns to watch the ball, which got away. Mullin starts to rise and takes Niarhos with him. Anacostia and Coolidge met yesterday at Griffith Stadium with the Interhigh baseball championship at stake, but when the game was called at the end of eight innings, the crown was still unclaimed.

With the score tied, 2-2, and the Nats' night game with the Indians only three hours away, the schoolboys were asked to give up the field. They'll meet again Monday at 3:15 at the ball park.

A win for Coolidge, unbeaten in the playoffs, will decide the championship. A win for once-beaten Anacostia will mean still another game must be played later in the week.

The Indians spotted Coolidge a two-run lead in the first three innings yesterday, but might have won with ease had they not been overambitious on the base paths. Despite their zany base-running, they managed to tie the score with runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Opportunity Slips Away

The Indians let their biggest opportunity slip away in the seventh when their first hitter, Bob Mitchell, whacked a double over Centerfielder Stan Greenberg's head.

But when Mitchell tried to stretch it, he was thrown out on a lightning relay from Greenberg to Jess Houston to Dick Kidwell.

The next two batters reached base on an error and single, but Coolidge Reliefer Benny DuVall fanned the last two to prevent any scoring.

Five of the first eight Anacostia batters reached first against Starter Ed Hughes, but none reached second. Reason was Colt Catcher Mike Mehalic threw out three would-be base stealers and Hughes picked another off second.

Mrs. Bower Has 78, Wins NBC Cup

Mrs. A. B. Bower of Indian Spring shot an 80—2—78 to win the NBC trophy yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

For Mrs. Bower, one of the area's most consistent low scorers, it was the second Women's District Golf Association triumph in a week. In The Washington Post tournament, the Indian Spring star finished in a tie with Mrs. George Martin for top honors.

Mrs. Bower's fine score was an exceptional performance over the slow Washington course, still soggy from the heavy rains of the past two days.

The low gross award yesterday went to Mrs. Walter Stokes, of Manor, whose 42-40-82 was the next best effort after Mrs. Bower, who elected to take the low net NBC trophy. Mrs. Bower's nine-hole scores of 39-41 were also the day's low gross rounds.

Right behind Mrs. Bower in the low net column was Kenwood's Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud, with an 87-8-79, while Mrs. R. N. Oliver, of Army-Navy, took third with 94-13-21.

Fourth place went to Mrs. Marie Walper of Prince Georges, who shot 87-5-82 to edge Mrs. D. H. Henderson of Congressional, who also had 87-5-82 but who lost out on a matching of the cards.

Prince Georges' Mrs. Charles Frownfelter took sixth with 94-11-83; Mrs. W. I. Horner of Washington was seventh with 99-16-83 and another Washington golfer, Mrs. Charles Egenroad, took the final prize with 94-11-83. Another competitor, Miss Ann Reh of Washington, who had 99-16-83, missed a prize through the luck of the draw.

Army's Steiner Enters 10-Mile Marathon Here

Sergt. Kurt Steiner of the Army Olympic Track and Field Club at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., one of the fleetest distance runners in the U. S. Army, yesterday wired John F. Leiss, chairman of the Masonic Night of Thrills 10-mile modified marathon, that he would be on hand for the Griffith Stadium event June 18.

Steiner, whose home is in Austin, Tex., was State distance running champion in his high school days. Leiss said Steiner's entry brings the list up to 31 for the big race. The race is being run under auspices of the District Amateur Athletic Union.

Fred Kratz Boots Home 3 Winners

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 4.—Mrs. M. Paul's Talcum Spray, a disappointment in recent starts, turned in a superb front-running performance to cross under the tape five lengths in advance of Miss Virginia McKenny's Ariel Legend in the sixth and featured attraction of the day, the Santa Fe, before an estimated throng of 5000.

A half length farther back came H. W. Shaffer's Flying Raid, who went postward in the role of public choice to finish third in the field of eight highly regarded sprinters.

The winner, paying $13.60 for the customary $2 wager, was ridden over the about 4½ furlongs in 0.51 4/5 by Jockey Freddie Kratz. This was the third winning mount of the afternoon for the Baltimorean. The veteran was astride E. A. Nicodemus' fleet Wayfern in the first heat and scored again aboard J. K. Wynkoop's New Chum in the fifth, bringing his total for the current meeting to 16.

Talcum Spray and Flying Raid, with James Baird in the irons, dominated the majority of the early action, with the daughter of Psychic Bid pulling away easily entering the home lane. Flying Raid lost ground on the outside on the turn and began to tire steadily thereafter, while Ariel Legend, under the competent guidance of Jockey Ray Arduini, started to move approaching the stretch, closing the last furlong in a bold rush.

The weather conditions for today's sport were ideal, but night-long rains made the track "heavy."

The daily double, after being in the clouds for several days, came down to earth today with a payoff of $41.80 on the combination of 3 and 1. Both races were roughly contested. Freddy Kratz won the first with Wayfern, a $4.80 favorite, owned by E. A. Nicodemus. Several horses were kicked around. In the second event the winner was N. A. Freedman's Eventide, at $8. Jockey Charles Richmond, who rode L. A. Borowry's Shalam into second money, made a foul claim against the winner, which appeared to have bothered him in the stretch. However, it was no dice and the numbers stood.

Albuquerque Golfer Weathers Washouts But Loses Hard-Luck Race With Darkness

Albuquerque, N. Mex., June 4 (AP).—You can tab Fred Hawkins the No. 1 hard luck boy of the Albuquerque Open golf tournament.

When time came for the 24-year-old Antioch, Ill, entrant to start the opening round, he failed to report to the first tee. A telephone call from Tucumcari, 180 miles east, told why:

Hawkins, traveling by rail, was delayed by a bridge washout near Trinidad, Colo. His train backed up to Dalhart, Tex., and was rerouted via Tucumcari. But another bridge was out near there.

This morning he telephoned tourney officials. Could he still compete if he came on? Sure, they said, and Hawkins boarded a bus.

Shortly before 6 p. m.—after the last regular contestant had finished for the day—Hawkins came trudging up to the University of New Mexico course, clubs in hand.

Tired though he was, Hawkins went right out with a special scorer. A jeep carried him from shot to shot in a race with lowering darkness. By the time he couldn't see to shoot any more, Hawkins had gone 13 holes—and was only five over par.

Good Idea, at That

New York, June 4 (U.P.).—Big Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees, most consistent pitcher in the major league with a record of six victories and one defeat, was an outfielder until his high school coach switched him to the mound.

It was a safety measure. Raschi was always running into things while chasing fly balls and once he rammed his head through the windshield of a car parked on the fringe of the outfield.

Forbidden to Catch Cold

London, June 4 (U.P.).—Britain's Olympic boxing team was given three specific rules to live up to when members commence training. They were notified today by the Amateur Boxing Association not to catch cold, to make their own beds and not to indulge in "horseplay."

It cost more than $1 a pound to ship the cargo. It will go East by train express under customs bond.

AMPIE, under restraint in the early running, made a strong challenge turning into the homestretch but was no match for the winner. CO ED, well placed throughout, had no excuses. PERFECT CHARGE, far back in the early stages, made up ground on the extreme outside.

Demaret Holds Lead by Stroke

By Finis Mothershead

Albuquerque, N. Mex., June 4 (AP).—Jimmy Demaret trimmed par three strokes for a 69 today to cling to a one-stroke lead halfway through the $10,000 Albuquerque Open Golf Tournament.

Combined with his 65 for the first round, today's score gave the Ojai, Calif., swinger a 134 total—10 better than standard figures—for 36 holes on the 6813-yard University of New Mexico course.

Except for Marty Furgol of Utica, N. Y., who put a 68 with a 69 for 137 and third in the medal scores, Texas Jimmy and the big Charlotte, N. C., pro were the only top contenders who didn't suffer from a combination of troubles either yesterday or today.

Long-driving George Schoux, from Mamaroneck, N. Y., posted 70-69 and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, from Little Rock, Ark., 68-71, to rank next with 139s.

Home Rule Push Asked Of Martin

Leaders of the Washington Home Rule Committee yesterday appealed to House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., (R., Mass.) to move for speedy House passage of the Auchincloss bill.

The bill, calling for reorganization of the District government and a limited form of home rule here, is "unfinished business" in the House with no date set to finish it.

Martin received the appeal at the Capitol from Charles C. Glover, 3d, and Lloyd W. Cutler, Washington attorneys, and James Reston, Washington correspondent for the New York Times.

Contained in Letter

Their request for an early House decision on the home rule bill was contained in a letter signed by them, and four other members of the Washington Home Rule Committee: Philip L. Graham, publisher of The Washington Post; Samuel Spencer, Sturgis Warner, and Gerhard A. Gesell, Washington attorneys.

Martin expressed sympathy for the appeal, saying "if they have a chance to work the home rule bill into the House program we will do it," but declared no time is set for such a move. He said there were a number of bills, including the draft, displaced persons, and appropriations bills, to which the House must give priority as measures "essential to the national welfare."

The committee's appeal hinted strongly that the home-rule bill should be made a Republican Party measure to secure its passage. Martin turned this idea down, saying, "We couldn't make it a party measure at this late hour."

Restoration Asked

The letter urged that Congress restore to Washington citizens "the fundamental right of participating in the government of their own local affairs," pointing out that such rights were "temporarily withdrawn more than 70 years ago."

It expressed conviction the Auchincloss bill would be passed by the House "if a final vote is permitted and if the Republican leadership gives the measure the active support which it deserves and which has been promised."

Pointing out that the bil is necessarily lengthy, "as any municipal charter must be," the home rule advocates urged that "it should not be killed by the efforts of those who base their opposition on the excuse that they have not read, or cannot understand, the bill." Such basis for opposition, said the letter, only proves the point "that Congress lacks the time for continuous and competent supervision of District affairs."

Voluntary 'Option' Proposal to Be Laid Before Citizens' Federation Tonight

A new plan to uphold real estate covenants will be presented at a meeting of the Federation of Citizens Associations in the District Building tonight.

The proposal, devised by Clifford H. Newell, former president of the federation, calls for the appointment of "square captains" who would voluntarily be given options on the property in his area.

The options would give the "square captain"—appointed by the individual citizens association—the right to purchase homes of residents who agree to the plan.

If a property owner wishes to sell he would notify the "captain," giving him the name of the prospective buyer and the sale price.

If upon investigation the prospective buyer is found to be "undesirable," the captain exercises his option and buys the house, actually not for himself, but for a more "desirable" buyer. The buyer will be found by the association.

Newell admitted that the plan would hold good only so long as there is a "sellers' market" and home buyers are readily available. He emphasized that the whole scheme would depend on voluntary co-operation from home owners in the respective areas.

Newell said he had been asked by the executive committee of the federation to submit a plan as a substitute for restrictive covenants recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. He said his present proposal is legal in all aspects.

Plank Swung To Splash Mud Kills Boy, 10

A 10-year-old boy was fatally injured last night when felled by a board in playful strife with a 13-year-old playmate, police reported.

The victim, Richard Snowden, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Snowden of 1452 Rock Creek Ford rd. nw., died at 8:20 p. m. at Children's Hospital, a half hour after the accident.

Police said he was struck at the base of the skull by a board wielded by a companion in retaliation for a mud-puddle splashing. The board, police said, was swung at the puddle to drench the youngster but slipped from the other's hands.

The two, with another boy and girl, were playing about a mud-puddle at a construction project near St. Luke's Baptist Church near their homes when Richard threw a stone, splashing his older buddy. The latter, in turn, picked up a 6-foot length of board but lost his grip on it when his swing missed the puddle, police said.

He was released in custody of his parents pending results of an autopsy scheduled for noon today by Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner.

Tailor Found In Woods With Wrists Cut

A 53-year-old tailor yesterday was found unconscious in a clump of bushes almost 40 hours after his wrists had been slashed with a razor blade.

Police identified him as Pete Zadona of 211 Underwood st. nw., a tailor at Visek Bros., 709 14th st. nw.

He was discovered in a wooded lot at 14th st. and Arkansas ave. nw. about 11:30 a. m. by William Price, a patient at the Upshur Street Hospital, who said he heard groans while he was out walking, police said.

Zadona told police he went there after finishing work late Wednesday afternoon and had lain there until he was found. He has been suffering from nervousness for some time, he told police.

He was admitted to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation. Dr. Alvin Sweeney, superintendent, said his condition was good. Both of his wrists had inch-long cuts and several tendons had been severed. The main arteries had not been cut, however, and he had bled very little, Dr. Sweeney said.

Rent Rise Favored At 3701 Mass. Ave

Rent increases averaging 9.28 per cent were recommended for 54 apartments at 3701 Massachusetts ave. nw. yesterday by Rent Control Examiner James G. Tyson.

Monthly rents for three-room-and-bath apartments would go up from $53 to $58, for units with five rooms, porch and bath, from $135 to $145, Tyson said.

Owner George Papanicolas had asked a 20 per cent boost in monthly rents, he revealed.

Police Boys' Clubs Set Up New Unit, Expand Another

No. 3 Police Boys' Club, now cramped into quarters within the basement of the Fifth Police Precinct stationhouse, Simmons said, will be moved to new quarters at 9th and K sts. se., formerly the firehouse for No. 18 Engine Company. The board, Simmons said, has voted $10,000 to be used for renovating and equipping the new quarters.

Protester Fined $25 for Illegal Use of Uniform

Municipal Court Judge Walter J. Casey yesterday ruled that a protest rally against the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill was not a ceremonial occasion, and fined Edmund Lang, 37, of Pittsburgh, $25 for illegally wearing an Army uniform at such a meeting.

Lang's lone witness, Virginia Seymour, also of Pittsburgh, and his attorney, Lewis Leeds, protested that the uniform was properly worn because members of Congress were present and the American flag was displayed during the rally at the Sylvan Theater on Wednesday.

Lang served 10 months with an armored division during the war and received a medical discharge, his attorney said. He came to Washington by bus for the demonstration.

House Group Clears Liquor Price-Fix Bill

Fails to Recommend It And Leaves Decision To Full Committee

The House District Judiciary Subcommittee yesterday forwarded the proposed Washington liquor price-fixing bill to the full House District Committee.

Chairman Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.) said the bill was cleared "without recommendation," an action which will give the full District Committee the decision on Monday about whether the bill is to reach the floor.

O'Hara's group approved a bill to let chain stores in Washington sell beer in each of their stores. Now the chains are limited to a license for a single store.

Meanwhile, a Senate District Subcommittee completed formal hearings but deferred action on the optometry regulation bill.

The bill was strongly indorsed by optometrist groups yesterday and opposed by spokesmen for the District Medical Society, and for jewelry firms that furnish optometry services. Health Officer George C. Ruhland said the proposed measure should be changed so that it would not apply to technical personnel employed by doctors.

Bladensburg Man Dies in Traffic Crash

Lee George Duran, 28, 5102 Annapolis rd., Bladensburg, Md., was killed almost instantly last night when his automobile collided with a truck one mile east of Marlboro, Md., on Route 301.

Maryland State Police said Duran was pronounced dead on the scene at 9:15 p. m. by Dr. James I. Boyd, Prince Georges County Medical Examiner. He suffered a crushed skull and chest, police reported.

Driver of the truck, identified by police as Albert S. Woods, jr., of Davidsonville, Md., was not charged.

Russell Cooper, 6, of 1312 B st. ne., was injured seriously yesterday when he was struck by a taxicab at 13th and C sts. ne.

The child was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a fractured right leg and shoulder bone and possible head and internal injuries. Police said he ran into the path of a taxicab poerated by Leon N. Garrett, 31, of 735 4th st. nw.

Meanwhile, Prince Georges County police last night were still investigating the fatal automobile accident Thursday night in which a man tentatively identified as Henry E. Maher of 1119 10th st. nw., was killed.

Patrick Kelly, 47, of 715 6th st. nw., also injured in the crash, was reported not seriously injured yesterday by county police. Kelly is at Prince Georges General Hospital.

Louis F. Stanley, 38, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was driver of the car which crashed into an electric light pole on Marlboro pike about 4 miles from the District line. Stanley, a painter, is being held at the county jail in Upper Marlboro yesterday after he failed to make $1600 bond on charges of manslaughter, reckless driving, driving while drunk and operating without a permit.

Charlottesville, Va., June 4 (AP).—Mrs. Betty Lee Hale, 68, of Charlottesville was killed yesterday afternoon when struck by an eastbound Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad train at a downtown crossing. Tribute Paid to Nisei Heroes

Two American war heroes of Japanese ancestry were buried yesterday with military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

The first Nisei to be so honored were Pfc. Fumitake Nagato of Arlington, Va., and Pfc. Saburo Tanamachi of San Benito, Tex.

Jet planes screamed overhead, men high in military and civilian life delivered eulogies, and more than 100 soldiers marched to muffled drums.

The high point in the ceremony came when the Rev. Andrew Kuroda recited over the biers of his compatriots the Japanese version of the Twenty-third Psalm. It was then that members of the black-clad families of Privates Nagato and Tanamachi broke into sobs.

The two soldiers died on the slopes of the Vosges Mountains in 1944 when together with more than 1000 Nisei of the famed 442d Combat Team they stormed a German-held ridge to rescue 189 men of the "lost Texas battalion." The Nisei losses for that day were 200 killed and 800 wounded.

Nonsectarian religious services were conducted by Maj. Gen. Luther Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains.

Gen. Jacob L. Devers said of the Nisei that theirs was the combat team most feared by the enemy in Europe, that they were the soldiers most decorated for valor everywhere, that they had proved themselves to be "Americans first class."

Gen. Mark W. Clark sent a message read by Gen. Devers. It said: "Valor has won the Nisei a historic place in the annals of American arms."

Representatives Ed Gossett (D., Tex.), Gordon L. McDonough (R., Calif.), and Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) paid high tribute.

The two soldiers had been buried temporarily at a military cemetery in France, but the bodies were brought here in compliance with instructions from their next-of-kin.

The members of their immediate families who were given the place of honor at the reburial were Mr. and Mrs. Bunzo Nagato, Lincoln Nagato, the Misses Mieko and Iseko Nagato, Mrs. Yuri Takino, Miss Virginia Taknio, Mr. and Mrs. Kumazo Tanamachi, Walter Tanamachi and Mrs. Fumi Onishi.

Immediately before departing from the cemetery grounds, the families of the Nisei soldiers exchanged handshakes accompanied by ceremonious bows.

Neighbors Find Girl, 5, Off On Odyssey With Rent Money

By William Klemm—The Washington Post

DAWN HELD ON—The $36.50 intact, Dawn Seeds faces the world with confidence

While neighbors and police searched, Dawn Seeds, 5, wandered 3½ miles yesterday, and never lost her parents' $36.50 rent payment.

The blond tot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Seeds of 812 Yuma st. se., passed lots of ice cream dispensers and strangers, but never loosed her clutch on the shoulder-strap purse containing the money.

"I am going home to see mummy," she said when Miss Kay Stewart and other neighborhood women found her.

"See, I still have it," she told her mother, and then, "Have I had my lunch?"

Dawn hadn't had her lunch, but she got it, before taking an out-of-the-ordinary two-hour nap.

Dawn's odyssey began about 10 a. m. Her sister, Rhonda, 1½ years old, was ill with a bad cold.

The rent was due, and their harassed mother decided that since Dawn had accompanied her to the Highland Dwellings rental office three blocks away before, Dawn could deliver it.

When Dawn was not home again in 45 minutes, Mrs. Seeds became worried, told the neighbors and called the police, who broadcast a lookout.

As reconstructed by her mother, Dawn went to the rent office, but found it changed around and more people present than usual, so left.

Dawn wandered from the housing development, across Nichols ave. past St. Elizabeths Hospital and down the hill into Anacostia, then turned around and was on her way home again when found—about four hours after she left home.

Judge Clears Law Officers In Theft Case

Questions Allegation Policeman, Sheriff Stole Whisky in Raid

Justice Alexander Holtzoff yesterday entered a judgment of acquittal in the District Court in the case of Donald G. Dreger, former Thirteenth Precinct policeman, and Horace L. Thomas, former Front Royal, Va., deputy sheriff, who were on trial on charges of housebreaking and larceny growing out of an alleged "raid" on premises at 2026 Portner pl. nw., last September.

Jesse Morgan testified that after the alleged visit by the two men he missed 60 bottles of whisky and $140 in cash, none of which ever has been recovered.

Defense Attorneys Charles Ford and David Macdonald, in moving for the judgment of acquittal, pointed out that none of the witnesses called by Assistant District Attorney Cecil R. Heflin had testified to having seen either Dreger or Thomas take anything.

After granting the acquittal Justice Holtzoff observed to the jurors that his decision was impelled by the insufficiency of the evidence adduced by the prosecution. He remarked, also, that some of the Government witnesses were of unsavory character and that evidence of this sort ought to be considered by the courts with extreme caution, in order to avoid giving criminal elements an opportunity to bring charges in retaliation for the efforts of policemen and other law enforcement officials.

Following the alleged raid, Dreger was dismissed after a hearing by the Metropolitan Police trial board on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, predicated upon is activity when he was officially on sick leave from the depart. Police officials said yesterday that since Dreger was not dismissed for the alleged raid, his exoneration would not be a factor in consideration of any application that he might file for reinstatement.

Policeman Fined $10 For Driving Car on Duty

Police Pvt. Joseph D. Thornton, attached to the Fifth Precinct, yesterday was fined $10 for driving his private automobile while on duty as a foot patrolman.

He also was given a warning by the Police Trial Board, before whom he appeared, for failing to wear his uniform cap while on duty. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Sergt. Wayland Whittemore, who was acting lieutenant at the Fifth Precinct on May 24, testified that he saw Thornton leave Gallinger Hospital in his car at 2:15 a. m. and 6 a. m. that morning. It is Thornton's duty to check records at the hospital when he patrols his beat, the Board learned.

Thornton said he used the car because he thought it would be more efficient to travel that way from the far end of his beat in the 400 block of 12th st. se. to the hospital at 19th and C sts. se. The walk takes about 35 minutes, he said. He added that he spends most of his time in the business section at the point farthest from Gallinger and that there have been no housebreakings on his beat since he was put on duty there five years ago.

A second hearing for Sergt. Benjamin R. Campbell, attached to the Twelfth Precinct, was postponed to June 18 because his attorneys could not appear yesterday. He is charged with failing to report at the clinic on sick leave March 12 and 13 and with neglect of duty on April 19.

'Baltimore Plan' To Avert Slums Studied for D. C.

Planning Board May Take Steps For Improvement Of Marginal Areas

Possibility that new steps may be taken to improve marginal or substandard housing in the District was foreseen yesterday.

Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, said the commission had been discussing the "Baltimore plan" and its possible application to Washington.

In Baltimore the city government, civic leaders and others joined forces in supporting a minimum health and safety housing law. The law resulted in repair or remodeling of substandard dwellings; razing of unsound housing, sheds and rotting backyard fences, hauling away of rat-infested refuse heaps, and other improvements.

For Areas Adjacent to Slums

General Grant said the plan was being considered for application on the fringes of slum areas designated for redevelopment in a 20-million-dollar project which has been authorized by Congress, but for which no money has been appropriated.

The commission also discussed yesterday further negotiations with the National Housing Authority to have nearly 1200 acres of undeveloped land in the Beltsville neighborhood transferred to the National Park Service without cost. The land would be used for a regional recreation area. General Grant said the commission had received a number of letters favoring the project.

Museum Proposal Rejected

A proposal by the Army Medical Museum, which is seeking a location for a permanent home, that it use the Government-owned northwest corner of Constitution ave. and 23d st. nw. was disapproved because of construction costs on the rocky hillside and the proposed building being out of proportion with surrounding ones.

50 Interested in Housing Indorse 'Baltimore Plan'

The "Baltimore Plan" for eradicating slum conditions by renovation was presented last night to some 50 representatives of organizations concerned with housing here, and won qualified indorsement.

The plan already instituted in Baltimore calls for strict enforcement of sanitation and safety housing ordinances, with provisions for city action to bring about renovation where property owners fail to comply with the law.

A film showing the plan's operations was shown here last night at the 14th annual meeting of the Washington Housing Association, a Community Chest agency, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Carroll Glover, 4200 Massachusetts ave. nw.

After the showing, sponsored by the National Association of Homebuilders, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant 3d, chairman of the National Capital Parks Planning Commission, termed it "a convincing story" and urged that organizations here join in a similar effort. Washington, however, would be "kidding itself" if it considered the plan "a complete answer to our problems," he added.

Col. William H. Cary, jr., District public health engineer, while agreeing that the plan had merits, cautioned that city officials here would meet "very great" resistance to forced renovation measures. He further pointed out that housing would have to be provided for any occupants dispossessed in the project.

Charles C. Koones, chairman of the Washington Board of Trade's housing committee, told those assembled the Trade Board is preparing legislation aimed at forcing property owners to clear up slum conditions.

Residents Urged To Get X-Rayed; Survey Ends Soon

With the Washington Chest X-ray Survey scheduled to end this month, sponsors last night issued an appeal to District residents who have not yet had their chests checked to avail themselves of the free service.

The sponsors, the District Health Department, the United States Public Health Service and the District Tuberculosis Association, reported some 445,000 Washingtonians have been X-rayed. The survey's goal is 600,000 residents, 15 years of age or older.

Survey officials stated that many of the 16 X-ray units in operation throughout the District have reported greatly increased daily totals of chests X-rayed the past two weeks.

Joke's on Him

Old Letter Balks Try for Traffic Light

It was all in fun, but M. O. Eldridge now knows that if you want to be a good District Traffic Director, you have to look at things from all sides.

Some weeks ago, Eldridge wrote to George E. Keneipp, Director of Vehicles and Traffic, asking that a traffic light be installed at 16th and Fuller sts. nw.

In short order, Eldridge had a reply. It was a copy of a letter written by Eldridge three years ago—turning down a citizen's request for a traffic light at 16th and Fuller.

Eldridge, now nearly 75, was retired in December, 1946, as assistant Traffic Director, a job he held since 1927.

Eldridge lives at 1789 Lanier pl. nw., a few blocks from the intersection. Yesterday, he admitted with a wink that he remembered well his rejection of the plea.

"But after all," he observed, "I was 85 per cent a motorist then; today, I'm 85 per cent a pedestrian. It all depends on how you see these things."

Eldridge said he frequently crosses 16th st. at Fuller st., and has waited as long as 20 minutes for traffic to clear.

Since 1941, three persons have been killed at the intersection, police records show. All were pedestrians and all were struck by buses.

There are now traffic lights one block north and one block south of the intersection, with a stop sign facing 16th st. at Fuller. Eldridge's letter to the complaining citizen, dated February 15, 1945, pointed out that an additional stop light, coordinated with the others, still would not cut off traffic sufficiently to remedy the situation.

Keneipp sent Eldridge's 1945 letter to Eldridge mainly as a joke, Keneipp said yesterday. Officially, the office is rechecking conditions at the intersection, but Keneipp indicated the answer again would be "no."

The citizen who originally wrote the complaint to Eldridge, incidentally, was District Court Justice Alexander Holtzoff.

Two runaway horses with lawn mower in tow cut an erratic swath of Government grass along Fort Drive below the 4400 block of Wisconsin ave. nw. at noon yesterday.

Connaughton Praised

John H. Connaughton, new chairman of the Washington Rat Control Committee, has received special congratulations from Interior Secretary J. A. Krug. Krug said, in part:

"Your acceptance of this challenging post is in itself a tribute to your community spirit. Fortunately, Washington is an exception to the general rule throughout the country, where sporadic local rat killings have done little of permanent value in reducing the rat population and rat damage. Our job is to inform the public about the rat menace and organize them to support the health department in its continuous fight against rats every day every year."

The Arlington Public Utilities Commission yesterday asked the A. B. & W. Transit Co. to change its schedules and provide "adequate" regular and rush hour bus service to residents of the area around S. 16th st. and Four Mile Run dr. in Arlington.

Two D. C. Men Take Lives in Three Hours

Robert Newman, 76, retired businessman and father of the Supreme Court Librarian, Miss Helen Newman, yesterday plunged to his death from a second floor window of Sibley Hospital.

Three hours earlier, John F. Knighton, 62, a former Agriculture Department guard, was fatally shot in the bedroom of his home at 319 5th st. ne.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued certificates of suicide in both deaths. Dr. MacDonald said he would confer today with Miss Newman about his decision in her father's death.

Newman, a patient at Sibley Hospital, had been admitted to the hospital at the beginning of April for an illness accompanying old age.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Newman attended St. Louis University and Georgetown University. He came to Washington in 1902 as general manager of the B. P. Clap Ammonia Co., and retired when the business was dissolved in 1928.

Besides his daughter, with whom he resided at 128 Kentucky ave. se., he is survived by a son, Robert H. Newman, jr., of Baltimore, and a sister, Mrs. Rufus L. Taylor of St. Louis.

Knighton was found unconscious on his bed about 3:30 a. m. by his wife, Zora E. Knighton, who was awakened by a shot, police said. The bullet from a .38-caliber revolver found at his side, had entered his right temple. He was pronounced dead an hour later at Casualty Hospital.

Mrs. Knighton told police her husband had been despondent and nervous since he lost his job at the Agriculture Department a year ago.

Bondsman Gets Until June 20 to Produce Suspect

Joseph Goldsmith, who is associated with the William J. O'Neil bonding agency, yesterday was given until June 20 to produce Charles Flowers, 43, alias Oscar Dixon, or face forfeiture of the $2,000 bond he posted for Flowers' appearance in the District Court.

Goldsmith was due to produce Flowers, who has disappeared, yesterday, and in granting the additional time Justice Holtzoff warned him that this was positively his last chance. Flowers was arrested last September on a charge of robbing an automobile that was parked near the Cairo Hotel.

Goldsmith contends that he knew of Flowers police record and would not have posted bond for the man except for the importunities of police officers, who asserted that it would be a great convenience to have Flowers at liberty to indicate to them the scene of other automobile larcenies they claimed he has admitted.

Church Rites Conducted For Mrs. Knott

Mrs. Matilda Hendley Knott, 95, who was famous in Georgetown for her cakes, was buried in Oak Hill Cemetery yesterday.

Funeral services were held in St. Luke's Methodist Church, Wisconsin ave. and 35th st. nw., at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Knott, who would have been 96 years old next month died after eight months illness in her home at 2001 Wisconsin ave. nw., where she had lived for the past 38 years.

Established as a master pastry cook during the 18 years she was in charge of the cafeteria at Western High School, from 1899 to 1917, Mrs. Knott won further acclaim from the many boarders—as many as 28 at one time—who lived with her during the first World War. Later, without using a recipe, Mrs. Knott sold pastries to various Georgetown restaurants and to individuals.

A native of Georgetown, Mrs. Knott lived in Langley, Va., from her third to seventeenth year; was married to the late Charles E. Knott there, and returned to Georgetown permanently in 1870. Her husband was the head miller in William H. Tenney's flour mill. He died in 1892.

Mrs. Knott was the daughter of James Hendley, a Langley farmer, and Mrs. Martha Harrison Hendley, who was a cousin to President William Henry Harrison.

Mrs. Knott was affiliated with St. Luke's for 78 years, the church's oldest member. Twenty-four different ministers held the pastorate during her membership.

Her survivors include her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Hunt, who lived with her and attended her bedside continuously during the long months of illness; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, 76, Dies; Funeral Rites Monday

Judge Joseph Carberry Mattingly, who was reversed but once by Court of Appeals in his 19 years on the bench, died yesterday at his Oxon Hill home.

Judge Mattingly, whose kindly advice carried many a young lawyer through his first trials and who exemplified the "Gentleman of the Old School," was a native of Washington but moved to Oxon Hill with his parents while still a child.

He was graduated from old Georgetown Preparatory School and later received his bachelor and master degrees in law from Georgetown Law School. Following his graduation he became associated with the late Snowden Hill and the late James Rogers with law offices in the old Fendall Building. He was elected judge of the Prince Georges County Circuit Court and took his place on the bench at Upper Marlboro December 27, 1923, and at the end of his 15-year term was reelected and sworn in December 27, 1938.

He served until July 1, 1941, when he retired at the age of 70 and resumed practice of law. He had been a member of the District Bar Association for 53 years last May.

The judge is survived by three daughters, Miss Anne Mattingly and Miss Eleanor Mattingly, who resided with him at the Oxon Hill home, and Mrs. J. Frank Maguire of Arlington, Va., and a sister, Miss Martina Mattingly, of Washington.

Requiem mass will be said at 9:30 a. m. Monday in St. Ignatius Church, Oxon Hill. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Among the honorary pallbearers will be the judges he served with, including Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Maryland Court of Appeals; former Chief Judge Walter Mitchell, Chief Judge William M. Loker, Judge Charles C. Marbury and Judge John B. Gray, jr.

Leland Barton, Blue Law Foe, Is Dead at 80

Leland Barton, one-time presidential candidate, died last night at his home, 326 G st. sw., after a lengthy illness.

Dr. William H. Spicer, who had attended Mr. Barton for the past two years, recalled that Mr. Barton campaigned on the platform of the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws, Inc., in 1932. He was past 80, the physician said.

Former District Peoples Counsel William A. Roberts, who was selected by Mr. Barton as his running mate, said last night that the party's platform favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was nullified when both major political parties also came out with the same plank.

Mr. Barton had two brothers and a sister in Kentucky, Dr. Spicer said. They are being notified of his death.

Austin Denham Dies at Age of 97; In Navy 48 Years

Burbank, Calif., June 4 (AP).—Austin Denham, 97, in the Navy for 48 years and reportedly the oldest holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, died of a heart attack yesterday.

Denham, who retired in 1912 as a seaman first class, won the highest military honor for rescuing six shipmates whose small boat had capsized in shark-infested waters off Nicaragua in 1872. Denham was attached to the battleship Kansas, and made six trips between ship and boat in bringing his mates to safety.

Born in England, Denham came to the United States at 12, and as soon as he was old enough enlisted in the Navy.

Correction

The Washington Post yesterday in a story about the arrest of three youths on robbery charges, identified one of the trio's victims, Mrs. Matilda Burch, 1310 Longfellow st. nw., as a waitress. This was incorrect. Mrs. Burch is a telephone operator at the Hay-Adams House. The Washington Post regrets the error.

Eadie, matron of honor, was gowned in a blue dotted marquisette dress worn over hoop skirt. She wore a blue Colonial bonnet and carried spring flowers. Mrs. Betty Eckert and Miss Mary Clunk, bridesmaids, wore pink dotted marquisette with matching bonnets and carried spring flowers.

Richard Rau was best man for his brother and James W. Eadie and Joseph Bowling were ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride. After a honeymoon at Ocean City, N. J., the couple will live in Washington.

Princess Elizabeth Still Receives Wedding Presents

Associated Press News Features

London—Six months after Princess Elizabeth's wedding her staff still is giving away food sent her from overseas.

Gift parcels keep rolling in from the United States, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Egypt and India.

Their contents of foodstuffs ordinarily denied rigidly rationed Britons are distributed to groups of the less privileged. Among them are old-age pensioners, widows supporting children, invalids and orphans.

Between 10 and 15 of the princess' helpers are busy much of the time unpacking parcels, many outsize, and making up new ones for delivery to designees throughout the country. Many thousands—the exact number was not estimated—have thus been passed out.

"It looks as if we'll be doing it most of the summer," commented one of Elizabeth's aides.

Luncheon Boosts Jewish Appeal Fund

Approximately 1000 women turned out at the $36.60 minimum plate luncheon yesterday, sponsored by the women's division of the United Jewish Appeal. Many gave additional amounts, bringing the day's total to about $38,000, which will go for overseas relief and Palestine immigration.

The luncheon was the climax to the division's drive to obtain its quota of $250,000. In addition, some $20,000 has been raised by general solicitations, which brings the division's quota up to the set goal. Still more contributions, however, are pouring in.

Idea of the 36-60 luncheon was for each person to contribute at least 10 cents a day to the humanitarian cause. At a previous $100 plate luncheon approximately $192,000 was raised for the appeal.

Mrs. Fanny Barzilai, who spent several years in Naxi concentration camps, gave a dramatic, heartbreaking story of her experiences. She told how the European Jews were starved and killed in gas chambers under the Hitler persecutions.

In an appeal for funds to the United Jewish Appeal, she declared, "Two hundred and fifty million dollars isn't too much to be raised among the Jews of America. The six million Jews killed by Hitler didn't cost anything. But the remaining ones are expensive.

"I wonder if it isn't necessary for a few more million Jews to die before some of you will recognize the importance of Palestine as a state," she continued. "The Jews in Palestine will fight as long as there is one Jew left in Europe who wants to go there.

"American Jews will have to provide bullets, tents and trucks for the Jewish army in Palestine," she concluded.

Mrs. Henry Hirsch, general solicitation chairman, presided at the luncheon. The National Anthem was sung by Cantor Jacob Barkin. Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld, co-chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, pronounced the benediction.

BACK STAGE HAT BAR: In her dressing room at the National Theater, blonde Mable McCallum, member of the cast of "Harvey," indulges in a favorite feminine pastime—that of trying on hats.

A tiny miss who wears a size 11 dress, Miss McCallum disproves the theory that big hats are only for big girls. She is able to do so because of her long, slender face and small features which she softens by wearing her hair in generous, fluffy curls.

Howard Hodge created the huge black cartwheel chappeau which she finds pleasing at right. It is made of French horsehair, braided in an intricate manner on the crown. A delicate rose colored flower and green ribbon, both imported, lend touches of color to this garden party hat.

At left, Miss McCallum tries a demure bonnet of white milan hemp. Its trimmings are green velvet ribbons and a veil, sprinkled with flowers, which may be tied under the chin or worn draped over the shoulder. Both hats are available at Erlebacher, Inc.

To Some Women, Poor Dears, a Hat's Just a Hat

A GRL'S best friend is a hat. It can do wonderful things for her looks and morale. But did you know that some women wear hats because

It can keep your head nice and dry in the rain and now.

It can pretend your skin is magnolia. (Try a hat's veil.)

It can uplift face lines that are downward bent. (Upcurving brim.)

It can deepen the baby-blue of your eyes. (Blue hat.)

It can soften a sharp profile (flower hat); can broaden a receding chin, minimize a poor feature, play up a good one.

And still other women wear hats because:

It can lie like a trouper about your age.

It can pick you up when your best friend has let you down.

It can introduce you as a saint—or a siren.

It can help make a gent throw his hat in the ring.

It can be the one bit of nonsense in your new all-sense wardrobe.

Preparing the Little Patient

Mother Can Ease Child's Hospital Stay

By Margaret Jane Suydam

BEING a patient in a hospital yourself and being the mother of a child patient there are two entirely different experiences. One does not prepare you for the other.

What psychologists call your "identification with your child" may make you suffer as much as if you were the patient yourself.

If you were a reasonable patient when you were sick, you probably were given kind and solicitous care. If you are the mother of a young patient, you may find yourself in a hospital where you are regarded as an unwelcome nuisance.

This curious feeling toward the mothers of small patients is not one that is fostered by the hospital. Progressive hospitals, on the contrary, are actively interested in the contribution that the mother's presence may make to the recovery of the young. The idea that mothers are at least a nuisance, at worst bad for children seems to have been planted in the minds of many nurses by the fact that, in practice, children are often easier to handle when mother isn't present.

As you read this, you are probably not planning a trip to the hospital with your child. But if an emergency, accident or illness, or a planned trip for observation or operation should take you there, some information on how to prepare the child for the experience and how to conduct yourself in the circumstances will make the child's stay there easier for him, for you and for the people whose job it is to help him get well.

Both mothers and nurses have the same goal for Johnny: They want him to be a healthy boy again. He won't benefit by conflict between them. As mothers, we've turned to the superior facilities of the hospital to do a job we aren't equipped to do. It is up to us to adapt ourselves to it more successfully than some of the nurses think we do.

Actually, it is easy to see why we don't quite have the nurse's point of view. The nurse's job is as regulated and disciplined as the Army. The mother's job is unregulated and unpredictable. A nurse has been trained to accuracy. Life and death may hang on the skill and precision with which she performs her job.

Children React to Worry

When a mother takes her child to the hospital she naturally feels that her child is in a new and frightening situation and wants to give him as much reassurance and affection as possible. She may feel that the nurses are too ready to sacrifice Johnny's comfort and peace of mind to the great god of hospital efficiency. Unaccustomed to strict regulations in her life, she is likely to feel that they are quite trivial compared with her child's happiness. Her own worry conveyed to Johnny makes him more fearful, more reluctant to cooperate with the nurses.

Those who specialize in the care of children today believe that we must know more about well children in order to deal intelligently with sick ones. They believe that they must know the whole child to do their best with the small patient.

As a part of this program of treating the whole child you are asked an amazing number of questions about your child, his family and his home life when he is admitted to the hospital. Calling him by his nickname is one way that they can make him feel more at home in the hospital.

Tips on Breaking the News

Reconciling what must be done for him in the interests of his physical well-being and presenting it in a fashion that will not disturb his emotional well-being is a difficult task. Sometimes mothers help. Sometimes they don't.

From the director of nursing education of the children's hospital we visited we got the following tips on how to prepare a child for the hospital experience. It begins long before you know that you may have to take him there.

BUILD UP A FEELING OF FRIENDLINESS FOR DOCTORS AND NURSES:

The regular trips to the doctor to have your well baby checked accustom him to the doctor's office. If he learns to regard his doctor as an interested friend he'll find comfort in his presence when he is sick. Never destroy this feeling by using a trip to the doctor as a threat of discipline.

DONT TELL HIM THAT "SHOTS" WON'T HURT:

The "shots" that immunize the youngster against communicable disease do hurt a little. Tell him that it might stick like a pin, but that is to keep him from being sick later. If he knows that you have been truthful about such things in the past he'll trust you in the hospital.

BE CAREFUL HOW YOU CAUTION HIM ABOUT DANGER:

Never say, "Come out of the street or you'll get your leg cut off and have to go to the hospital." That suggests that the hospital is a place you go for punishment. You want him to think of it as a place you go to get well. "Come out of the street so you won't be hurt" is enough.

DON'T LET HIM OVERHEAR YOUR FRIENDS TELL ABOUT THEIR OPERATIONS:

They are apt to dwell on the serious difficulties they experienced. A child hearing stray scraps of conversation that he does not completely understand often builds up fantastic worries.

AVOID OPERATIONS BETWEEN ONE AND FOUR YEARS, IF POSSIBLE,

Psychiatrists believe that separation from the mother during these three years causes the child greater emotional distress than at other ages. If your child must have an operation during this period in his life, try to take him to a hospital that permits mothers to stay with their children in the same room.

BE CALM AND MATTER-OF-FACT ABOUT A TRIP TO THE HOSPITAL.

Parents can't help being worried, but try not to let the child know you are upset. If he's going for an operation, tell him ahead of time that he is going to the hospital, but don't give him too much time to worry about it.

What to Tell Them

For instance, the child who is going to have a tonsillectomy might be told: "You had so many sore throats last winter that the doctor thinks we should have your tonsils out. You may not have so many sore throats and you won't want to miss Tommy's Christmas party as you did last year. We'll stay all night at the hospital, so we'll pack your suitcase.

A discussion of what goes into the suitcase and whether we'll take a favorite toy along keeps his mind on familiar and pleasant aspects of the trip.

"When we get to the hospital, you'll undress and put on a funny nightgown with strings on the back of it. Then you'll have your temperature taken just as you do at home. The doctor will listen to your heart with his stethoscope as he does in the office. Then they'll bring a bed on wheels and the nurse will take you upstairs where Dr. Brown will be waiting for you.

If It's an Emergency

"Then you'll go to sleep. When you waken, you'll be in a bed in the hospital and I'll be there with you. "(If this is true.) "Your throat may feel a little sore, but that will last only a little while, and then they may give you ice cream for your supper."

If an emergency takes you to the hospital, and the child is awake and conscious on the trip, you may be able to help him by telling him what the inside of the hospital will look like and something about other children who are gettting well there.

TAKE A FEW TOYS FROM HOME.

The familiar and loved playthings help to bring some of his home to the hospital with him. A knitting bag which can hang on the bed to hold them is a good idea, and suggestions to the child about taking out a few things at a time and putting them back when he is ready for something else, may help. If the hospital does not provide tables or trays for the toys, you may be able to borrow a tray with legs to set on the bed.

And here are tips to mother for adapting herself to the hospital regime to make it easy for all:

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN THE PEOPLE TAKING CARE OF THE CHILD.

The resident doctors and nurses have been trained for their jobs. Don't tell them how to do it. If you feel critical, discuss your opinion with your own doctor whom you know and in whom you have confidence.

WHEN YOU WANT INFORMATION, ASK THE HEAD NURSE.

She is your hostess in the hospital. She is the authority in charge and she knows the answers. Don't stop other nurses in the hallway for information or help. They have been assigned definite duties and are expected to carry them out promptly.

DON'T TAKE FOOD TO THE CHILD.

The children are fed carefully planned diets served at regular hours. They don't need other food. If a mother in a private room brings food for herself, the child will want some and it may be something the doctor would not want him to have. Food also attracts vermin, against which the hospital constantly wages war.

RESPECT "NO SMOKING" SIGNS.

Even if your child is in a private room and doesn't mind the smoke, it may not be safe because you don't know where an oxygen tank is in use.

TAKE SOMETHING TO THE HOSPITAL TO KEEP YOU BUSY.

You may feel useless letting the nurses do so much for him when they are so busy and you have so little to do. However, you should ask the head nurse before you help. Otherwise you might deprive a student nurse of experience she needs. Knit, read, mend or write letters—and relax. Good for you and better for the child.

IF YOUR CHILD IS IN THE WARD, DON'T WORRY TOO MUCH ABOUT HIM.

He may be upset when you leave him or cry to go home while you are there. When he sees you, he misses you and he knows that he can count on your sympathy. Actually, the other children around interest him and keep him from being lonely. Often he's quite content after you are out of sight, despite his stormy farewell.

About Birthday Cake For Allergic Child

My little girl has her fourth birthday on June 25. She is allergic to wheat, oats and eggs in any form. Could you suggest a recipe for a cake that I could make which does not call for any of these ingredients? W. E. S.

An uncooked fruitcake might serve your purpose.

UNCOOKED FRUITCAKE

1 pound seeded raisins, cut fine.
1 pound dates, cut fine.
1 pound figs, cut fine.
1 pound nuts, cut fine.
Grated rind of ½ orange.
Grated rind of ½ lemon.
Dash of salt.
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.
½ teaspoon ginger.

Combine fruit with nuts, rind and salt and mix thoroughly. Combine sugar and spices and mix thoroughly with fruits. Add orange juice and press into buttered loaf or tube center pan lined with waxed paper or aluminum foil. Smooth over top, cover with several thicknesses of waxed paper or aluminum foil and keep in refrigerator several days before serving. Slice thin, approximate yield 2 (8-inch) loaves. For that birthday cake, this could be iced lightly with a confectioner's sugar icing.

Or, for something which would serve as a cake and which the children would enjoy, mold a fruit jello or an eggless bavarian cream in a tube center pan. When ready to serve, turn out on a large serving plate and "frost" with whipped cream. Candles on holders could be stuck into this and it would be a "surprise" birthday cake.

My 13-year-old son flatly refuses to wear a new bright orange-colored rubberized rain coat. Is there any way I can paint this to a more "manly" color, say kelly green? E. C. S.

I'm sorry, it seems there is no really satisfactory way to change the color of a rubberized rain coat. Here's a thought which you might pass on to your son: The school boy patrols in many areas wear yellow-orange rain coats. This color was chosen because of its high visibility on dark cloudy days.

In an answer to a recent question, you didn't mention the danger of mice to the woman who expects to store her furniture somewhere in the West. From sad experience I know that mice favor books at least, and would suggest mouse-tight boxes E. C. S.

Thank you, E. C. S., for this suggestion.

Can you tell me how to clean an old brick fireplace so the white mortar will stay white? E. C. S.

Scrub the bricks as well as the white mortar between them with a stiff brush and scrubbing powder. A mechanic's hand soap containing sand is also good for this. When thoroughly clean, rinse well with clear water to remove every trace of the cleaner. If the soil and discoloration is too deep to be removed this way, the brickwork can be rubbed with a block of carborundum. This grinding will expose a fresh smooth surface. When thoroughly clean, the surface can be gone over with cream or colorless wax to prevent dirt settling into it. This will do much to keep the mortar white.

Helpful Notes

After brushing the upholstered furniture, go over it with a wet chamois, wrung very dry, to remove all lint.

White enamel cooking utensils may be cleaned by dipping a wet cloth in baking soda and rubbing over the enamel.

The thermos jug may carry hot soup as well as hot coffee and prove more nourishing in the packed lunch.

Plan your window boxes to correspond with your draperies inside as well as blending with the house outside. Then you have a lovely view from either direction.

Kids Cast Enthusiastic Vote for Toy Club

Sylvia Hanks of 1801 I st. nw. recently asked whether there was really such a thing as a local Toy-of-the-Month Club. The answer comes from Ruth Horn of 3406 13th st. nw., and Post Reporter Jimmy Graham.

Yes, Sylvia, you'll find it in the Professional Building, Hyattsville, Md.:

Mrs. Horn says she has three little girls who can hardly wait to find out what surprises are in store for them each month, and that the cost is very nominal.

When I was a boy, these modern services were unknown. But even then, we followed the same basic principle.

The kids would be taken downtown "to pick out their toys," and we had a wonderful time making our selections.

But when our decisions were announced, we were usually told that our choice was too expensive or impractical. So we wound up with whatever the grownups intended to buy us in the first place.

The Toy-of-the-Month Club idea merely formalizes the element of surprise.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

You've played Good Samaritan so many times, maybe you can do another good turn.

No. 814 22d st. nw. is an apartment house which is to be torn down in a few days. All tenants are forced to vacate.

Those with children have been unable to find new quarters. Is there something you can do to help them?

Isabel Lewis.
818 22d st. nw.

Dear Mrs. Lewis:

Although I cannot help personally, I'm printing your letter because it is typical of many which come to this desk, and because there is a simple solution in most cases of this kind.

A classified ad in this newspaper will very often turn up a satisfactory house or apartment within a week.

With the housing situation as bad as it is, you may find that hard to believe. But if these folks put my advice to the test they may find themselves pleasantly surprised. Bill

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two black kittens, 2 months old." (Jackson 1541-M after 6:30 p. m.)

"Four beautiful kittens, 6 weeks old." (Shepherd 0939.)

"Snow white female rabbit; also two kittens." (Temple 9278).

"Cutest kitten I've ever seen." (Sligo 4946).

"Affectionate, black, female kitten." (Victor 7899).

"Mother cat, good mouser, and two kittens." (Taylor 0188).

RAIN CHECK

A young man who works for the Democratic National Committee dropped around to visit a friend Saturday afternoon, and found the friend washing windows. The tall, old-fashioned type of window, which is quite a task to clean.

Being an obliging young fellow, he rolled up his sleeves and pitched in. When the job was finished, at long last, the lady from across the way introduced herself.

"I've been watching you," she said. "You did a very fine job on those windows, and I've been wondering whether you do this sort of work regularly—and whether I could hire you to wash my windows."

The young man from the Democratic Committee smiled politely and replied:

"No, I'm afraid I wouldn't be interested in taking on any window-washing jobs." Then, as he afterthought, he murmured: "At least not until after November."

PERSONAL NOTES

Frances May, 610 S. 25th st., Arlington, Va.: Yep, I heard from Ogunjimi, too. Didn't use the letter because I had no way of checking first, to make sure it wasn't a racket of some kind.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

Hey, boss, isn't it about time for my vacation?

JUNE BRIDEGROOM

It's June time, it's spoon time
'Mid flowers in bloom.
The bride leads her mate on,
To altar and doom.

She's happy, he's not; but
How was he to know
The fate that is planned by
A girl for her beau?

Their friends are the kind that
Would joke in a tomb.
They pay their respects to
"The bride and the GLOOM."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Field Marshal Smuts, the 78-year-old former Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, will not alter his policies despite his defeat in last week's elections. "I stand in awe of only two men," he has said, "Wilson and Gandhi—not for those who can arouse a nation's enthusiasm, but those who can do what they think is right, in the teeth of the nation's opposition." . . . At the first U. N. Conference, when a young colleague said how glad he was for this opportunity to work beside a man of such wisdom and experience, Smuts replied: "It may be a privilege to be with a Yesterday such as I am, but I consider it a greater privilege to be with a Tomorrow such as you are."

For the first time in many years, four members of a noted theatrical family will be appearing in the same show. It will happen in summer-stock, when Ernest Truex, his two sons and his wife, will do a show . . . Ed Laughlin, former leader of Tammany Hall, who has been mentioned for the Surrogate's job which pays $25,000 a year, says he can't afford it. He has seven children.

Maxwell Anderson will leave for Hollywood to work on "The Robe" as soon as Howard Hughes gets away from airports and arrives at an RKO office to sign the contract . . . Arnold Ginsrich, the former editor of Esquire and Coronet, who has been living in Switzerland since the end of the war, just finished a novel about post-war Hungary . . . Sherman Billingsley, who came from Oklahoma to N. Y. to make a fortune at the Stork Club, could have saved himself the fare East. He learned last night that oil has been discovered on the Oklahoma farm where his father lived and reared the family.

Arthur Lesser, who promoted the Maurice Chevalier tour, will produce a full revue, "Fifth Avenue," whose sketches will cover the street from Washington Sq. to Harlem. Gordon Jenkins will write some of the music for it . . . Geoffrey Hellman is writing a New York profile on Benjamin Sonnenberg, the fabulous squire of Gramercy Park.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Clark Quietly Probes 2 Senators

By Drew Pearson

If you notice certain Senators moving to curtail the Justice Department's appropriations, here is the reason why. Attorney General Tom Clark has been quietly probing the activities of two Senators — Owen Brewster, Maine Republican, and Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat.

Clark

When Senator Ferguson, Michigan Republican, with a great record for uncovering graft in Detroit, ducked the job of investigating his own colleagues, Tom Clark got busy.

Brewster has been shown up as the bosom pal of Pan American Airways, has lobbied brazenly for them, has accepted free Pan American airplane rides all over the map (Senators are forbidden by law to accept free railroad rides), yet Senator Ferguson refused to probe his fellow Republican.

Thomas of Oklahoma has also been manipulating commodity-market prices, finally admitted he had been speculating—after lying about it for two years—and keeps himself surrounded by a queer assortment of lobbyists, racketeers and a former convict. However, the great investigator from Michigan, Senator Ferguson, has not dared to delve into the operation of his colleague from Oklahoma.

Attorney General Clark, on the other hand, hired a young New York lawyer, Irving Kauffman, who, despite acute attacks of long-weekenditis, has laboriously managed to unravel part of the manifold operations of Senator Thomas, and has taken a polite peek at the lobbying of Senator Brewster.

The bill of complaint lodged against Ralph Moore, Texas lobbying friend of Senator Thomas, is the first tangible Justice Department move resulting from this probe.

Air Badly Needed

Actually, this has only scratched the surface. Thomas' network of speculating friends includes the notorious Mickey Rosner, first known to the police in the Lucky Luciano case; Marty Heflin, brother of movie actor Van Heflin; Tom Linder, the speculating agricultural commissioner of Georgia; Dyke Cullum, the Texas lobbyist; J. E. McDonald, agricultural commissioner of Texas, and Bob Harriss, the Wall Street operator, who handled Father Coughlin's silver purchases and also advised Senator Thomas on his silver speculation.

Whether these gentlemen violated any law remains to be seen. Certainly, by using speeches and resolutions of a United States Senator to influence the commodity market, they violated a lot of business ethics, and a report on their operations not only should be aired, but should be sent to the Chicago Board of Trade and the Securities and Exchange Commission for proper action.

Merry-Go-Round

The Democratic National Committee is now so broke it is already spending money paid to the Democrats by the City of Philadelphia for bringing the Democratic convention to the City of Brotherly Love . . . The Eisenhower boom is quiet but by no means dead . . . Eisenhower-for-President supporters paid a secret call on members of the New York Democratic Committee recently, got no official commitments, but private encouragement to go ahead with the draft-Eisenhower movement . . .

Dark-Horse Halleck

One dark horse you don't hear much about, but who is champing at the bit waiting for Philadelphia is likable, go-getting Congressman Charlie Halleck of Indiana. The ambitious House majority leader has been holding secret conferences and lining up political support almost alongside his friend, dark-horse Speaker Martin—though Joe doesn't know too much about it.

The place where Halleck holds his political conclaves is a private cocktail room in a corner of the Capitol. Officially this hideaway is listed as a "storeroom." Privately it is called the "clinic."

One frequent and significant visitor at the "clinic" has been Joe Pew of the Sun Oil Co., the Sun Shipbuilding Co., owner of various farm publications and a power in Pennsylvania politics. Other visitors to Halleck's clinic are lobbyists for the National Association of Manufacturers who drop in for a drink and some private advice as to how their dark horse should vote on important issues.

Two years ago Charlie Halleck was a relatively obscure Congressman of moderate means who lived quite modestly. But since he became majority leader 18 months ago, Charlie drives the most expensive Cadillac on Capitol Hill—a super, sleek convertible which attracts sightseers outside the House of Representatives.

Note—One of the boys quietly backing Halleck for President is Jim Kemper, national GOP treasurer, a leading Midwest isolationist and head of a chain of big insurance companies.
